Rockwell's Body Unclaimed

(See also page 3)

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A former Nazi firebrand accused of slaying George Lincoln Rockwell was held under heavy police guard today while Rockwell's body lay unclaimed in hospital.

An autopsy showed Rockwell, 49, founder and leader of the American Nazi party, was killed by a bullet wound in the chest.

Five hours after the shooting in the parking lot of a small shopping centre, police filed a murder charge against John C. Patler, 29, formerly No. 4 in the small party's hierarchy.

Officials said Patler, who is being held on $50,000 bond, has received no visitors.

Meanwhile, Rockwell's heir apparent vowed "we will carry on."

Matthias Koehl, second in command to Rockwell, told reporters: "I don't know of anyone who can fill his shoes . . . but we'll all do everything we can to carry on."

Koehl said Patler was expelled from the party last April because of his "Bolshevik leanings." He had been a member of the group which directs its hate toward Negroes and Jews, almost since its founding in 1958.

EDITED MAGAZINE

Rockwell once described Patler as the party's propaganda minister and Patler edited the organization's magazine Stormtrooper until early this year.

Patler, also of Arlington, was to appear in court Monday to determine the date of his preliminary hearing.

Rockwell was shot after leaving a coin-operated laundry in the shopping centre, one block from party headquarters. The shots, fired from a low roof over a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half mile from the scene. Police would not say whether a weapon had been found or whether he had made a statement.

IDAHO FIRES APPROACHING 'DISASTER'

Fires continued to rage out of control in the U.S. Pacific Northwest's timberlands today in what Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson said may develop into one of the area's worst forest fire disasters in more than 50 years.

Samuelson, who summoned legislative leaders to an emergency meeting in Boise today, said tinder-dry forest conditions were similar to those of 1910 "when north Idaho was practically burned up."

The governor estimated it was costing Idaho $150,000 per day to put out the fires, "and the outlook seems to grow more gloomy every day."

Dief Youth Primed For Convention Bid

By The Canadian Press

With less than 10 days to go, things seem to be warming up for the Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention.

While the nine declared candidates were on the road, youthful supporters of undeclared John Diefenbaker served notice that they plan a demonstration for the party leader.

And, if they are not permitted to make it on the convention floor, as provided in the convention rules, "we'll ring the Maple Leaf Gardens," said Keith Martin, co-chairman of the Youth for Diefenbaker committee.

"We are determined to have some kind of demonstration whether Mr. Diefenbaker runs or not."

But he and colleague Bill Hatton said they'll keep their precise plans for a demonstration secret.

Meanwhile, the leadership candidates were scattered in every region of the country.

They'll be moving into Toronto toward the end of next week to campaign among delegates attending policy session Sept. 4-6 and the leadership contest Sept. 7-9.

Gene Rheaume, convention executive secretary, announced that the 2,343 voting delegates may be swelled to 2,450 with the addition of some participants in the recent Montmorency Falls, Que., policy advisory conference held by the party as a convention prelude.

Among the candidates, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba did some heavy road work in eastern Ontario, appearing at a press conference in Ottawa then hitting Cornwall, Smiths Falls and Kingston in search of delegate support.

At each point, Mr. Roblin stressed the need for national unity, a system of spending priorities to curb runaway taxation, and a shift to helping those in real need rather than helping everyone through universal welfare programs.

Davie Fulton and Alvin Hamilton worked on Montreal area delegates.

Mr. Fulton said that if he leads his party back to power he'll try to modify but not abolish the medical care insurance plan scheduled to come into effect July 1, 1968.

He maintained creative Canadians are restrained by policies of the Liberal government.

ANDREAS PAPANDREOU

Former Greek Minister Faces Trial

ATHENS (Reuters) — Andreas Papandreou, a former government minister, tonight was committed for trial on charges of high treason by an Athens court, it was reliably learned.

Andreas, son of George Papandreou, leader of the Union of the Centre party and a former premier, was accused of being involved in the "Aspida"—the Shield—plot.

He was first accused and jailed April 26, a few days after the military takeover in Greece.

The indictment, issued after months of investigation, also charged 10 other civilians in connection with the Aspida case.

Aspida was the name given to a group which included 15 army officers jailed from two to 18 years last March for plotting to overthrow the regime and establish a non-aligned police for the country.

23 Africans Slain In Rhodesia Battle

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Rhodesian security forces have killed 23 African terrorists and captured 26 more in three days of fierce fighting north of Bulawayo, Rhodesia's second largest city, the government announced today.

The communique, first official word on renewed outbreak of terrorist fighting, said Rhodesian forces suffered six killed and 12 wounded in the action.

The communique disclosed jet planes had been used against the terrorists, members of banned nationalist organizations which have vowed to overthrow the regime of Premier Ian Smith of Rhodesia and other white-ruled governments in Africa.

The government statement gave no indication of the size of the terrorist forces. Reports reaching Salisbury said it numbered more than 100.

'BE COOL, CALM AND GRACEFUL'

Hippies Bow to Park Ban

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

The Victoria Youth Council has urged young people to stay away from Beacon Hill Park Sunday following a 5-2 decision by city council banning a proposed love-in.

At a special meeting Friday, the council supported the stand taken earlier by acting-mayor Robert Baird and rejected a youth council request to hold the event.

The love-in was to have been the climax of youth week—seven days of forums, meetings, paint-ins, clean-ins and discussion planned to increase dialogue within the community.

A youth council statement published Friday night counselled youngsters to stay away from the park on Sunday.

"No, Virginia, there isn't a love-in Sunday," the statement said. "But be cool and calm and graceful.

"Let's not be guilty of the same intolerance our aldermen demonstrated today.

"If we show up in dozens or in hundreds we'll only antagonize people."

Ald. Stewart said the question was one of "fair play."

"I am not a hippy, nor do I subscribe to their way of life. But this matter is more involved than that."

"We are discussing what council's decision should be when any duly constituted group makes a request.

"If we are going to reject their application because of bias and prejudice, then we have gone a long way back to the dark ages."

Ald. Stewart, who attached several conditions to his motion to approve the request, said he was confident the young people would not only observe all the laws, but would not spoil other events in the park.

Ald. Wilson made a brief statement supporting the request.

"The park, as all parks in the city, should be available

'Free Quebec' Gang Attacks Canada Train

Egg Toss Angers Marchand

MONTREAL (CP) — About 20 self-styled separatists, tossing eggs and leaflets and shouting separatist slogans, today broke up a ceremony marking the arrival of the Confederation train at suburban Dorval.

It was the first time since the train started out from Western Canada in the winter that there has been a direct attack on it.

The youths began throwing leaflets calling for a "free Quebec" just as Manpower Minister Marchand began speaking. Minutes after three eggs crashed to the platform.

One youth was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace. He ran in front of the platform and tossed leaflets high into the air before being hustled off by police.

On the platform with Mr. Marchand were Bobby Gimby, composer of the song Ca-na-da, and a group of children.

In another incident, a young woman dressed in a green dress grabbed about 50 pamphlets describing the history and the purpose of the train, tore them up and threw the pieces into the crowd of several hundred people.

SLOGANS SUNG

During the singing of O Canada the youths, gathered to one side of the platform, sang out their own slogans. One slogan clearly heard was: "Les Quebecois marchent a sa victoire"—The people of Quebec are marching to victory.

The disturbance began as the group of dignitaries assembled on the platform shortly after 11 a.m.

The leaflets were scattered as Mr. Marchand finished congratulating the city of Dorval on its 300th anniversary. He reacted with angry outbursts, each of them greeted by cheers from the group of youths.

After the manpower minister declared the 15-unit train open to the public, Mr. Gimby and the children stepped to the main area of the stage and began singing the famous song.

Most Powerful Rocket Poised

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Saturn V, the most powerful rocket ever built, moved today toward its launching pad on the back on a diesel-powered transporter that resembled a giant mechanical turtle.

The rocket is scheduled for an October test launching, the first of a series that will qualify it to boost U.S. astronauts towards the moon in two or three years.

Towering 364-feet above the huge transport the Saturn and its Apollo spacecraft were an impressive sight. More than 200 space officials and reporters gathered to see it moved from the huge assembly building. Also perched upright on the transporter was a 380-foot mobile launching tower to service the rocket.

When the rocket leaves the ground, it will generate 7,500,000 pounds of thrust from five first-stage engines. This is nearly five times greater than the thrust of any previous U.S. booster and is believed to be at least twice the thrust of anything fired by the Russians.

More Unrest In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (CP)—Police fired tear gas to disperse some 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators in central Hong Kong today as political unrest continued in the British colony.

The demonstrators, chanting left-wing slogans, blocked off busy streets at lunch hour close to the heart of the city.

Only One Week Remains To Enter Photo Contest

This contest has seven days.

Amateur photographers have only one week left in which to enter The Times snapshot contest to compete for travel and cash prizes.

Sixth of the seven weekly contests closed at noon today and the final week ends Sept. 2.

Winners of $10 prizes in the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animals of the World, and the World in Which We Live, will be named early next week.

At the end of the seventh week, judges will take the seven weekly winners in each category and select three who will be awarded $25 prizes and also chances at the big prizes.

First prize is a trip around the world for two for 30 days with $1,000 in spending money.

Other travel prizes include trips for two, with spending money, to Europe, Mexico, Hawaii and the West Indies.

In addition there are seven $100 prizes for Canadians who aren't lucky enough to win travel prizes and there's a special $200 prize for the best Canadian print submitted.

Only black and white prints by amateurs are acceptable. Prints should be no more than 10 inches long on the largest dimension.

INSIDE CITY HALL

By JIM HUME

Then there was the long-haired, bare-foot fellow who got whipped but still wouldn't change his views on society and life in general.

Hume

He wasn't a hippy because he also believed that at the end of a long day a man should be clean.

He wasn't a hippy because he also believed that a man should actively — and that's a key word—strive for the principles in which he believed.

He Was Different

But he was different, and he was rejected by the organized, law-abiding councils of men.

He was rejected because he was different, because he could not, even in his wildest imagination, subscribe to the generally accepted way of life.

He wore a beard and had long hair over his shoulders.

That did't upset people too much.

What did upset them was that he insisted on challenging the accepted way of life. Once or twice, maybe more than that, he called the law makers hypocrites.

Now we all know that people, however right they may be, just cannot do that. After all if people are entrusted with making the law they must be right.

So this fellow we're talking about ran into trouble with the law and the law makers.

Not that he was ever defeated in open argument with those who made the law. As a matter of fact in the few recorded show-downs he had with them he won hands down.

Inevitable Happened

They couldn't answer him, but neither were they prepared to admit that their concept of law and order should be changed.

The inevitable happened.

Organized society and the non-conformist clashed.

The young fellow, he was about 32 years of age at the time, was asked if he would like to do an about face and, well, to put it politely, fit in with accepted views.

He not only wouldn't, but also refused to stop preaching what amounted to open rebellion against the rules of society then in existence.

So, on a trumped-up charge, they dragged him into court.

That the court was illegally constituted, that the witnesses against him were paid to testify, didn't really matter. The point was they had to get him off the streets. He and his handful of followers. They were a nuisance, disturbing to conscience and, damn it, they wouldn't conform.

No problems at the trial. Asked to recant, he refused. A simple matter, therefore, to find him guilty.

Then they had him whipped, these law abiding, sanctimonious citizens who believed in the good, Godly way of life.

Too Much

They were not unreasonable men, neither were they lacking in charity. At any time during the whipping he could, by simply saying he was sorry and would now walk their chosen path, have halted the lash.

But he wouldn't change.

As a matter of fact he was a very sad man. He believed in what he was saying, and unlike some of the law makers, could not violate his principles just to be popular.

So he took his whipping without a murmur. But he refused to change his thinking or his beliefs.

And that was a little too much for the council.

So they crucified him.

Britons Attempt To Leave Peking

LONDON — Britain's charge d'affairs in Peking, Donald Hopson, is trying to arrange for the 35 British women and children belonging to the mission to be flown out of China.

He has already sent a message to the foreign office in London saying that he is trying to make airline reservations. It is presumed that he has applied to the Chinese authorities for exit visas, which are needed by anyone leaving the country.

It seems certain that the only way of leaving Peking is by air. The Chinese authorities are never very willing to let diplomats travel by train, as it would enable them to see too much of the country and its people. In the present state of internal chaos, train travel would be out of the question.

The best air route out of Peking is by way of Moscow. This was the route Soviet diplomats and their families were using recently, when they were assaulted and insulted at Peking airport.

Hopson has not been able to establish direct contact with the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs. He is operating from a temporary office in the diplomatic compound, but he and members of his staff have been able to visit his damaged residence and the completely burnt-out mission.

The diplomatic compound is now under police guard. There is normally only a small guard there, whose main duty is to prevent friendly Chinese from visiting British and other foreign diplomats living in the compound.

Bear Mauls Two

CHOTEAU, Mont. (UPI) — A rampaging black bear mauled two teen-aged campers Friday 60 miles southeast of Glacier National Park where grizzlies killed two coeds. Neither youth was seriously injured.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The disturbance which has kept cloud and rainshowers in the north coast and parts of the northern B.C. now shows signs of moving southward and is forecast to lie across southern Vancouver Island by Sunday evening. This will spread cloud into the south coast and the central interior with possibly a few showers.

Otherwise areas ahead of the system under the influence of a weakening high pressure ridge will remain sunny and warm into Sunday. Temperatures are cooler behind the disturbance.

. . . ROCKWELL

Patler often was in the forefront of Nazi party harassing activities and it brought him a long string of arrests.

Patler once wrote: "I learned early that the only way you can stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

CALLED HIMSELF RACIST

That might sum up Rockwell's philosophy too. Rockwell, in lectures at college campuses, said often, "I am a racist."

KOEHL
. . . heir apparent

Remarks made by Rockwell in 1962 during a visit to Sherbrooke, Que., and Montreal brought strong protests from the Jewish community. The Canadian government barred him from further visits, although he managed to slip into Canada again in 1964 for a trip to Vancouver.

Rockwell, who idolized Adolf Hitler, advocated "transporting all Negroes to Africa, stripping Jews of property and sterilizing them."

He was in the U.S. Navy in the Second World War and during the Korean War and attained the rank of commander before he was released from active duty in 1954. The navy discharged him from the reserves in 1960 because of his conduct.

Rockwell refused to say how many members were in the party, but knowledgeable people said it has fewer than 100 members.

Rockwell was the son of George (Doc) Rockwell, an old-time vaudevillian who played on Fred Allen's radio show.

Early today, his body still lay unclaimed at the county hospital, although a police lieutenant said party members and some relatives had made inquiries.

JUVENILE SMIRKS IRK JUDGE

PROSSER, Wash. (AP) —A Benton county superior court judge has ruled here that any youth over 14 years of age charged with taking part in fights involving large groups will automatically be transferred from juvenile court to superior court.

Judge John T. Day made the ruling after three consecutive witnesses brought before him in a disturbance in Prosser refused to answer questions.

"The smirks on the faces of these six-foot-tall; 180-pound youths is enough to sicken any person required to uphold the law," judge Day said.

Nurse Courses

Two evening courses will be offered at the University of Victoria this fall to meet the need of professional nurses to keep up with new developments in their work.

Registration for these courses closes Monday, Sept. 11.

Miss Helen Saunders, RN, and Dr. T. D. D. Groves will present talks on the anatomy and physiology of the human circulatory and urinary systems.

They will introduce recent concepts and the application of them to nursing practice.

NEW METHODS

Mrs. Jo-Ann Wood, RN, will present newer concepts in psychiatric nursing, a course intended for registered nurses who wish to update their knowledge of psychiatric principles and practices.

The focus will be on interpersonal relationship skill, new methods of treatment and nursing care for patients with psychiatric disorders; also the application of psychiatric principles to other areas of nursing.

"One of the principle methods of teaching will be by group discussion," said a spokesman for the Greater Victoria District, Registered Nurses' Association of B.C.

"Guest lecturers will participate in the presentation of the course.

"Our association is keenly interested in bringing the attention of the general public—particularly those in the field of nursing—the first real development in the furthering of nursing education in Victoria."

Canadians who achieved security by their own efforts also had it guaranteed by the government.

"But the Canadian caught in the web of poverty remains ensnared, lacking the education, the income, the assistance or the incentives to escape.

"He too is secure — But it is the security of a slave."

Mr. Hamilton told a combined press conference and delegate reception that he opposes special status for Quebec, saying: "I cannot see how we can have a constitution giving any particular treatment to any particular section of Canada."

"The pseudo-nationalist's bugbear of foreign control of the Canadian economy is merely an emotional football," he said.

"We must accept that the economics of the 20th century is worldwide in scope and is a fabric woven of interdependent relationships."

STRESS UNITY

He said in an interview the role of party leader should not be interpreted in terms of one man. It should be in the terms of a national team which can command the confidence of Canadians.

George Hees and Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia were touring in Western Canada.

Mr. Hees said in Vancouver he'll be Canada's next prime minister. He predicts he'll carry Quebec and the West at the Sept. 9 vote in Toronto. The West's "favorite son" Candidates — Fulton, Roblin and Hamilton — would drop out as ballotting progresses.

Other council members were unyielding in their opposition.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he was against the love-in because the symphony concert had been planned for some time, although according to Ald. Stewart, parks administrator Herbert Warren said both events could be held without any clash.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay opposed the love-in and went further:

"Possibly we need stronger bylaws regarding loitering, littering and vagrancy," he said, referring to hippies' use of Centennial and Bastion Squares.

Ald. Cecil Parrott suggested there was more to the application than was obvious.

"There is something perhaps more than we know. If the youth council is connected in any way with these people in the Square, then we should be concerned."

The youth council's statement was distributed at a colorful "happening" in Bastion Square Friday night. While the Double Breasted Galvanized Jazz Whistle Jug Band performed, the message circulated among the several hundred in attendance.

The note requested youngsters to refrain from holding the love-in despite the city council's ruling. It also called Ald. Stewart's stand "courageous" and urged young people not to cross him by provoking more trouble.

"A love-in is a celebration of life. Let's affirm that life by leaving the people and the park alone this Sunday and show we shall do unto others . . . and by our example show a better way to live."

U.S. SAILOR JAILED

SANDBANK, Scotland (Reuters)—An American sailor was sentenced today to six months hard labor after a U.S. court martial found him guilty of passing an official document to two British civilians.

The court martial also ordered the shipfitter Garry Lee Ledbetter, 25, a member of the Polaris submarine depot ship Simon Lake, stationed at Holy Loch, be given a bad-conduct discharge from the U.S. Navy.

Prosecutor Lieut. Jean E. Van Slater said the document was a training booklet containing confidential navy information.

Hate Peddling Rockwell's Pathetic Product

WASHINGTON —"He can be such a hell of a nice guy, you find yourself forgetting what he's trying to do."

That quote comes from an FBI agent who used to keep track of George Lincoln Rockwell's movements.

To a person who knew Rockwell closely for six years, he was not far wrong.

You could easily call him hatemonger; rabble rouser, America's most notorious anti-semite and racist. He was boastful, shrill, nasty, often unwashed and unkempt. In many ways, he was pitiful.

But, when he wanted to be, he was intelligent, witty, charming, sensitive, kind and generous. He was this way when he found the time to talk about something besides what he called the "international Jewish-Communist conspiracy to mongrelize the white race by using the U.S. supreme court to force miscegenizing (sic) of good white Christians with . . . blacks."

What this "Half Penny Hitler," as former Mayor Wagner of New York put it, said he was trying to do was to take over the world, "gas all the Jews our beloved Hitler missed and all the (Negroes) and mongrels too . . ."

What he really did, after he had spent a few years learning his way around the hatemongering business, was to get himself a gimmick and ride it from coast to coast and around the world to a stupid little death in a battered Chevrolet sedan in a shopping centre parking lot.

TAWDRY SUCCESS

His Nazi "movement" —there were seldom as many as a score of members — was the only thing George Lincoln Rockwell ever made a success at, tawdry as it was. He kept it going for ten full years, far longer than it took his careers as a naval officer; advertising artist and magazine publisher to go sour.

Rockwell had all the talents and abilities of a man who should have gone far. But he was missing that thing necessary to make it all hang together and it drove him nuts.

When he first set up shop in Arlington, Va., in 1957 Rockwell knew only that he was tired of his apprenticeship and that it was time for him to show "the jerks and nuts and cretins" who taught him the hate business how it really ought to be done.

Rockwell cranked up an offset press in the basement of a bungalow and began to turn out garish but well-executed leaflets and pamphlets.

While he was experimenting; Rockwell later told this reporter, "I thought over the things I learned in San Diego during the Korean War (A Navy pilot in World War II, Rockwell was recalled to active duty in 1951).

"She (a woman he knew there) was such a nutty broad I can't even remember her name. But she did get me started, and when I finally learned the truth about Hitler and what he was trying to do, I wanted to kill myself for having sunk those two German submarines in 1944." (he did no such thing and was never personally decorated).

Rockwell told this tale to anyone who would listen, but anyone who listened long enough was likely to detect a hollow ring. It sounded like a recording.

Once he had settled on the brand name of American Nazi Party he was looking for, Rockwell built his image. He hung up a large swastika on the living room wall, trained a red sunlamp on it and opened the door. "You use what brings them in," he said.

Hank Burchard spent six months with George Lincoln Rockwell several years ago after he "infiltrated" Rockwell's party for a college term paper on the sociology of deviant behavior.

Almost simultaneously, Rockwell went public. Before long, Arlington authorities were trying to put him in jail for creating a public nuisance (the crowds) and crumpled dollar bills were pouring in—usually addressed in a penciled scrawl, "Rockwell - Arlington."

He had his own full-time FBI squad, fame, and the fear and outrage of Jews all over the world.

Rockwell found he had to stress race bias to catch the rising tide that followed the school decision of 1954, but his first hate was always the Jews.

"All my life I would try hard for something and it would go along pretty well," he once said. "But just when I thought I had it made it would all fall apart. It took me a long time to understand I was on the Jew list. They were playing with me like a cat with a mouse."

The Jew list, he explained, was a system by which the International conspiracy singled out talented Aryans and marked them for debasement and eventual death.

But the thing that brought in money and speaking invitations and party members was the Negro, so Rockwell came down hard on such tired old themes as "send them back to Africa," and produced reams of that kind of material.

Rockwell's marketing methods were sometimes effective. He sent a lieutenant dressed in a gorilla costume to the famous 1963 March on Washington for civil rights; when "Freedom buses" came north from the south, he sent a Volkswagen "hate bus" into the Black Belt.

All of these things led to publicity and publicity led to a semblance of power and enough money to keep things going — but not enough to pay for a decent place to live; or a presentable car to drive.

Or to buy a Washington machine.

'END TO BE WRITTEN'

Violence, Failure Marks of Accused

WASHINGTON—John Patler, the man accused of assassinating George Lincoln Rockwell, was introduced to violence at the age of five.

In 1943, Patler's father shot and killed his wife in what Patler described as "a crime of passion; one of those freak episodes in life when a man permits his emotions to blind his rational thought."

His account of his boyhood centres on fights with Negroes and Puerto Ricans in Harlem; poor marks in school; tenement life; unhappiness when he and his younger brother, George, finally went to live with their father after he was released from Sing Sing prison.

From those early fights in the subways of New York, Patler said he "learned early that the only way you stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

HATED JEWS

Patler, thin and only five-foot-seven, with brown hair and brown eyes, discovered as an adolescent that he had a talent for drawing and editing. He invented a cartoon while in junior high school in which the villain was named "Redrum" —murder spelled backwards.

He is still cartooning, only his characters now are more likely to be dehumanized Negroes, and found in the pages of the Stormtrooper, under the title, Hatelets.

When disagreement with the father took a nasty turn, Patler and his brother were taken to domestic relations court, and then detained in the New York Youth House, "the same place Lee Harvey Oswald did a stretch when he was a teen-ager," Patler wrote.

EXPERT MARKSMAN

He gravitated into the Nationalist Youth League (NYL), a nascent Nazi youth group, and in 1957, met Rockwell at a NYL function.

In the fall of 1958, Patler joined the Nazi party. "At this time," he recalled, "the commander (Rockwell) was practically all alone in his struggle." During a brief stopover at Rockwell's Arlington headquarters, Patler was so affected by the near-destitution of the party that he divided his furlough money, giving half to Rockwell for the party.

In 1960, Patler married a 19-year-old and was discharged from the marines in the wake of a party rally at which he was arrested.

The discharge was ordered, according to Patler, because "enormous pressure was exerted by the Jew war veterans and I once again found myself in the middle of a battle on account of my political beliefs."

BROKE WITH ROCKWELL

His participation in party rallies and demonstrations turned into a string of arrests for disturbing the peace.

His return to the fold later that year caused upheavals within the Arlington group, but Patler stayed on.

Early this year, he broke with Rockwell again—for the last time, as it turned out. According to a girl who knows Patler quite well, "he never wavered in his belief in the party, but he and other top aides were dissatisfied with the lack of definite goals and the way Rockwell spent money."

In a footnote to Patler's autobiography in the Stormtrooper, George Lincoln Rockwell early this year wrote to his readers: "I would like you to keep in mind that this is an unfinished story. The end has yet to be written . . ."

Catching On

IN A COLUMN ON THIS PAGE the other day, Mr. Bruce Hutchison registered astonishment at the warm reaction from readers of an earlier "dull piece on the dull subject of inflation." Letters from all over the country, he reported, were filled with "burning fury" over the way in which inflation had robbed them of their savings which they had trustingly invested in government bonds. "Apparently it has taken the public a long time to catch up with a phenomenon as old as civilization," Mr. Hutchison commented.

However long it has taken, statistical records show that the catching up has ~~been~~ going on for three years now and at an accelerating pace. Since the end of 1962 there has been a decrease of $1.375 billion in the public holdings of federal government bonds and treasury bills, with the downhill plunge starting about the middle of 1964. As a consequence of this marked reluctance of the public—both individually and corporately—to invest in these government instruments, increasingly the burden of financing government debt has been thrust on the chartered banks, the Bank of Canada and the government's own pension and trust accounts.

It may be imagined that so long as there are still customers for government bonds it matters little who buys them. But in fact in the present situation lie the seeds of a possibly serious effect on the nation's monetary policy since, in order to provide the banks with sufficient funds to buy government bonds, it has been necessary steadily to increase the money supply. The necessity to provide funds to finance the government makes it difficult—and carried too far makes it impossible — to impose the monetary policy appropriate to the economic situation.

Until now, the money managers in Ottawa say, the increase in the money supply has been consistent with the needs of the economy. But what if government spending and borrowing go on unchecked—a possibility which obviously worries Finance Minister Sharp — and it becomes necessary to continue increasing the money supply at a time when inflationary pressures need to be held down? Mr. Sharp knows well enough that financing government activities through heavy borrowing when inflation threatens is madness, which is why he recently urged so strongly the necessity of cutting back on spending, and thus the drastic reassessment of proposed programs now going on in every department of government.

It seems clear from the figures, however, that it will take more than just one or two years to halt the trend from public to bank holding of government bonds. The disillusionment with this form of investment appears to have sunk deeply into public consciousness.

To Cope With Pollution

THE PROPOSED PROVINCIAL sewage regulations are the inevitable answer to a constantly growing population and an increasing pollution problem in our river, lake and coastal waters. In many regions the same deteriorating conditions are also to be found in the air, and Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell's warning that corresponding legislation may be expected to meet this situation will be welcomed by the general public.

In connection with the new requirements for collection and treatment of sewage there no doubt will be protests from many of the municipalities, for considerable expense faces those affected. But in numerous cases the improvements are probably long overdue, and it will be recognized that sooner or later a full attack must be made on pollution. The sorry experience of many communities in eastern Canada and the United States is plain, if examples are needed. Equally clear is the fact that the longer improvements are delayed, the more costly and disrupting they will be.

Greater Victoria is in the fortunate position of having a regional sewerage study now in hand and so will be able to move toward implementation without delay. As Mr. Campbell observes, this is the largest community in the province without a sewage treatment facility. Already our beaches have suffered from dumping sewage into the surrounding sea; lakes and bays in the Saanich Peninsula have encountered pollution problems, and it is obvious that mere disposal can not long be enough—treatment of sewage must soon become a necessity.

The provincial government, as on more than one previous occasion, has acted abruptly—even, as some municipalities may say, brutally. Municipal taxpayers will have no vote on the matter. After the provincial legislation is passed at the next session it will be a matter of carrying out the required work within the specified time, and it will be up to the municipalities to find the money through taxation or borrowing. But there can be few arguments against the intent of this move: it will make for a cleaner, better environment in this province, and constitute an obvious safeguard for public health and natural resources.

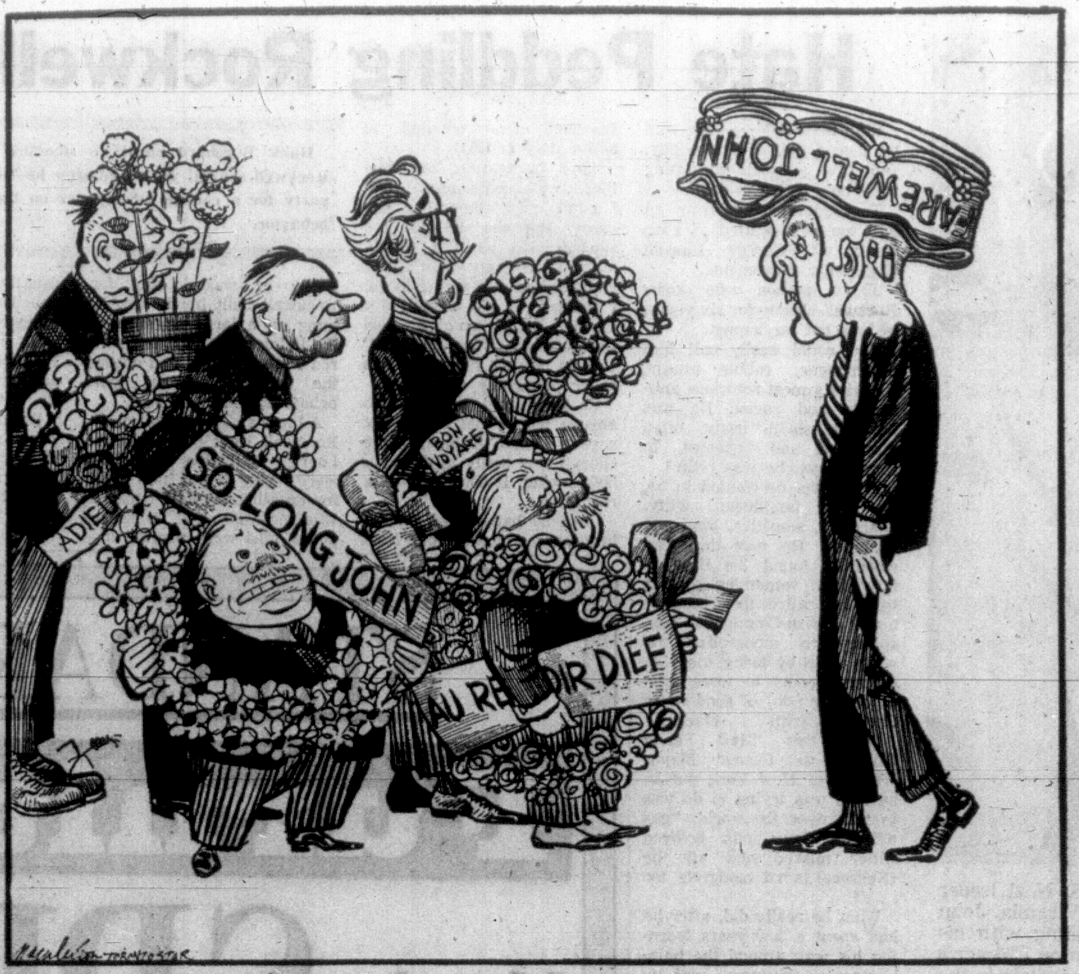
Mr. Wilson's Squeeze

THE INCREASE IN UNEMPLOYMENT in Britain, which had been expected as part of the struggle to curb consumption and re-establish the pound, has now reached the point of embarrassment. The jobless total was given yesterday as 555,000, the highest figure for August in 27 years, and it represents a rate of about 2.4 per cent of the working force.

Britain ordinarily has a very low rate of unemployment, partly due to the relatively slight impact of seasonal work — in contrast to Canada with its winter-summer phases and the heavier dependence on primary industries. When Prime Minister Wilson last year suggested that 1.5 to 2 per cent of unemployment would be "tolerable" his figure was hotly contested by organized labor, which insisted that full employment was the only acceptable level. That, of course, is not possible in any economy—there is always a portion of the working force which is changing jobs or locations, or unable to hold steady employment of any kind.

In Canada a national unemployment rate of 4 per cent is not considered extreme and it has often gone much higher. Regional rates have soared—for example, the 9.5 per cent in the Atlantic region in 1963, at a time when Ontario showed only 3.8 per cent and British Columbia 6.3. By Canadian standards, then, Mr. Wilson would have little to worry about: he could, in fact, claim a resounding success, with a mere 2.4 per cent of his workers without jobs.

But he will be under great political pressure this fall, particularly if the rate increases, as it may well do. His labor minister has appealed for further patience on the part of the unions, while the government's economic policies achieve their intended effects. But the squeeze on the government may prove even stronger than the economic squeeze which it is imposing on the country.



"It seems we're a little premature"

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Military Aid Where It Will Get Returns

SOVIET intervention in the Nigerian civil war is a startling, but useful, object lesson for neo-isolationists in Washington and elsewhere. There have been insistent calls, of late, for an allegedly "over-extended" America to reduce its commitments and abandon cold-war battlefields such as the Congo. Nigeria is a valuable reminder that the Soviet Union is not reducing hers.

Frye

Moscow's initial moves there, beginning August 15, reportedly have consisted of supplying jet-fighter planes with rockets, bombs, and other ammunition. Technicians and pilot-instructors also apparently are involved.

This Soviet help could tip the scales in the seven-week-old civil war, enabling the central government at Lagos to turn back the Biafran rebellion.

If so, the most populous and potentially one of the richest countries in Africa will henceforth be profoundly beholden to Moscow.

A country which two years ago was considered a bastion and showplace of democracy on the African continent will owe its existence as a unified entity to the Kremlin.

The contrast between this and what has happened in the Congo is vivid. There, the United States similarly intervened last month, supplying three Hercules transport planes to help rescue the central government from a challenge in the provinces.

But the reaction to this move on Capitol Hill was so actively hostile that the Administration felt obliged to withdraw all but one of the transports. Each of that plane's missions thereafter had to be approved separately by the Pentagon in Washington.

Russia could intervene in Africa and hope to score a major success; but the United States was pressured into chickening out — or at least into sharply restricting its role.

The case is disturbingly typical. American diplomacy is being progressively hamstrung by a "never again" syndrome: a determination, sometimes unreasoning, never again to become bogged in quicksand like that of Viet Nam.

To be sure, the United States, almost against its will, has become saddled in Viet Nam with burdens disproportionate to the interests being served. And there is no visible way out.

But this is not a sound reason for withdrawing from power contests elsewhere in the world and letting them go by default to the Communists.

Disastrous Defeat

If that were to be the result of the Viet Nam war, that war would be a disastrous defeat for the United States even if Hanoi surrendered unconditionally tomorrow.

What is needed is not a general retreat from cold-war contests but a closer check-rein on the nature and degree of involvements, together, with greater wisdom in their selection and new safety mechanisms to permit withdrawal or limitation if they go sour.

Congress has been groping for such protections this past week. Senator J. W. Fulbright (D) of Arkansas has suggested intimate congressional participation in the initial decision-making process as one form of control.

This would clearly go too far, limiting the speed and flexibility of American action and subjecting it to just such irrational restraints as those which hog-tied President Johnson in the Congo a few weeks ago.

Senator Charles Percy (R) of Illinois came closer to the mark in proposing detailed annual justifications of each intervention, with congressional review of the Administration's judgment.

Key Question

None of this, however, really solves the key question: How do you get out, if you wish, once your pride and prestige as a great power have been engaged?

There may not be any good answer. The Soviet Union has not found one. It has on occasion blundered into costly commitments which have produced incommensurate results, as in Cuba and the Mideast, and only rarely has it been willing to cut its losses and quit.

But setbacks, however costly and embarrassing, have not prompted the Kremlin to abandon other, unrelated cold-war battlefields. It has gone on probing and improvising, seeking enterprises such as Nigeria where the cost-effectiveness is greater.

The United States could usefully learn the lesson of pragmatism. Washington cannot afford a pendulum policy, swinging alternately from all-out warfare (as in Viet Nam) to abandonment of opportunity (as in the Congo).

FROM DETROIT

By CHARLES BARTLETT

First Generation Raised on TV Violence

ONE distinctive feature of post-riot Detroit is the hard-nosed attitude of extremists who warn they will burn down everything that is built in the city's gutted areas unless the new construction confroms to their plans. This is not idle talk. It is the studied position of a band of militants who call themselves the Citywide Citizens Action Committee. Pushing their own reconstruction ideas and demanding to be heard by the business and civic leaders who are planning the "New Detroit," the committee members do not intend to be ignored.

They also say they do not intend to negotiate with the white power structure on the plans for rebuilding the slums. "We're not smart enough to sit down and bargain with those people," they say. "We'll make some minor concessions but in general it has to be our way or else."

Their attitude has some sociological virtue. What they are saying is that the people who live in the slums should control their design instead of having impersonal, high-rise structures thrust upon them. The idea that the white man is best equipped to tell the Negroes how to live is an affront to the Black Nationalism which these militants preach.

An unusual motion picture was playing in downtown Detroit for several weeks before the riot. It is still playing there. In fact "The Dirty Dozen" is the biggest hit that has come to the Kramer Theatre since "Mary Poppins." Nationally it promises to be the greatest box office draw in MGM's 43 years.

The uniqueness of "The Dirty Dozen" lies in its high-style violence, raw and brutal but flavored with pace and humor. Violence is made to seem almost appealing as an outlet for men who have little to lose. "What can they do?" asks one rebel against authority. "They can't do nothing."

It can certainly be said that the inspiration of 'The Dirty Dozen" would not have deterred any young Negro who felt tempted to join the rampage on July 23. As Floyd McKissick of CORE said to a congressional committee, "Every time you look at the radio or TV somebody is fighting. Then you tell the black folks, 'You keep quiet.' "

At the very least "The Dirty Dozen" underscores the point that the young Negroes who rioted in Detroit and other cities represent the first generation of Americans to be brought up on a heavy diet of television fare. The black box is the badgered mother's babysitter in slum apartments and some suspect that it has had more impact upon the children than school, church or parent.

The young Negro sitting restlessly before the box on a hot summer day sees two worlds. One is the trimmed lawns and bright kitchens of the white middle class, which seem on television to be carbonated the the "go" generation, coolled by an endless array of swimming pools, and enlivened by the sheer joy of living that is completely beyond the poor Negroes' reach.

The alternative is the world of the gun-fighter, the man who goes down taking his enemies with him. This is a far uglier and less promising world than the other but it has the immense virtue of being far more accessible to the young Negro who senses that life is passing him by.

The disturbing omen of the phenomenal success of "The Dirty Dozen" is that its gilded violence is bound to be widely imitated. Its acceptance is interpreted as the consolidation of a trend by the producers, who feel they must run like hounds after the public taste or lose their shirts.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

DURING the recent rash of local bush fires, Francis Park was struck again.

The fire started in the same place as two years ago and covered considerably more acreage, burning grass and spreading into some of the live conifers.

Where it hit amongst the rock outcrops it burned down into the cracks and ran in the mosses, which proved stubborn to extinguish.

Where the fire covered some of the real old stumps that were full of resin they burned like "roman candles," sending sparks and flames in all directions. These almost had to be dug out to prevent further outbreaks.

This means that we will have to replant again next spring, and we want to let all those people who contributed to the plantation fund know that a complete list has been kept and THEIR TREE will be replaced. Methods of protecting the plantation will be put into operation.

Some of the large Douglas firs that have been badly scorched may die, but they will provide homes for many insects and in turn feeding station for birds, and perhaps in time nesting places for some.

The little mice that inhabited this area will once again have to re-establish themselves.

It is interesting to see how the spiders have already taken up residence, building webs to catch the minute flies that follow a fire.

We owe our gratitude to the fire departments of Saanich and Langford which did such a good job of controlling the fire.

LETTER

Employing Inflation

An article by Mr. Bruce Hutchison, entitled, "As Everyone Walks With Keynes: Burning Fury About a Cold Fact," in your paper August 23, would have us believe, as Keynes once said, that "Practical men, who believe themselves to be quite exempt from any intellectual influences, are usually the slaves of some defunct economist. Madmen in authority, who hear voices in the air, are distilling their frenzy from some academic scribbler of a few years back."

Keynes added, "I am sure that the power of vested interests is vastly exaggerated compared with the gradual encroachement of ideas." Mr. Hutchison suggests that not only have those ideas, as evidenced by the economic theory and public policy of John Maynard Keynes, become justly victorious, but in addition, in the hands of Keynes' Robespierre and Lenin, they have become perverse. We wonder? . . .

Economic dodoism abounds in the land, and we wonder whether its extent or intensity are less today than in the 1930's. Mr. Hutchison comments that the "facts" in his earlier piece on inflation "were so obvious, (and) shop-worn . . . that few readers could be expected to waste their time on them." Hardly! Facts have not only yet to be established, but more importantly, their meaning in a broad context of economic alternatives is almost never mentioned. A very casual reading of the newspapers' editorial pages convinces us that the economic dodos are firmly in comamand of the forum, and beyond the newspapers, public discussion gets even lower marks.

In a democratic society it is unfortunate indeed that there is not provided a more balanced offering of economic discussion in the papers, particularly in view of their quasi-public nature and their unique capability to provide such a forum. At best we get a myopic and woolly rambling over some of the manifest issues of public policy, but almost never a discussion of the actual policy choices or underlying economic theory that attempts to explain the operation of the economic process itself.

Secondly, the reflective economist's pessimism stems not from Mr. Hutchison's observation that politicians show their weakness by serving "the public will," but rather from the fact that the politician in a democracy, particularly where the issues are vague and the public uninformed, attempts to serve too many wills. He must appear to please everyone, and in matters of economics that is almost never possible. The shibboleths of dodoism cast long shadows, and few governments dare launch a serious frontal attack on any cornerstone of the conventional wisdom. As a result, policy discussion over hard issues, too frequently reduces to ideological nonsense. A case in point is the fear of Mr. Hutchison, as well as the Canadian and American governments, towards inflation.

Allow us to point out, once again, what the nature of this "terrifying" phenomenon really is. Mr. Hutchison, and many people who wrote to him, feel that the social cost of inflation is its devaluation of fixed incomes. Surely this is not one of the fundamental problems of our society. Many very wealthy men live luxuriously on fixed incomes, and society feels little need to take action of assistance when these large incomes are trimmed by inflation. The fundamental social problem is simply that some people are poor! Some of these poor have fixed incomes, but all people with fixed incomes are not poor. Society's problem is to devise ways to improve the lot of all the poor and not just those with fixed incomes.

With this aim in mind let us examine two aspects of inflation. First, who, if anyone, benefits from inflation? Secondly, what would happen if we reduced price changes to zero? The people who benefit from inflation are those who owe fixed dollar debts and those who own assets whose price is free to vary, like stocks, houses, etc. The two big groups of people who owe fixed dollar debts are bond issuers (government and corporate), and young families. The holders of those debts, which lose real value during inflation, are often older family units.

* * *

Presuming that some terror still remains, what would happen if we were to reduce inflation to zero? The Economic Council's Third Annual Review finds that any annual rate of increase in the consumers price index of less than about 2 per cent will be associated with unemployment rates of about 8 per cent. Such an unemployment rate would swell the ranks of the poor and remove any hope they might have formerly had of bettering their lot. We suspect that a public dialogue on the alternatives to inflation would conclude that the cost of no inflation is too high.

A short-run way for our society to assist the poor might be to use the tax system to transfer income from the "gainers" to the "losers." This mechanism would work best when the economy is operating at its full potential under conditions of full employment. Government policy should be directed to ensuring that such conditions prevail and to increasing the long-run efficiency of our whole economic system by making factors of production more mobile increasing productivity, maintaining competition, and generally removing bottlenecks. Only in that way can we have our cake, and eat it too.

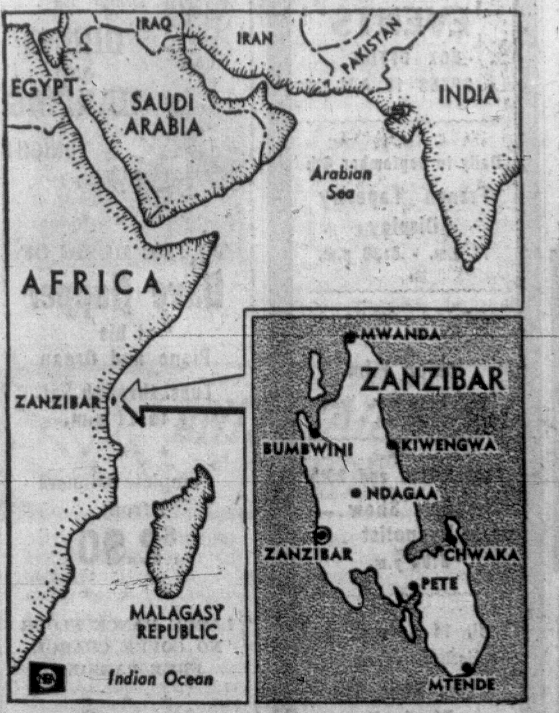
China Using Zanzibar Base For Operations in Africa



By TIM THOMAS

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanzania—The original impetus in Zanzibar's revolution three and a half years ago was to shatter the dominance of the Arabs on the island.

This it effectively did. The predominantly African revolution eliminated the ruling group and the plantation owners. The sultan, Seyyid Jamshid Bin Abdulla, had his yacht Salama in the harbor at the time, and he left the country. The brief uprising was followed by the massacre of many Arabs and the deportation of many more.

Today, the only Arabs you see in Zanzibar are the peasant farmers in the interior, called "Shamba Arabs." They live the same life as the African farmers, cultivating small plots of land which produce cassava, pineapples and bananas.

Their tiny wattle huts are identical to those of the Africans. The fact that the "Shamba Arabs" have not suffered may mean that the causes of the revolution were not entirely radical. The targets were the landowning and employing classes (which happened to be Arab).

The revolution has been something of an enigma. In spite of being nominally linked with mainland Tanzania, Zanzibar has been very much a State within a State). Even from Dar-es-Salaam it has been almost impossible for foreigners to enter the islands. Permission for me to go had to come from Zanzibar; none of the mainland ministries could grant me this.

In spite of a confusing situation it is possible to unravel some of the major aspects of the present system. Perhaps the most consistent factor that one sees in a very inconsistent situation is the Communist presence.

Two large fishing boats sit in Zanzibar town's harbor, a gift from the East German government and part of a large scheme to build up the island's fishing. This scheme includes the building of a canning factory two miles north of the town.

The East Germans have also just completed a large estate of colorful "contemporary" flats to the south of the town. Near the canning factory is a wooden watchtower guarding the entrance to one of the military garrisons on the island.

The troops are being trained and armed by the Chinese. The other garrison is Russian-equipped and is being trained by Russian military personnel. In all there are about 40 Russians on the island. The Cuban government has sent about six doctors to the islands.

Bust of Mao

But the principal effort has come from the Chinese. Occupying one of the most imposing sites on Zanzibar island is the huge Chinese embassy; it is a square building painted a spotless white. It backs directly on to the sea and in front is a shady square. The doorway is dominated by a three-foot-high bust of Chairman Mao, and the inevitable quotations from his "thoughts" are painted on the garden walls in Chinese and Swahili.

The embassy staff have had a large glass-fronted case fixed to the front wall, and this contains upwards of 50 photographs of the Vietnam war and scenes of life in China. The captions for the photographs begin with such things as "Mao Tse-tung, the reddest red sun of our hearts, has said . . ."

I was told by local residents that on certain occasions the whole embassy area is cordoned off, and the cargo from Chinese ships is unloaded directly into the cellars of the embassy.

These cargoes are arms.

Later, they say, the area will be sealed off again and other boats loaded up with these weapons which are then distributed all over Africa. It would seem that this imposing building is the jumping-off point for much of the Chinese efforts in Africa.

Few British

An early morning walk down to the shady square in front of the embassy is rewarded by the sight of many Chinese technicians and workers climbing into their trucks and heading purposefully off to their various schemes on the island.

The largest of these is a rice-growing project on the eastern side of the island which aims at making the island self-sufficient in food. The Chinese tend to live in their own hostels near the embassy but one can see them in many parts of the island either working on their schemes or strolling through the town dressed either in business-like working gear or utility-style tourist garb.

There are few British or Americans now. There is a small staff in the U.S. consulate. This stands opposite the telegraph station which is still British-run.

The Zanzibar Hotel, a picturesque building with an Arab flavor, is run by two British residents. At the time of the revolution there were 300 to 400 British on the island; now there are only about a dozen.

In the central part of the island, just off the tarmac road, is an area cleared of bush. It is surrounded by a military-looking barbed wire fence.

Inside there are a few overgrown concrete roads and some sheds now used by the farmers for their cattle. This was to be an enormous satellite tracking station for the U.S. Mercury project. When the revolution came, everything was pulled out at top speed.

Sad Charm

Foreign influence on the island is apparent and easy to decipher, but the attitude and policies of the revolutionary council, headed by the leader of the Afro-Shirazi party, Sheikh Abeid Karume, are more imponderable. Once the Arabs' domination had been broken, the government seems to have improvised its revolution.

There can be little doubt that Zanzibar has a unique, if slightly sad charm. From the air it looks like an enormous garden, covered with palm trees which shade a rich variety of colorful vegetation including beautiful orchids.

Crops grow easily in the rich soil. They always say that to starve in Zanzibar you would have to try hard. Even in the shady narrow streets of Zanzibar town one can smell the scent of cloves (the island's main export crop).

THE GALLUP POLL

One-Third of Voters Approve Liberal Record

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

Voter approval for the Liberal government's record to date is not wide-spread.

Only 10 per cent more citizens endorse the government's performance, over those who disapprove of it, with 37 per cent pleased with it, and 27 per cent finding fault with its record since the last federal election. Largest segment of the public, 37 per cent, is undecided about its reactions.

In 1962, six months before the June election in which Mr. Diefenbaker's Conservative government suffered a considerable decrease in popular support, the public was in a mood to give higher approval for the government's record than they are today for the Liberals.

Here is the comparison of public attitudes, in response to the same question:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the federal government's record to date?"

	Jan. 1962 Conservatives in power	TODAY Liberals in power
Approve	43%	36%
Disapprove	28	27
Undecided	29	37

Alvin Hamilton Unique Among Tory Candidates

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Newman

OTTAWA—At their convention next month the Tories will not only pick a new leader, they'll also plot the direction their party will follow in its drive for power.

The key decision here will be the party's attitude toward governmental intrusion into Canada's economy and society. In the past, the Liberals have usually advocated more positive action by governments, while the Tories have never quite been able to sort out exactly what governments should do and at what level. When in power, the Conservatives have pioneered such notable non-free-enterprise institutions as the CBC, the Bank of Canada and ARDA. But while seeking office they have consistently attacked any extensions of the bureaucratic initiative.

A spectacular exception to the traditional Tory position has always been Alvin Hamilton, the former minister of agriculture and his party's chief agent of ferment, currently making an energetic run for the leadership. Although he has very little chance of winning, his candidacy is extremely important. Hamilton is a tinderbox, striking ideas; whoever wins his party's leadership can't help but be affected by them.

What Alvin Hamilton is asking his party to do, in effect, is to collaborate with him in its own liquidation. He wants to establish a new, broadly-based political alliance of city workers, union members, farmers, young people and intellectuals who recognize the creative potential of the state.

Hamilton controls few important pieces of political machinery within his party and he has few favors to grant or withhold. But Conservatives all over the country are turning out to hear him, because—well, because he's Alvin. Because he was the most successful and the most popular of the Diefenbaker ministers. Because he's never compromised himself or pretended to be anything but an honest school teacher out of the west.

His grappling-hook approach to Canadian politics, his leaps between the administrative and the spiritual, his endless discourses about that industrial complex somewhere near James Bay, and his untrammelled imagination have always attracted people to him. But for most Tories he's too radical, and as usual, he has more support outside the party than in it.

But he does have a strong sectional following across northern Canada, in Saskatchewan and parts of Ontario and Quebec. Unless John Diefenbaker decides to contest the race, Hamilton will probably run a respectable fourth or fifth on the first leadership ballot. He is then expected to throw his support behind Duff Roblin, though the details of such a transaction have yet to be negotiated.

Alvin Hamilton could be called a straight socialist except for the fact that he hangs on to his intellectual commitment to conservatism with one part of his mind while expressing personal compassion for all of the country's downtrodden minorities with the other. The compartments won't stay closed, and the result is a slightly inconsistent view of life which calls for fewer government handouts accompanied by a massive intrusion of the bureaucracy into the nation's everyday affairs.

He's a fierce economic nationalist, but abhors any sanctions against foreign interests; he stands for a broad biculturalism across the country, but remains convinced that Quebec's problems are more economic than sociological. He prides himself on being a thinker, but some of his pet phrases sound like advertising slogans. ("Fanfare will not pay the carfare . . .")

HAMILTON

. . . daring ideas

What makes Alvin Hamilton unique is that unlike the other contenders for the Tory leadership, he represents a really distinctive alternative. Instead of merely recognizing the problems which exist (and coming up with policy answers) he is establishing new issues not yet perceived by his fellow politicians. This was his way in office. Northern development and agriculture did not become major points of contention between the parties until Alvin Hamilton moved into these departments.

(In agriculture, for example, he increased the departmental budget by 240 per cent during his stewardship and began the imaginative ARDA program, now changing the face of rural Canada.)

Hamilton recognizes two basic issues now facing Canada: our relations with the U.S.A. and the absence of any moral purpose in our national life.

●

On the first, he advocates a partnership between government and industry in the domestic exploitation of resources. This would include a system of exchanging, not tariff concessions but total economic growth rates with other nations. He is convinced that multiplying government handouts deaden individual initiative (thus undermining a country's moral climate) and would like to substitute a system of self-help (along the ARDA style) to clear city slums and simultaneously enrich the quality of urban life.

One of his most daring suggestions (considering that his main support is in rural English Canada) is Hamilton's scheme for spreading the advantages of French-language education across the country.

He wants the federal government to take the financial responsibility for establishing French-language primary and secondary schools in every part of Canada. These institutions would remain under provincial jurisdiction, but Ottawa would pay total construction, operation and teacher costs.

●

In everything he says, Alvin Hamilton is pressing his party to forget its internal quarrels of the past and unite in its claims on the Canadian future. He stands for a modern political movement concerned with contemporary concepts. His campaign for the leadership is a gallant enterprise. It will not have failed if some of his more practical suggestions become guideposts for the new leader.

The Conservative party could not withstand the intellectual assault of too many Alvin Hamiltons. But neither could it do without one.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

KARUME

. . . improvising

The life of a diplomat, once considered safe and sedate, is becoming increasingly hazardous in today's unruly world.

And by far the most dangerous posting for any envoy now is Peking, where this week Red Guard mobs invaded the British embassy and menaced the occupants before setting fire to the chancery.

Main target of the abuse was the charge d'affaires of the mission, tough-spirited Donald Hopson, 52, who benefited from his wartime service in the Commandos, a training that may become necessary for future diplomats.

Chanting Mao Tse-tung's slogans, the youthful guards demanded that Hopson publicly bow his head in shame and admit his guilt over recent British policy in Hong Kong.

When he refused Hopson was shoved and pummelled by the mob which then went on a rampage inside the compound.

Despite the extreme provocation, Britain let it be known she had no intention of breaking off diplomatic relations which were established with the Communist regime soon after its 1948 takeover.

Plans were announced in London to rebuild the burned-out legation building. However it was disclosed families of mission members will be flown home.

In the meantime the government ordered all members of the Chinese delegation in London and Chinese newsmen to stay put until the current crisis is ended.

Other foreign missions in Peking have been under similar harassment recently and this week the Chinese ordered an Italian commercial attache placed under house arrest in connection with a dispute over a Chinese freighter in Genoa.

●

Another incident during the week showed that diplomats are under the gun in far less turbulent cities than Peking, as terrorists sprayed the U.S. embassy in London with bullets. Fortunately, no one was hit as machine-gun fire shattered windows and doors.

The gunmen were suspected to be from a Spanish revolutionary group which supports Cuba's Fidel Castro.

●

The situation in Hong Kong continued tense as British police battled Communist terrorists. In the most serious incident a mob crossed the frontier from China and set fire to an immigration office.

Sparking the newest violence was the trial of five Communist newsmen on charges of sedition.

A Chinese demand that the charges be dropped was rejected and that triggered the anti-British outburst in Peking as well as the terrorism in Hong Kong.

●

Racing against an Aug. 31 deadline set by Israel, Jordan began returning refugees to their homes in occupied territory. Some were halted by the Israelis on the grounds they were planning to form an underground army . . .

The U.S. lost a record number of planes during the week in continued heavy air attacks on North Vietnam . . .

White mercenary troops on the run in the Congo sued the government for a truce . . .

President de Gaulle added more fuel to the flames by announcing a increase in aid by France to Quebec in technical and cultural fields . . .

The U.S. and Russia finally presented a joint draft treaty to the Geneva disarmament conference aimed at halting the spread of nuclear weapons, but gaps in the proposed treaty made it evident months of negotiations still lie ahead.

The Protest Marchers: 'Human, but Quite Useless'

By KATHARINE WHITEHORN

LONDON — There was a cartoon in a French paper once of some castaways on a desert island. What they were doing was marching up and down it carrying a banner saying "Du Pain" ("Some Bread")!

One often gets the feeling that protests match situations no better than this; that the ladies protest too much, too often, to too little effect, and about the wrong things.

People always say, with some reason, that "the authorities" never take enough notice of local protests on things like the setting up of new towns or roads or rocket bases.

Need Thick Hide

But I can see why they don't — why a necesssry characteristic of any planner is a protest-proof hide a foot and a half thick. Has any lamp post, estate, bridge, road, marina, tunnel or parking site — any public work of any kind — ever gone up without a howl from the residents? And can anyone tell the yells apart?

We all want better roads and fewer slums, more design and civic amenities — but not here. There is always a good reason why this particular plan is unsuitable, and one that afflicts someone else would be better. Some reasons are nasty, like the people who complain if a home for spastics is proposed for their road; some are altruistic, like the twittering about bird sanctuaries.

But a lot of the time you could get the protesters to admit, under deep hypnosis, that they wouldn't be nearly so worried about the ruin of the neighborhood or the threat to the nation's cultural heritage if it wasn't going to do them a bit of bad personally.

Unedifying Sight

I forget who it was who said there was no fury like a vested interest masquerading as a moral principle, but it's certainly a pretty unedifying sight. Why should we be ashamed to say, "the government's making me lose money on this and it can damn well pay proper compensation," instead of saying it's a national shame and a scandal? It would make it clear which were the cases that really are scandalous even seen objectively.

Compensation doesn't make it up to you for losing your old rose tree or your protected rent or your heavenly view; but since some changes really are inevitable, I would have thought it more realistic not to hope for the abandonment of schemes which are not going to be abandoned, but to concentrate on minimizing the misery.

Think of all those people who march about with posters comparing LBJ to Hitler — which proves only that they are too young to remember much about Hitler. Does anybody seriously suppose that the prime minister is going to look out of his window, see a lot of scruffy people boiling down the road with posters, and say, "Dieu! I must have been wrong all along about Vietnam?"

The awfulness of their clothes proves they're not seriously trying to convince: If they were they'd hardly give the impression that no one outside an art school had ever heard of the war. Or, to put it another way, if they were seriously going after a job for themselves, would they wear their very oldest jeans?

What Can One Do?

No. What they are doing is giving in to a human, likeable and quite useless desire to get it off their chests — and getting it off your chest and getting satisfaction are often, alas, alternatives.

If half the protests are futile and the other half misconceived what, one wonders gloomily, can one do when something you care about is threatened? Several things work sometimes, though none always. A big newspaper stink can do a lot.

What else? Violence, always deplored as achieving nothing, can in fact achieve a good deal — it was the gun boys who got the British out of Palestine, not polite negotiation.

And America will now have to do something about the Negro ghettoes of the north, since they're erupting into nice neighborhoods.

Sometimes gimmicks are useful, like the woman who, tired of being waked by a dawn chorus of drills outside her window, found out the names and numbers of the firm's directors, and rang them up at six every morning to complain till the drills stopped.

Realm of Fancy

Most of the best ideas must remain in the realm of fancy, like blackmailing a member of the cabinet or winning the ministry of fuel and power in a poker game.

But I'm delighted to see that the most futile form of protest there is has at last returned to the land: denouncing fashion from the pulpit.

The only man who has ever got anywhere with it at all was Savonarola, who got them to burn their paints and powders and hairpieces in a heap in the main square in Florence. But so what? The next thing they burned was him.

Have you tried this happy marriage of flavour?

Can Gilbey's London Dry and ginger ale live happily together?

The answer is a blissful yes.

Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance of flavour for all mixed gin drinks.

The flavour of some other gins is either too strong—or utterly tasteless.

But Gilbey's dry flavour has been an international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Gilbey's London Dry lives in perfect harmony with the lively taste and effervescence of ginger ale.

Prove it to yourself. Tonight.

FRANKIE SUCCESSFUL AT SIX

Five Minutes More Stole Show

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frankie Avalon started out young in the entertainment business. In fact his first "pay" for singing was a bright red scooter!

Avalon who recently starred at the Latin Quarter for a much larger payment than red scooters, got his scooter — and his start in show business — unexpectedly.

He was in the audience at a talent show in his home town of Philadelphia. Most of the contestants were teen-agers but when the show began running short, the master of ceremonies faced the audience and said: "If there's anyone out there who can sing, please come onto the stage." Avalon, who was then a six-year-old, answered the call, belted out his version of "Give Me Five Minutes More" and stole the show.

He went on to win other amateur contests until he was nine, when a movie, "Young Man With a Horn," which he saw six times, inspired him to start taking trumpet lessons. He later formed a group of young musicians with whom he performed as a trumpet player and singer.

Avalon still hadn't begun to shave when he recorded his first big hit, "De-De Dinah," which established him as a star.

VIENNA OPERA AT EXPO

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Vienna State Opera has announced new productions of five operas it will perfrom in guest appearances at Montreal's Expo 67 from Sept. 3 to Sept. 22.

The operas are "Don Giovanni," conducted by Joseph Krips; "The Marriage of Figaro," conducted by Karl Boehm; "Der Rosenkavalier," under Josef Krips, "Elektra," under Karl Boehm, and "Wozzeck," conducted by Heinrich Hollresier.

BEBE EVERSFIELD

Bebe, choreographer, designer and director of the Butchart Gardens' sparkling stage revue "JUST FOR FUN," playing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, hails from New Zealand and spent her theatrical career in London, England. Studying classical ballet under many of the great teachers of Europe, at the age of fourteen she became ballerina of the Kyoshi Russian Ballet until a foot injury resulted in a change to less demanding musical comedy. Two years in leading roles in productions at His Majesty's Theatre, London, were followed by film work. Bebe has had wide teaching and lecturing experience across Canada. Since opening the Victoria School of Theatrical Arts and being acclaimed Victoria's own choreographer, she decided to make this city her home. Bebe has been associated with the Butchart Gardens Sunset Shows for the past five years.

Romeo, Juliet Act Their Age

WHITING
. . . Romeo

By BOB THOMAS

ROME (AP)—Romeo recently turned 17 and speaks cockney. Juliet is 15 and addicted to mini-skirts and the Beatles. Both are somewhat frightened about the future.

Shakespearean directors long have been intrigued with casting the lovers as the teenagers they were supposed to have been. They had been dissuaded by the fact that such youthful performers would doubtless lack the skill to polish the lustre of the language.

Now comes Franco Zeffirelli, the audacious Florentine to whom nothing seems impossible—the man who directed the Burtons in Taming of the Shrew.

He abandoned the modern tradition of playing Romeo and Juliet with adult and sometimes middle-aged leads.

He returned to the original conception—and as it was done in the musicalized version in West Side Story—of two teen-agers caught in an adult world of hate and strife.

The new Romeo and Juliet were enjoying a few days' rest while the Montagues and Capulets battled under the Roman sun at Cinecitta studios. I found Romeo (Leonard Whiting of London) at a luxurious villa where several of the British actors are staying near the studio.

ACTED IN SCHOOL

"I did The Tempest and one of the tragedies when I was in school," he said, "but otherwise I didn't have much contact with Shakespeare."

Whiting started acting at 12 as the Artful Dodger in the London run of Oliver, He was appearing in Laurence Olivier's Love for Love for the National Theatre when he heard of auditions for Romeo and Juliet.

Juliet—Olivia Hussey—is even more experienced than her co-star, having appeared for two years in the London play, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, starring Vanessa Redgrave, and in two films, including The Battle of the Villa Fiorita with Maureen O'Hara and Rossano Brazzi.

She was born in Buenos Aires to an Argentine opera singer and an English mother. Her father died when she was two, and she moved to London, where her mother works as a secretary.

Distinguished Violinist Opens Symphony Season

Sunday afternoon at 2:30, in Beacon Hill Park, the Victoria Symphony Concert Orchestra will present a pop concert.

Conductor will be the symphony's new music director, Laszlo Gati.

Local 247 of the Victoria Musicians' Association is co-sponsoring the event through the Music Performance Trust Fund. The city also shares in the cost of the park concerts.

Selections include favorite music by Weber, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Dvorak and Strauss.

Currently, plans for the Symphony Society's most glamorous and busiest season in its history are complete and poised for opening date, Oct. 1 and 2.

PINA CARMIRELLI
. . . first in season

The box office reopens at Eaton's Sept. 11, following record advance season sale in June.

Soloist for the first concert pair of the 27th season, will be the distinguished Italian violinist, Pina Carmirelli.

Madame Carmirelli, a native of Cremona, the fabled city of the great violin makers, was honored in 1966 by renowned pianist Rudolf Serkin, when he invited her to perform all the Beethoven Piano and Violin Sonatas with him in three evenings at New York's Carnegie Hall.

Of her performance the New York Times said, "She is every bit as distinguished an artist as her colleague Rudolf Serkin."

In the all-Beethoven program in Victoria, Madame Carmirelli will play the Violin Concerto which she performed with dazzling success with the BBC Symphony in London's Royal Festival Hall this past season.

The summer '67 edition of Offbeat appeared on local newstands and record bars less than a week ago and already a complete sell-out looks like it is on its way.

Offbeat, Western Canada's fastest growing and widest read magazine for the action set, disappeared from the newstands for a couple of months while the publishers sat down and completely overhauled the paper from cover to cover.

The end result is the best laid-out format in a magazine of its type in Canada.

Its got R.P.M., which is generally accepted to be Canada's top teen newspaper, beat by a long shot not only in page numbers but also in content and appearance.

COMING

FRIDAY, September 1

Back-To-School Dance at the Club Tango with The Blues by Five and The Marquis. 8 'til midnight. Nerve Center Light Show. 1037 View Street.

BITS AND PIECES — The Mixed Emotions who held the top spot in Victoria's music scene until the Blues by Five copped it in the Centennial Battle of the Bands have split. Bassist, Reid Hudson is now with Blues by Five while other ex-members are trying to form new groups. Sounds something like the recent Paul Revere and the Raiders deal . . . By the way, the Raiders seem to be none the worse with a few new members. Their newest, I Had A Dream, is already beginning to show some action on the charts . . . The Supremes are now being billed as Diana Ross and The Supremes instead of just the Supremes. Seems somewhat of a good idea since Diana did most of the work in the trio.

The Jefferson Airplane might have a loser on hand. Their Ballad of Me and You and Poo Neil is getting a lot of requests but sales in the U.S. are not as high as they should be, thinking back to when their last hit, White Rabbit, hit the scene. Maybe, everyone is waiting for long play with it as one of the cuts. Although radio requests are a good sign of something they don't make to much money for a group . . . Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band or The Beatles, whichever they prefer to be called, almost need two names! Their world sales total now stands well over 180,000,000 disks with no sign of it letting up.

Fred Astaire Ageless at 67

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Thank heaven," said ageless Fred Astaire, "I don't have any of those romantic numbers to do.

"I've done so many of them and they're terribly hard work."

The celebrated dancer was slumped in a chair in his dressing room at Warner Brothers.

Astaire is a sensitive man and the interviewer learns to skirt certain areas. For instance, he is bored by references to his age, which happens to be 67.

THAT GREEN GABLES GIRL

Anne Anything but Nam-Pam

By MAVOR MOORE
(Special to The Times)

Those who have never met L. M. Montgomery's Anne, and those who have known her only by hearsay, may be surprised to find her as the heroine of that most modern of entertainments, a hit musical comedy.

The popular misconception is that Anne of Green Gables is a namby-pamby Victorian miss in a juvenile novel exclusively for girls.

But it takes more than this to explain why both girl and book have become universal favorites over more than half a century.

Translated into every major language in the world, beloved by adults and children both (to the point where "Anne" cults have sprung up on every continent including Asia), Miss Montgomery's novel plainly has more to recommend it than female whimsy in rural Nostalgia.

Anne is, of course, anything but a namby-pamby: she is a flashing young woman of independent mind and high spirits, as modern as you please and as ancient as Lysistrata.

The people around her are no unidimensional prigs, but full-blooded humans of strength, frailty, and humor. And Lucy Maud Montgomery looks at their lives not through rose-colored glasses but through very clear spectacles indeed.

It is this very combination of qualities — rejoicing and sorrowing, and the recognition of both — which makes Anne of Green Gables such apt material for the musical comedy form.

An orphan girl filled with poetry and spunk may seem like unpromising corn to harvest; but Anne Shirley is a classic portrait — and a portrait can come to life on the stage with even greater vitality than it can on the printed page.

Since Anne is also unquestionably the best known fictional character in all of Canadian literature, she is a prime choice for the subject of a Canadian musical, in a festival dedicated to being true to ourselves.

●

The Charlottetown Festival's musical version of Anne of Green Gables will be brought to the Royal Theatre in Victoria Sept. 11 and 12 by Festival Canada, the Centennial Commission's performing arts program, in collaboration with the B.C. Centennial Commission.

Free Ports Still Offer Big Bargains

NEW YORK (AP) — A bottle of good scotch for $3.50. A hand-tailored suit of fine cloth for $65.

Free ports — where goods are sold without being taxed — have existed since the middle ages. The jet age has made them more accessible and has boosted their popularity as tourist attractions that also stimulate resort and travel businesses.

Travel to islands in the Caribbean is increasing in part, perhaps, because of the bargains that abound in free ports. The $3.50 bottle of scotch can be bought on St. Thomas and St. Croix. Shoppers can save 50 per cent on watches, china and silver on Aruba and Curacao. Guadelupe and Martinique offer good buys in perfume.

Hong Kong is where you can buy for $65 a suit that would cost $150 in the United States. But you will have to be able to spend a few days there while it is being tailored.

The prices for goods in free ports are usually bargains compared with those at home — if the traveller forgets the cost of his trip.

SHANNON ONCE KING

Ireland's Shannon Airport at one time was known as "the king of free ports." When airliners had propellers, all transatlantic flights stopped at Shannon for refueling. And the volume of business merchants operating there was huge.

Now that long-flying jets have taken over the transatlantic route, only five airlines land at Shannon and its business has declined sharply.

During the middle ages certain European cities granted merchants such trading privileges that they were practically engaging in free trade. With the advent of mercantilism and its trade restrictions, certain coast cities were exempted from these restrictions in order not to kill all international trade.

More than 100 free ports and trade zones now are in operation in 35 countries, usually at seaports.

JANET SENIOR

Three Plays On Way

The Victoria Theatre Guild has cast three plays — The Hollow Crown, Charlie's Aunt and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf.

The Hollow Crown will run from Sept. 27 through to Sept. 30.

The Hollow Crown will be running for four days as compared to the usual seven days of a Guild production.

★ ★ ★

It will be directed by Allan M. Purdy and will feature Adele Lewis and William Broadhurst, along with Lorraine Travis, Sheila Litt, Richard Litt, Allan Purdy and Gordon Limbrick. Young Directors Dazzle Industry

LONDON (AP) — Bob Freeman is 30, shaggy-haired and unabashedly mod. He has never directed a feature film before, yet 20th Century Fox is about to entrust him with approximately $900,000 so he can do so.

Freeman is the latest example of the new breed of director that has caused English films to dazzle the movie world with their creativity. These directors, most of them in their 20s or early 30s, have sprung mostly out of television, and their outlook is fresh and unfettered.

They are willing to try anything. Their experiments have scored high with audiences on both sides of the Atlantic, producing such films as Hard Day's Night, Darling, The Knack, Morgan, Georgy Girl, etc. There are likely to be more such startling attractions, judging from the proliferation of directing talent.

Bob Freeman is embarking on a film called The Touchables, about four London girls who kidnap and seduce a famous man. What is his background for such an undertaking.

"I've been in fashion, advertising, television commercials, photography," he explains. "So I know the visual aspects of presenting things.

"Two of my commercials won prizes at Cannes, and I made commercials to finance a half-hour film about schizophrenia. It cost me $60,000 and I'm not likely to get it back. But it was what I wanted to do."

LOVER IN ATTIC

Joe McGrath, 35, now is directing his second feature film, The Bliss of Mrs. Blossom, a far-out farce about a married woman who keeps a lover in the attic. His star is Shirley MacLaine. He sold her on the project by going to the Cannes film festival and presenting her with the script.

Joe McGarth is a product of television.

"The movie studios, both in London and Hollywood, are too tightly organized for one to get a schooling in all aspects of film-making. But in television you can do it.

"At least you can do it here. I suspect Hollywood is too hide-bound in its television."

Bates Takes Film Role In Europe

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Alan Bates, now appearing in the title role of Richard III and as Ford in the Merry Wives of Windsor, will leave the Stratford Festival before the end of the season to appear in a leading role in a film to be made in Europe this fall.

Mr. Bates will be replaced for the last seven performances of Richard by Neil Dainard and by Leon Pownall for the last five performances of the Merry Wives of Windsor. The festival season ends Oct. 14. Mr. Dainard, a Canadian-born actor, has had leading roles with Canadian repertory companies, and last winter was in the CTV production of Henry V. This is his second season at the Stratford Festival.

'Instant' Musicians

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bach by numbers is here. It's all part of a musical trend among adults who don't have the time or the inclination to practice musical scales.

Today it's "in" to be an "instant" musician," by using numbered sheet music and playing an organ with correspondingly numbered keys.

BUILD SELF-CONFIDENCE

New Prison Features Outside Look

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP) — Canada's newest penitentiary, a pastel-painted prison, which offers prisoners a life that simulates the outside as much as possible was opened officially Friday.

Twenty-five convicts, including three serving life terms, are already in the $9,000,000 medium-security institution and there will be 450 after it approaches full operation late next year.

Most of them will be young offenders, and a sprinkling of "reformable adults."

The warden is Winnipeg-born Pierre Jutras, 54, a veteran of 31 years of federal penitentiary service, who says the new prison will try to provide a "relaxed atmosphere" to help rehabilitation.

"What we will try to teach the men is to build up their self-confidence and self reliance," he said. "There will be as few regulations as possible to give them a chance to make some decisions of their own."

But he says his staff has no magic pill, and for a start "the prisoners are rejects and failures in every step of life, sent here by judges in despair, so we have 2½ strikes against us already."

NOT CLOSELY CONFINED

First sign of the atmosphere at the campus-style prison, 65 miles northeast of Calgary, is that there are no 24-foot stone walls, no guard towers, no .303-calibre rifles—only a simple wire fence.

This new freedom moved one prisoner—who had been subjected to the fortress-prison security of Prince Albert penitentiary, to complain: "People are peeking at us from the outside."

There are four cell units among the 20 buildings on the 64-acre site. Each pastel-colored single cell measures 10 feet by 7½. Windows, without bars, look out over the countryside.

The penitentiary will offer academic education to Grade 12 and a shop area is under construction where vocational training is to start next year. There will be four teachers on staff.

Selection centres will be established in Alberta and Saskatchewan to screen penitentiary prisoners and Drumheller will take medium and minimum-security convicts.

Prisoners spend several days with counsellors and social workers when they arrive.

MUST TAKE COURSE

As prisoners are being weeded out, so are staff members. They have to pass a two-month course, take psychological tests and of one batch of 125 applicants, only 18 were accepted.

Freedom at the new penitentiary, one of four being built across Canada—others are Springhill, N.S., Warworth, Ont., and Cowansville, Que.—goes beyond weaponless security based on trust.

Prisoners will be able to kiss and hold hands with visitors in an informal lounge, but, says Mr. Jutras, "We're not in Mexico yet." Mexico allows prisoners' wives to spend weekends in the cells.

At the 600-prisoner, all-purpose Prince Albert penitentiary, the regimentation includes parading men to the showers. At Drumheller they can go alone—and every night, if they wish.

Instead of taking meals to their cells—which at Prince Albert measure only nine feet by five—Drumheller prisoners will eat in a clean, common cafeteria, a five-minute walk from cell units.

Recreation facilities include baseball, curling and hockey.

The new warden said he isn't "naive enough" not to expect such common prison problems as homosexuality and violence. "But we'll do our best to keep it under control. That's all we can do."

There are punishment facilities which include a 16-cell "dissociation unit" — known as The Hole in other prisons — but Mr. Jutras hoped that "if everything works out we won't have to use it."

He did foresee a problem in view of the ease of smuggling the hallucinogenic drug LSD into prisons, but "we won't take any drug addicts. They all go to Matsqui and Abbotsford (in B.C.)."

Prisoners will be able to earn from 35 to 65 cents a day in the new penitentiary. The amount depends not only on how well a man works, but also on how well he uses his spare time and prison programs.

Prisoners will study in their cells, each of which has steel furniture and a six-channel radio system, but won't have to spend any more time there "than you would in your bedroom."

"We want to make their life as much like the outside as possible," said Mr. Jutras, former deputy regional director for the western region of the Canadian Penitentiary Service.

Drama Teacher Believes Florida Has Potential

NORTH MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — In the belief that Florida's stake in the motion picture industry is growing rapidly, Al Saxe, former drama instructor at the American Theatre Wing in New York City, has opened the Al Saxe Institute of Drama at Studio City here.

Saxe, who has worked with such stars as Elia Kazan, Jack Palance and Shelley Winters, says his goal is to eliminate the necessity for major film studios in the area to import top trained talent from Hollywood.

NEW DUTCH NOVEL

It's Lunatic Against Sane

A ROSE OF FLESH, by Jan Wolkers. Ambassador Books, $5.75.

Reviewed by Dennis Brown

Sensibility and the novel, like architecture, music, Expositions, are becoming more international every day. Hans Wolker's A Rose of Flesh is a new Dutch novel.

But, given the snow, it could have been written in almost any Western town, in any western country and in many Eastern ones too.

Its dividing line is not national: it is the increasingly apparent international boundary between the sensitive and the insensitive, the humane and the brutal; the "lunatic" squeamish fringe and the "sane" permissive mass.

Worker's hero Daniel is a Morgan, an Estragon, a Meursault and something more, in one.

He is the thing itself: unaccommodated modern man—naked, helpless, abused; infirm in body, twisted up in mind and soul.

Bodies, of course, are international.

Whether you're black, yellow, or pinko-grey; whether you're Mongoloid, Negroid or Caucasion, makes no difference to physical reality—the posturing bone-frame, the bellow-wheeze of lungs, the perpetual sluicing of juices and the amoebic ecstasy of cells.

A Rose of Flesh is about bodies, as far as it is about any one thing. Sick bodies, dead bodies, nobodies, busy bodies, animal bodies . . . even the cancerous body-politic, complete with bureaucratic swellings, the neurotic jangling of electronic nerves.

Story About Many Bodies

Daniel is a body haunted by bodies. In the course of the novel his clotted respiratory system pushes him through one complete day—morning to morning—with the aid of coffee, cheese, biscuits, cigarettes and overdoses of drugs.

The instances of the day, and remembered instances of other days, accumulate. There are the baby mice in his cupboard he fries up to feed a guest; the moorhen trapped in ice that he buries alive, too tender to break its neck; the sinister caterpillar that he watches engulf an insect alive.

If Daniel is too aware of himself, too sensitive to suffering and death—and he is—it is clear that the people he meets are too little, so when he sees the putrefying body of a child float down the Seine, a Parisian fisherman nonchalantly continues fishing. "Such things happen!" he says.

Such things happen throughout the book to confirm Daniel's morbid awareness. He sees a funeral, an old woman falling onto the ice. The newspapers shout at him about illness, cannibalism, sadism, grotesque death. So his body works on, ailing; his mind whirls—a fiery wheel of remorse, disgust, fear. He is haunted by the death of his baby daughter, by the still-present spectre of a tyrannical father, by the wife and children from whom he is separated, by the memory, the nightmare of his childhood God.

A Girlfriend of Girlfriend

The day wears on.

He goes out, comes in, goes out. His parents visit him; his son too. He looks out of the window, goes out, returns, reads a magazine or old love letters, brews coffee, lies on the bed. In the evening he's visited by Emma, a girlfriend of a girl friend.

They talk, drink, talk, go to bed, sleep, wake, talk—do not make love. They are strangers to each other. He, a wheezing semi-drugged invalid, and she a thin, awkward, guilt-ridden nurse. They are two solitudes, undesirous of each other as man and woman clinging together in spasmodic talk to exorcise the pain of being alive.

As they talk the themes of the book are recapitulated, complicated—never resolved. Emmie talks about the soldier Hans—killed in New Guinea. Daniel takes up the thread thinking of his own son:

"In 10 years time they'll take Sebastian off. They can send him away wherever their interests are threatened.

"Afterwards the hostile parties will shake hands over his dead body . . ."

Daniel's ruminations about God are parodied by Emmie's hospital story of a woman on her death bed . . . The nurses dial a sort of good Samaritan number on the phone.

The woman listens, hears a pietistic spiel about sin and forgiveness, clutches the receiver, whispers hoarsely desperately into it; dies, still clamping the earpiece against her head — convinced she's been talking to God. . . . While discussing another patient, with an artificial anus below the stomach, Emmie sounds out the physical message of the book:

Novel Horrible Beautiful

"Through that little hole they pull your intestines out, cut into it a bit, fold the edge over and stitch them to the flesh round the hole. It looks very strange. Horrible and beautiful at the same time. It is red and a bit velvety. Just like a flower—a rose. A rose of flesh."

Wolkers' novel is itself horrible and beautiful at the same time. It's not a book for the over-squeamish, or for prudes. It glosses nothing: resolutely refuses the cerebral perfumes, paper towels, fig leaves, and what-have-you that we like to push between body and mind. Yet Wolkers is no muckraker.

Beauty is revealed even in the cave of excrement. Tenderness prevails when disgust would come easier—when it would be easier still to deride or ignore.

The book is well constructed, fairly translated. It's full of startling and compelling scenes. It clearly borrows from Joyce, Beckett, Kaka and others—international still in this—but its strength and partial weakness is its own.

The weakness springs from multiciplicity and perhaps disparate intentions. There is an embarras de richesse. There are too many telling incidents, paradoxically—too well done.

Every page or so, the novel seems to swing on a new mythic axis—a finely-wrought situational metaphor which is itself a microcosmic book. "Use material sparingly," Schoenberg once advised a young composer (presumably in German). Wolkers does not—and his welter of grotesque vignettes never quite merges into a whole.

It's not a book for a visiting nephew or maiden aunt. It is a book for anyone who's fruitfully shocked by the genuinely shocking: a book to ponder and be honest about to oneself: a book to test the sensibility by in private—to see if one stands for sickness, or emotional health. It should be read.

She Returned to Canada Searching for Destiny

Kathleen Parlow, A Portrait, by Maida Parlow French, Ryerson Press, $5.50. Reviewed by Carol Wootton.

Until recently, it has been hard for artists in Canada to accept Hazlitt's dictum that "we can be said only to fulfil our destiny in the place that gave us birth."

On reading the recently published biography of the distinguished violinist, Kathleen Parlow, one is made poignantly aware of the fact that her return to this country in 1941, after years of touring and performing in other parts of the world, was concurrent with a particularly low ebb for string players, and that her final years in Canada did not bring a grand climax to her career as either a performer or a teacher.

If anything the portrait, written by Maud Parlow French and published as a Canadian Centennial offering, proves what a hazardous destiny lies ahead of even the most talented performer, and that behind the bouquets and the acclaim exist also those less idealistic features of concert career: dependence upon good management and a plentiful supply of cash.

Although Parlow enjoyed her extensive touring, the negligible profits eventually influenced her decision to seek a more stable livelihood through teaching. Via Mills College and the Julliard School, she eventually came to live and work in Toronto.

She herself was born at old Fort Calgary in 1890 where her father was factor for the Hudson's Bay Company. However the separation of her parents when she was only five cost a similar severence with this country, and perhaps with any subsequent ideas of a home and family of her own. Later, she was to write that "music begins where love leaves off" and these words might apply not only to the father who "went Indian" and betrayed his family but also to her relations with the masculine sex in general.

Her career became too demanding, her standards of dedication too inflexible to include marriage.

In fact for years she was shocked by the realization that her own pupils could not share a similar sense of dedication, and it was only when her attitude softened that she could be reconciled to those pupils who had learned to combine marriage with a career.

Her early training took her to such widely separated places as San Francisco and St. Petersburg.

Particularly memorable for her was the latter city, since there she became a pupil of Leopold Auer with whom she contined to correspond long after her student days were over.

His fractured English could not screen the warm interest he felt for "his child of music" and Parlow never forgot what she owed her most influential teacher.

It was he who encouraged her in the great romantic repertoire for which she became most noted. Besides Auer's amusing billet-doux, the biography contains interviews and letters written while Kathleen was on tour.

In them there is something of the modern-day Jane Austen in Parlow's sprightly comments relating to the trivia of her profession as well as her perception into its deeper significance.

In the course of her travels Kathleen Parlow hob-nobbed with royalty, including the Queen of Rumania, whose careful diet had a considerably enervating effect on the rest of her household; and the Sultan of Java, whose 56 wives and their 48 children could not fail to leave an impression.

However, she overcame this handicap and returned to play her precious Guarnerius del Gesu, once owned by no less than Viotti.

After her death in 1963, it was sold for $40,000 to provide scholarships for other aspiring violinists. In Kathleen Parlow they had an example of dedication difficult to match, one which enabled her to become from 1908 to 1929 the "outstanding woman violinist of her generation."

This portrait of the artist is not treated as a major work in musical biography or criticism, but it contains enough human interest to attract the uninitiated as well as insight into the life of the professional musician to engage the attention of serious students.

. . . As Far as It Goes Which Isn't Far Enough

STONES OF HISTORY. Canadian Houses of Parliament. A photographic essay. Produced by the National Film Board of Canada. Queen's Printer. $5.00

Reviewed by Alan Gowans

As the name implies, this is primarily a photographic essay and it should be said at once that the photographs are extra-ordinarily good.

Some of them, indeed, could well be called spectacular. There is also a text describing the Parliament Buildings, but the same could not be said of it.

It is a competent description of the buildings, including some material on the architects which I do not recall having seen published anywhere before

•

But as a Centennial project, "prepared to make the one-hundredth anniversary of the Confederation of Canada," it is hardly adequate.

A Centennial project presumably is evidence to the world of the state of national culture, and the level implied by this test is not high.

Insofar as historic buildings are involved, books like this necessarily involve architectural history, but architectural history seems to be a field that this author has never heard of.

His whole text, as far as architectural history goes, might just as well have been written in 1867 as in 1967. Its naivete is truly extraordinary.

•

It tells us the Parliament Buildings are "Gothic," with no suggestion that they are any different from Chartres Cathedral or the Cloth Hall at Ypres. It tells us that they were related to the Parliament Buildings in London, Westminster New Palace, but gives no hint as to precisely what the relationship was. The term "Victorian architecture" is never applied to them, perhaps because the authors do not know the terminology of architectural history and think "Victorian" a term of abuse; it follows that there is no use made of the distinctions between Early, High, and Late Victorian architectural phases, which so neatly explain the differences between the original Parliament Buildings in Ottawa, its predecessor in London, and the later parts built after the fire of 1916. The only hint of anything like this is one quotation comparing Westminster New Palace with the Ottawa buildings—and it was made in the 1960's by Anthony Trollope.

•

There is of course no reason why the general public might be expected to know much about architectural history, and I suppose it is to them that the book is addressed; they are presumably to gape and wonder at the magnificence displayed, and feel it a great compliment to Canada to say that according to Trollope, "if the library were constructed according to plan, it alone would be 'worthy of a visit from English tourists.'

It was constructed according to plan."

But it does seem to me that a book like this, insofar as it projects a national image, should be addressed to something more than a lowest common denominator of taste.

I do not think a book on such a level could or would be published by a government agency in either Britain or the United States; and I hope programs like the new course of study in North American culture initiated in the Art and Art History Division of the University of Victoria will ultimately ensure that books are not published on such a level here, either.

For as long as they are, and it is on books like them that the international image of English Canada is based, then it is hardly surprising if Americans and British think of this country as a backward, naive, "nothing," sort of place, with people like Pierre Berton as its greatest mind, Roloff Beny its greatest talent, and totem poles its greatest national treasure.

HE'D RATHER TALK ABOUT IT

"Deadfall," by Desmond Cory. George J. McLeod, Ltd., 85c (paper).

"The Passenger," by Elizabeth Fenwick. McClelland & Stewart, Ltd. $5.50.

Reviewed by Marjorie Menhenett

The major characters are a jewel thief, highly skilled and trained in what is quite literally his profession, an aging member of the same trade who has turned his talents to planning rather than performance, and an elegant young woman, who disposes of the jewels.

Their philosophies and their interaction engage Cory's attention, and ours, as much as or more than their phenomenal success in their endeavors.

Though there is a strong element of mystery in Elizabeth Fenwick's The Passenger, the story is primarily about the growth and maturation of two young people.

Toby Lewes has an old car which he wants to drive home from his grandmother's house, but his underage driving permit does not qualify him for inter-state travel.

His solution is to advertise for a passenger with an adult licence, and he gets Carol, who has an intense desire to leave town, but no fixed destination. The gradual unfolding of the reason behind Carol's flight, and Toby's response to human evil, and good, constitutes the backbone of the narrative.

Ann Bridge's new novel, The Episode at Toledo, seems to have been conceived primarily to permit her to write once again about her favorite people and places, for it has virtually no plot.

The good guys (for Miss Bridge these are any and all anti-Communists) are once again pitted against the bad (Communists), but here these are such pitifully minor agents, and so inept, that the conflict hardly seems real. Miss Bridge's energies obviously went into her enthusiastic descriptions of Portuguese feudal life at Gralheira and modern Scots farming at Glentoran.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Selling Hits Industrials

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrials reeled under heavy selling pressures on Canada's major stock exchanges this week as earnings continued to decline.

The slump, in its second week, followed the trend on the New York Stock Exchange, the traditional North American leader.

At Toronto, the industrial index, which measures the price movements of key stocks, tumbled 2.74 to 166.89.

Adding to the market's weakness is uncertainty about prospects for the second half of the year.

Some brokers say the markets are going through a period of consolidation. Others predict the markets will not turn around until mid-September when they expect some improvements in the economy.

Trading activity dropped sharply at Toronto with 21,362,000 shares changing hands, compared with 29,461,000 last week.

The decline in turnover was due mainly to a slowdown in speculative buying.

Some analysts say higher interest rates on bonds and other securities are also keeping potential buyers away from the market.

Steels took it on the chin after Algoma announced it had decided to suspend its $175,000,000 expansion program and lay off about 900 workers because of declining demand.

This caused speculation that other major companies would also scrap expansion programs. However, Stelco said it does not intend to cut its $112,000,000 program.

Algoma fell 4⅜ to 23½, Dofasco 1¼ to 24 and Stelco 1½ to 23.

ANNOUNCED DECLINE

Massey Ferguson dropped 1¾ to 20 after touching a yearly low of 19⅛. The company announced a decline in nine-month earnings to $22,000,000 compared with $32,700,000 for the similar period last year.

Thomson Newspapers advanced 1⅞ to 36¼ after being down for most of the week. The company announced its subsidiary, Thomson Newspapers Inc., has purchased the assets of Brush-Moore Newspapers Inc. of the United States.

Western oils also softened as Pacific Pete retreated 1⅛ to 16½, Banff 1⅞ to 15⅝ and Home A and Hudson's Bay ½ each to 21⅜ and 37.

Scurry-Rainbow moved up 2 to 46¼ with most of the gain coming at mid-week. The stock's advance was sparked by a buying spree on the American Exchange. There was no news explaining the sudden rise.

On the speculative side, Consolidated Bellekeno edged up 1½ to 18½ cents on 1,780,000 shares. The stock could have been bought at 7 cents Aug. 17.

ACQUIRED CLAIMS

The company said it has acquired 100 claims in the Coppermine River area of the Northwest Territories as well as 24 additional claims in the Vangorda area of the Yukon.

Chesterville rose 6 to 39 cents on 1,045,000 shares. It has a copper prospect in the Clearwater Stream area of New Brunswick.

Views Differ On Johnson's Tax Boost

NEW YORK (AP)—Two big business organizations in the U.S. differed sharply this week on the 10-per-cent income tax increase proposed by President Johnson.

The National Association of Manufacturers endorsed the idea as necessary to reduce an "intolerable" federal budget deficit but contended the 10-per-cent surcharge on incomes asked by Johnson was too much.

The United States Chamber of Commerce opposed a boost "until it is substantially more certain than now that there will be a major upturn in the economy."

Representatives of business and labor testified on the subject to the House of Representatives ways and means committee.

W. P. Gullander, president of the manufacturers group, urged the committee to approve the tax rise for only one year—not the 21 months for individuals and two years for corporations that Johnson has proposed.

He said, the fear is that the longer this source of revenue remains available, the more likely the federal government is to become dependent on it.

In urging a delay on the tax boost proposal, Walker Winter, head of the chamber's taxation committee, said the argument for the surcharge rested on the administration's forecast of a strong upturn in business activity accompanied by severe inflationary pressures.

'Scattergun Approach', Court Told

TORONTO (CP) — Three ex-directors of British International Finance Canada Ltd. were accused Friday of using a "scattergun approach" in seeking an injunction against the July 28 annual meeting at which they were voted off the board of directors.

Company lawyer D. K. Laidlaw described the case put forward by Dr. Peter Charlebois, William J. Moillard and Andrew M. Woffard as an "incomplete general smear."

The plaintiffs seek to have the Ontario Supreme Court declare the meeting illegal on grounds the methods used in their ouster were "calculated to deliberately deceive the shareholders from whom they were asking proxies."

Building Volume Declines

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Shortage of investment funds and slack in the economy are combining to cut the volume of construction this year below that for 1966, Peter Dalton, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said Friday.

Mr. Dalton said in an interview the association's concern is not limited to house construction. Other fields of construction are feeling the pinch, he said.

"The mid-year report on private and public capital investment showed some increase in dollar terms, but we think that the volume of construction put in place in 1967 is not going to be as good as it was in 1966."

He said expenditure on engineering is up, but the volume of construction in manufacturing, financial and commercial enterprise is down.

MONEY IS SHORT

There is a shortage of mortgage money, interest rates are high, and some companies are putting off projects. He said the decision of Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. to postpone expansion was "only one of a lot of such decisions."

The trade department's mid-year report on investment intentions forecast a $9,712,000,000 construction program for 1967, 3.9 per cent higher than in 1966.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics indexes of residential and non-residential building material prices in July were 2.5 and 1.5 per cent higher than a year ago.

Wages and salaries paid in the construction industry in April totalled $221,300,000, compared with $205,100,000 in April last year, with the figures adjusted for seasonal variations.

$60 Million Program Announced by Dynasty

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dynasty Explorations Ltd. of Vancouver announced Friday that a $60,000,000 program to produce lead and zinc concentrates in the Yukon will be undertaken immediately by Anvil Mining Corp. Ltd.

Dynasty owns 40 per cent of Anvil. Cyprus Mines Corp. of Los Angeles owns 60 per cent.

A. E. Aho, president of the Dynasty, said Anvil has signed contracts with Mitsui Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd. and Toho Zinc Co. Ltd. in Japan for the total output over an eight-year period, with a total value estimated at $250,000,000.

First deliveries of concentrates are scheduled for late 1969.

The lead-zinc ore will be mined by open pit methods and will be processed at a mill to be built in the Vangorda district of the central Yukon, about 125 miles north of Whitehorse. The concentrates will be shipped overland to Alaska and then by ship to Japan.

Anvil holds approximately 2,600 mineral claims in the Vangorda area, covering about 130,000 acres. Reserves of 50,000,000 tons of ore have been proven to date.

Northern Development Minister Laing said in Whitehorse Friday that the Canadian government will provide roads, power facilities and assistance in the construction of a townsite to accommodate an initial 1,000 to 1,500 persons. There will be 250 employees at the outset.

Famous Exchange Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Penny stocks are scrambling to other western markets in the United States and Canada from the deathbed of their true love, the San Francisco Mining Exchange.

The romantic little old lady died Aug. 15, at the age of 105.

Since the gold rush days she had wooed speculators with a gambler's chance to make a fortune, or lose one. Hers was the lure of gold, silver, copper, and uranium at the penny arcade prices of mining companies trying to make a name and a mint.

She died impoverished, almost deserted and in disgrace. But her passing was mourned by a handful of followers. They came for days after the close to sit facing the empty green chart boards in Room 200 at 256 Montgomery Street.

Thirty-one mining companies stayed until the end, then hurried away to seek listings on exchanges in Salt Lake City, Spokane, Calgary, Vancouver, or Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco and Los Angeles, or to establish a market in over-the-counter trading.

On the last day only two brokers remained. Business had dwindled from $8,000,000 in 1956, during a uranium revival, to $2,000,000 last year to $725,000 for the six months this year.

OKANAGAN OPERATING PROFIT UP

VANCOUVER (CP)—Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. Friday reported an operating profit for the first half of this year of $160,000 more than for the same period of last year.

No other figures were given. President Glenn McPherson said the company's gross revenue has increased and at the same time the operating costs have been reduced making the profits possible.

Four new helicopters have been bought and two more are on order for delivery this fall, he said.

A BUSINESS COURSE FOR EMPLOYED PERSONS leading to professional recognition
In commercial and industrial firms, institutions and governments, professional accountants hold responsible executive positions. Conversant with tax and financial problems, budgeting and accounting, they have skills that are essential to the proper management of every type of enterprise.
The Certified General Accountants' Association of British Columbia, through its affiliation with the University of British Columbia, offers young men and women an opportunity to become professional accountants and financial executives.
If you have completed Grade 12 in B.C. or the equivalent elsewhere, you can enrol in a five-year course of study leading to certification as a Certified General Accountant (C.G.A.). This course may be completed either at evening lectures or by correspondence while you remain permanently employed and earn a regular income.
Applications for enrollment for the 1967-68 term will be accepted by the Registrar up to September 8, 1967.

Public Works Challenge

By AB KENT
Business Editor

As industry goes, so goes government spending — only later.

The B.C. public works department said this week the need for government institutional building will continue "for many years to come," a reflection of the population and industrial growth of this province.

Kent

Of necessity, government spending for new buildings must be based on firm demand by the general public, business and industry, hence major projects follow such pressure at some distance.

From time to time the spread between need and fulfilment is such that the reiteration becomes a cliche, as in the long campaign for a new courthouse at Duncan.

In matters like that political considerations may sometimes override obvious necessity.

Much of the provincial public works being undertaken in the current fiscal year are related to the social services, leaving a backlog of projects such as jails, courthouses and administrative centres.

* * *

"The future holds tremendous challenge for the department of public works. The demand for new buildings exceeds the amount provided for building them," said a senior official.

"This is a healthy sign and indicates the growth of the province . . . Emphasis on one aspect of the need only means delay of the other portions."

The department has under way a total 67 major projects — appropriately for centennial year — the smallest worth $50,000 and ranging up to $9 million.

All must be designed and put to tender by the department, then built by private industry, which helped start the cycle in the first place.

A special meeting called Wednesday by Lafarge Cement of North American Ltd. approved a move creating 2 million 5 per cent redeemable preference shares at $1 par.

Directors are empowered to issue the shares as dividends if it is thought shareholders would enjoy a tax advantage. The theory is that such dividends would not be taxable as income.

But perhaps they would be if they are subsequently redeemed for cash. It may take a test case to decide.

Lafarge president James Sinclair told the meeting the prospects for second half business are reasonably favorable.

In that opinion he concurs with Ocean Cement, where it is regarded that heavy construction will continue at a good level.

Selkirk Holdings Ltd. president J. S. MacKay reports a hefty increase in revenue, earnings and acquisitions in the first half of 1967.

The board of broadcast governors approved Selkirk's bid to secure an additional 25 per cent holding in Victoria radio station CJVI, which would raise the total interest to 75 per cent.

There will also be a hearing Sept. 12 on a request to acquire Calgary television outlet CHCT, of which Selkirk now holds 13.3 per cent.

The company also has substantial interest in Vancouver station CKWX Radio Ltd., whose finances were not included in the report to June 30.

Gross revenue from operations came to $2.5 million compared with $1.9 million in the same period last year.

Operating expenses were $2.069 million ($1.5 million), leaving net income after taxes at $261,291 ($200,025), or 36.4 cents per share (30.9 cents).

A quarterly dividend of 7½ cents will be distributed Sept. 29, bringing the six-month dividend to 15 cents, same as last year.

PART OF HEAVY PRESSURE vessel shipments totalling more than 300 tons are shown in loaded position just before departure from Victoria Machinery Depot. The long, cigar-shaped unit is one of two chlorine storage tanks each weighing 106 tons that were made for Hooker Chemical Co. plant in North Vancouver. Each 144 feet in length, they will hold 666 tons of chlorine. The heat exchanger in the second photo is part of an order filled for Pan American Refining Co., at Fox Creek, Alta., which also took a 91-ton petroleum chamber measuring 72 feet.

Decision Raises Anger

VANCOUVER (CP) — Angry clients of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Waite, Reid and Co. have called a meeting Monday to discuss an Ontario Supreme Court decision that blocks release of shares held in safekeeping by the defunct company.

A spokesman for the clients said the purpose of the meeting is to "form a consolidated effort to get more pertinent information and to impress officials with the urgency of the matter."

The group has retained the services of a lawyer. It was not known how many clients were involved in the move.

Dunwoody and Co. of Vancouver and Toronto, trustees in the bankruptcy, had applied to the Ontario Supreme Court for an order permitting the firm to open communications with clients for the purpose of establishing proof of claims.

Once this proof was obtained, the trustees had intended to release the securities to Waite, Reid clients. The request was denied.

CLAIMS HELD UP

A spokesman for the trustees said the company has been told by the registrar of the Ontario court that no claims will be paid until inspectors to represent all creditors are appointed.

These appointments cannot take place until after a creditors' meeting. The creditors' meeting had originally been scheduled for Sept. 22, but the Dunwoody spokesman said efforts are being made to have it moved forward to Sept. 14 in Toronto.

Soviet 'Copter Considered

MOSCOW (CP)—Top officials of Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. wound up a 10-day series of meetings Friday with Soviet copter manufacturers and said there is a distinct possibliity the company will buy from the Russians.

Leonard Cook, president of Okanagan, said in an interview his firm is considering a crane type of helicopter called MI-10, one of the world's biggest, for use in heavy construction work.

If studies confirm the machines' value, the company would buy one model initially to test its economics and characteristics and to integrate it into the firm's 'copter fleet and there would be the possibility of further orders in the future.

He declined to say the price quoted by Soviet officials for the machine which can lift 12-ton loads.

Labor Minister Denies Reports

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Nicholson said this week that increased unemployment insurance benefits are still a priority legislative item "with me and with the government."

He denied published reports that any delay is intended in introducing increased benefits and a higher ceiling.

"I said in July that I hoped to introduce this legislation some time this fall. I am still hopeful."

Roughies Roll To Top Berth With Late TD

By The Canadian Press

It took a last-minute touchdown to do it, but Saskatchewan Roughriders knocked off the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 24-18 Friday night in Regina to grab a share of first place in the Western Football Conference.

And with most pre-season predictions calling for the Roughriders and Calgary Stampeders to battle for the WFC crown, the guessers look pretty good today.

The defending Grey Cup champion Riders are tied with Calgary, each with three victories. Winnipeg and Edmonton are deadlocked for third while British Columbia Lions are on the bottom with four straight setbacks. The Lions try again Sunday afternoon in Vancouver against the Stampeders.

At Regina Friday night, Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster rallied his forces as time was running out, after Winnipeg had pulled even at 18-18.

He found Alan Ford with a 27-yard pass to the Winnipeg 44 to start the drive, and went over from the one on a keeper play to end it.

PLOEN HURTS SHOULDER

It was a tough loss for the Bombers, especially for second string quarterback Bill Van Burkleo, who replaced Kenny Ploen in the second quarter. Ploen left with a badly bruised shoulder, and was followed minutes later by fullback Butch Pressley, also with a shoulder injury.

Today's CFL game between Toronto and Montreal can be seen on Channels 2 and 6 starting at 5 p.m.

Van Burkleo's passing was the key to Winnipeg's comeback in the final quarter, when the Bombers scored two touchdowns to erase an 18-5 deficit. Long passes to Ken Neilson set up both of them, one from the Saskatchewan seven and one from the eight.

Before Lancaster's game-winner, Saskatchewan had touchdowns from George Reed and Ed Buchanan, both converted by Jack Abendschan. Abendschan also kicked a single and a field goal.

LIONS REVAMPED

As the scene shifts to Vancouver Sunday, Calgary Stampeders will face a revamped B.C. team, playing for the first time under new coach Jim Champion.

Champion made other changes Friday as well. He cut rookie defensive back Grant Martinsen from Utah State and replaced him with Steve Shafer, who sat out the last game.

CLARK FASTEST DRIVER OVER TWISTING CIRCUIT

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Drivers today got down to the serious business of setting fast lap times to decide positions on the starting grid in Sunday's Grand Prix of Canada, the first race ever held in this country for Formula I cars.

Former world champion Jim Clark of Scotland showed the other 17 entrants what he could do Friday when he bettered the lap record over the twisting 2.45-mile road course by turning in a practice time of one minute, 22.9 seconds, an average of 106 miles an hour.

The record of 1.23.1, set a year ago by Dan Gurney, stands, however, because official lap marks must be set in competition.

Altogether 18 drivers are expected to be on the starting grid when the green flag drops Sunday for the 220-mile race of 90 laps around the asphalt circuit.

NIRMAL WILL BE LISTENING

He won't be watching but little Nirmal Dillon will be listening eagerly for results of tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff game at Memorial Arena between Victoria Shamrocks and Coquitlam Adanacs. Under treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital for eye injury suffered Wednesday at Coquitlam, Shamrock ace gets cheerful attention from nurse Sonia Rees. Injury is not considered serious and Nirmal may be back in action next week if Rocks win tonight's deciding game of semifinal and enter final against Vancouver Carlings. Canadians Fail To Reach Finals

OTTAWA (CP)—Eleven finals will be decided today at the Canadian junior open tennis championships, but no Canadians will be taking part in any of the events.

Experts predict a five-set final in the under-18 boys' singles when top-ranked John Williams of Bridgend, Wales, clashes with second seed Ian Russell of Melbourne, Australia.

Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., United States national junior champion, is heavily favored to win the under-18 girls' singles over her doubles' partner Linda Tuero of Metavie, La.

Three of the four finalists in the under-18 singles will be involved in doubles finals.

The top-ranked team of Williams and Steve Cornell of Oakland, Calif., will match strokes with Mac Claflin of Coral Gables, Fla., and Butch Palmer of Phoenix, Ariz., second-seeded pair.

In semi-final play Friday at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club, Williams and Cornell beat the younger team of Sandy Mayer of Woodmere, N.J., and Richard Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., 4-6 6-1 6-2.

The second-seeded pair had an easy time of it trouncing third seeds Russell and Jim Ebbitt of Montreal 6-1, 6-3.

The top-ranked pair, Miss Bartkowicz and Miss Tuero, clash with Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., and Vicki Rogtrs of Rye, N.Y., in the final of the under-18 doubles.

BEAT B.C. PAIR

Miss Rogers and Miss Hogan trounced Susan Eager and Janice Tindle both of Vancouver, 6-0, 6-0, and Miss Bartkowicz and Miss Tuero crushed Jade Schiffman of Riverdale, N.Y., and Jane O'Hara of Toronto 6-1, 6-3 in semi-final play.

The mixed double final has Miss Bartkowicz and John Lamerato of Hamtramck, Mich., meeting Cornell and Miss Tuero. The latter pair made it to the final by taking a well-played game over Stockton and Lydia Sampson of Tarrytown, N.Y., 11-9.

Plums, Peaches' sister, will be participating in three final events.

Six-Run Outburst Wraps Up Playoff

Six runs in the ninth inning at Macdonald Park Friday night carried Northwestern Creamery to a 14-8 victory over James Bay Athletic Association and a triumph in the challenge series between the playoff champs of the Commercial and Industrial Softball Leagues.

It was the second win for the Industrial League club in the best-of-three series. One game was tied.

Three-Run Surge Upsets Nanaimo

SASKATOON (CP) — Two clubs, virtually unknown before the tournament began, scored wins Friday in the Canadian senior men's softball championships.

Hull-Lambert Rolley's scored three runs in the sixth inning and handed highly-rated Nanaimo, B.C., a 10-8 setback in one of four games Friday. Winnipeg Canadians blanked Saskatoon Lads 7-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Ken Dilk.

In other games, Edmonton Playboys shut out the Loggieville, N.B., Bisons 5-0 and the Lads edged Labrador City, Nfld., 1-0.

In games today, Hull-Lambert meets Saskatoon Merchants, and St. Thomas, Ont., meets Winnipeg in A event semi-finals in the modified double-knockout tournament. Nanaimo and Edmonton meet in one B event semi-final with the other semi-final berths to be decided by the morning games.

The tournament ends Sunday.

Gaston Lemieux pounded a two-run triple in the bottom of the sixth to pace Hull-Lambert to victory over Nanaimo. He also had a single and finished the game with a two-for-four performance at the plate with two runs batted in.

Hartley, Larson (5) and Caljoun; Berry, Pierce (4) and Boivin. Home run: Nanaimo—Willgress.

CANADIANS JUST MISS . . . . . . BY 8½ POUNDS

Tuna Un-Cooperative

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The United States won its fifth International Tuna Cup match Friday in a tournament in which the fish played a reluctant role.

Fishermen on the four teams entered in the tournament said there was no shortage of the big bluefins, but they seemed disinterested in the bait.

Only two fish were caught—one by R. E. Naftzger of the U.S. team and one by Dr. Norman Belliveau of the Canadian team.

Naftzger's 683½ - pound fish, boated Thursday, was 8½ pounds heavier than the Canadian fish. With points awarded on the basis of one per pound of fish caught, the U.S. won by a margin of 8½ points.

Hundreds of spectators lined the waterfront at nearby Wedgeport Friday afternoon when the Canadian fish was brought to shore.

It appeared to be about the same size as the U.S. fish and the crowd spent several agonizing minutes awaiting the weigh-in. Finally the fish was positioned on the scales—which decided to malfunction.

Another set was flown in from Cape St. Mary while the Canadian team—looking much like expectant fathers—paced up and down and worried about their fish losing weight through dehydration.

The bluefin was covered with oilskins and salt water was poured over it until the scales arrived by RCAF helicopter.

PRINCE GEORGE HURLER ALSO SHINES AT PLATE

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Teams representing Rock Island and Moline, Ill., Dubuque, Iowa, and Prince George, B.C., won first-round games Friday in the International Softball Congress tournament.

Dubuque scored a 1-0, extra-inning victory over Austin, Tex., and Jim Sperry's 14-strikeout performance carried Rock Island to another 1-0 triumph over Valparaiso, Ind.

Prince George downed Vanwert, Ohio, 1-0, when pitcher Gord Houston got the B.C. team's only hit, a run-scoring single in the fifth inning.

Twenty-three teams, including defending champion Gardena, Calif., are entered in the double elimination tournament which runs through to Sept. 3.

TOPS QUALIFIERS

O'Dell Leads Way In Stocker Trials

Youthful Rick O'Dell burned rubber at Western Speedway Friday night to lead 15 Vancouver Island drivers into tonight's stock-car meet against throttle-jockeys from the State of Washington.

Friday's meet was held to decide the 15 qualifiers who would go against visiting pilots, who will drive the "super stocks" used on the Washington circuit.

O'Dell was the top qualifier as he screeched his machine around the Millstream Road oval in the fast time of 21.27 seconds.

Roy Haslam was next in line with a timing of 21.28, followed by Ross Surgenor and Gary Kershaw. In 16th place was Dave Ferris, who will start tonight if one of the qualifiers is unable to run.

One of the Washington drivers, Bill Williams of Seattle, had a crack at the track in Friday's main event but would up on second place behind Victoria's Roy Smith, who didn't make the top 15 in trials.

Tonight's program starts at 7:30.

Top 15—1. Rick O'Dell, 2. Roy Haslam, 3. Ross Surgenor, 4. Gary Kershaw, 5. Tony Mortel, 6. Neil Montgomery, 7. Fred Best, 8. John Gibbs, 9. Larry Walker, 10. Bill Powell, 11. John Currier, 12. Albert Smith, 13. John Harris, 14. Bob Collins, 15. Dave Anderson.

Unbeaten List To Be Thinned

Only one team will be undefeated after this evening in the double-loss Lower Island senior "B" men's softball championship tournament.

Winners of this afternoon's Carlings-Sooke Forest Products and Luckies-Molsons opening-round contests meet head-on tonight at 6:30 at Central Park.

Brown Returning To Pro Football

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Enquirer says the American Football League franchise in Cincinnati will be awarded to the group headed by Paul Brown.

The newspaper says professional football commissioner Pete Rozelle will make the formal announcement late next week.

Cincinnati was awarded the franchise in June and several local groups have been seeking official sanction to operate the new team. Brown, former coach of Cleveland Browns of the National League, is the leader of one group.

No Rain to Spoil Dean's No-Hitter

Masterpiece by Chance Moves Twins Into First

By The Associated Press

Dean Chance threw a no-hitter at Cleveland Indians in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader Friday that enabled Minnesota Twins to sweep into first place in the American League.

Only the score spoiled it. The Indians got a run without a hit in the first inning, and the Twins won 2-1. They took the opener 6-5.

Chance threw a hitless game earlier this month, but it was rained out after 4½ innings so it won't go into the record book. This one, though, was the real thing.

Elsewhere in a full American League schedule, Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split 7-1 and 1-2, Detroit Tigers blanked Kansas City Athletics 3-0 and New York Yankees took two games from Washington Senators 7-5 and 2-1. The California-Baltimore doubleheader was rained out.

STRIKES OUT 8

Chance struck out eight, but gave up five walks and two of those were what helped the Indians to their run. Lee Maye and Vic Davalillo led off the first with walks and an error by Cesar Tovar loaded the bases. Maye then scored on a wild pitch.

The Twins scored in the second off Sonny Siebert when Tony Oliva singled and scored all the way from first on Harmon Killebrew's single. Tovar scored on a balk with the winning run in the sixth.

In the first game Oliva scored on Killebrew's triple in the 10th and Sandy Valdespino drove in Harmon with a sacrifice fly. Joe Azcue homered in the bottom of the inning for the Indians.

Boston jumped all over Gary Peters in the first game in Chicago and George Scott pounded out four hits. Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith each had two. Jim Lonborg picked up his 17th victory.

DRIVES WINNING RUN

In the nightcap, Ken Berry drove in the winning run for the White Sox with a single. Berry had homered in the sixth to give Chicago a 1-0 lead, but Smith tied the game in the eighth with a run-scoring single. Each club is now half a game behind the Twins.

Bob Tillman drove in three runs for the Yankees in the first game, and Mel Stottlemyre, 13-10, was the winner.

MARICHAL POUNDED

In the National League, Atlanta Braves welcomed Juan Marichal back to action by pounding the San Francisco Giant pitcher for 11 hits. Making his first appearance since Aug. 1, Marichal lasted only 4½ innings as Atlanta rolled up a 5-1 victory.

Elsewhere in the National the streaking Philadelphia Phillies swept a twi-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 and 6-2 to move into fourth place, Cincinnati Reds shaded Houston Astros 2-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers split with St. Louis Cardinals, winning 2-1 and then losing 4-1. Chicago's game at New York was rained out.

Jim Bunning hurled his 37th career shutout and held Pittsburgh to six hits as the Phillies took the first game of the doubleheader.

In the nightcap, Chris Short won his first game since July 4 as the Phillies completed the sweep to give the Phillies a record five straight victories.

Closure Erases Game Club Events

Another event at the Goldstream grounds of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association has been erased by the current forest closure.

Forced earlier to cancel their annual family barbecue, slated for Sunday, game club officials announced today that tonight's pre-hunting season dance has also been cancelled.

BILL RUSSELL
. . . status questioned

Russell Ignites Protest

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Nanaimo Luckies put together a brilliant display of passing Friday before 1,000 fans and handed Kamloops Molsons a 12-7 setback in the first game of the best-of-three series for the B.C. senior 'B' lacrosse crown.

The series continues here tonight. A third game, if necessary, will be played Sunday afternoon.

Russell scored two goals and asisted on two others, but Kamloops team officials claim he is ineligible since he has also played this seaon with Victoria of the senior 'A' Inter-City League.

FOUR FOR BIGS

Big gun for the visitors was Larry Biggs with a four-goal, one-assist effort. Charn Dhillon, Don Sherry and Russell netted two apiece while Ken Henderson and Murray Thomas supplied singles.

Pete Bourchier led Kamloops with two goals and three assists. Russ Chambers, Keith McEachren, Brian Ansley, Clarence Nelson and Frank Pouncey added singles.

The game was marred by 34 penalties, of which Nanaimo collected 19. Defenceman Gary Thompson of Nanaimo was ejected for fighting in the middle of the third period on a match misconduct penalty. He is disqualified from further play in the series.

FOOTBALL BUDDIES WRITING . . . . . . REMARKABLE 'TOGETHERNESS' STORY

NOW HEAR THIS . . . !

By DOUG PEDEN

Success of a football coach often depends on ability to develop harmony in his club and Don McKeta got a running start on "togetherness" when he obtained Hayward Williams and Dick Zampese for Victoria Steelers.

He also acquired a pair of guys who could give the Steelers one of the exciting and potent passing attacks in the Continental League's western division.

When McKeta sends his Steelers out for their first league game of the new season Sunday at Anaheim, Calif., fans are certain to be watching Zampese and Williams, a pair of gridiron buddies who have been writing one of football's most remarkable friendship stories since they played on the same high school team in Santa Barbara.

Born in Santa Barbara and living within a couple of hundred yards of each other, Zampese and Williams have remained together through the seasons.

Both were named junior college all-Americans and both went on to star at New Mexico University. They stepped into into professional ranks and were together with Montreal Beavers last season in the Continental League's eastern division.

Topped Nation in Pass-Receiving

Williams, perhaps a slightly greater breakaway threat because of the speed that enabled him to run a 100 yards in 9.8 seconds, is also a former high school All-American.

Zampese, also fast and tall, added honors with Hancock Junior College in 1964 when he topped college pass-receivers in the U.S. by grabbing 78 tosses during the season.

Both are 25, room together, work at end or flanker and help each other out on the field.

As expected, Zampese, 206 pounds, and Williams, 210 were two of the players on the list when McKeta selected his squad for Sunday's opening battle with the Orange County Ramblers at Anaheim.

"I am leaving some of the backs behind to carry more big linemen," McKeta said. "We are taking the squad we think we can win with."

Included in the travelling group were several recent additions to the Steelers, including 235-pound linebacker Malcom Williams, Hayward's younger brother.

Also among them were Warren Jackson, former UCLA fullback who was a contender for a regular berth with B.C. Lions this summer; former Colorado State fullback John Amos, quarterback Terry Durham, a former junior college all-American; flanker Bob Wilson and big tackle Bernie Hines.

Durham Also Slated to See Action

Frank Etter is slated to start at quarterback but, said McKeta, Durham will also see action against the Ramblers, who are rated one of the toughest clubs in the division.

Gary DeBarnardi is expected to start at fullback with Billy Taylor at halfback, Hayward Williams as flanker, Zampese at split end and U of Washington grad Bruce Cramer at tight end.

In the offensive line will be Ed Ost, a 215-pound centre, guards Lutz Keller (225) and Wayne Conrad (230), tackles Bob Coutts (225) and Jordan Ellis (240).

Defensively, Fred Forsberg (240), Mose Watkins (245), Hines (230) and Tom Sheremata (230) will be the front four.

Former All-American Kurt Gegner, Malcolm Williams and Carl Wetterauer are listed as linebackers with Jim Reed, a late cut from Dallas Cowboys; Ken Danchuk, Eddie Johnson and Dave Dillon in the defensive backfield.

McKeta, who had his squad viewing films of the Ramblers at a Friday meeting, left no doubt that he won't mind if his Steelers keep the Orange County trainer busy attending to shaken-up Ramblers.

"We are going to be known as the hardest-hitting club in the league," he told his players. "If you're not going to play that way, you're not going to play for me.

"We're going down there to win this thing."

Brother Talks to Shots On Way to Junior Final

TORONTO (CP) — Jay Paukkunen of Port Arthur will match his polished swing and steel nerves against two brothers today in the 36-hole final match-play round of the Canadian junior golf championship.

Roxburgh, playing in his first Canadian championship, has been golfing less than three years. "But I play all year in Vancouver."

"He's good, but I talk to all his shots," said Bob Roxburgh after brother Doug defeated Stephen Bannatyne of Winnipeg on the final hole of Friday's semi-final round.

Bob Roxburgh, 16, never leaves his brother's side on the course. He kneels behind him on the greens to help line up the putt and talks to him quietly as they walk down the fairways.

STEADY IN CLUTCH

A clutch golfer who never gives up, Paukkunen proved his steadiness Friday by overcoming a three-hole deficit with three holes remaining to tie the match with a 30-foot birdie putt on the 18th green.

He then went on to beat Mike Mooney of Red Deer, Alta., on the second extra hole of the semi-final.

The 30-foot putt was the second of the day for Paukkunen on the 18th. He was even with Peter Lago of Guelph after 17 holes of the morning round and won it with the clutch stroke.

Roxburgh defeated Doug Painter of Toronto 3 and 1 in the morning round, while Mooney beat Richard Dumeah of Liverpool, N.S., 1 up.

Bannatyne was scheduled to play Pete Oakley of Falls Church, Va., but the U.S. golfer arrived 15 minutes after tee-off time and was disqualified.

Pistols Locked But Traps Open For Marksmen

The Vancouver Island pistol championships, scheduled to be fired at the Victoria City Police range Sunday, have been postponed because of a general forest closure.

The annual Vancouver Island Shooting League trap shooting event, however, will be held Sunday as scheduled. Trap shooters will compete in team and individual events at the Port Alberni Gun Club range starting at 9 a.m.

The meet was originally placed at Nanaimo but was transferred because of the forest closure. Alberni's traps are not located in a forest zone.

Gray Saves Red Lions By Dousing Late Rally

Gordie Gray put out the fire Friday night at Heywood Avenue Park and Red Lion Inn charged into the lead in the best-of-five, city senior "C" men's softball playoff.

Gray came to the rescue of the Lions as a relief pitcher in the final inning and doused a rally by Century Inn, enabling the Lions to hold on for a 5-4 victory and a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

On the short end of a 5-3 count as they came to bat in the bottom half of the seventh inning, the Century clouters pulled within one run when Vern O'Donnell's single chased losing pitcher Ferd Pilon across the plate.

That brought Gray to the mound in the uncomfortable situation of two men on base and nobody out. Gordie promptly got the next two batters to ground into forceouts and retired the last swinger on an infield bounder.

The series will continue at 6:30 Sunday on the Heywood diamond.

English in Control

LONDON (Reuters)—A third-wicket stand of 141 by Ken Barrington, 129 not out and Tom Graveney 77 put England in firm control of the third and final test against Pakistan after a poor start to the second day here Friday.

Barrington and Graveney came together after England, employing delaying tactics early in the day, had lost its opening pair, Colin Cowdrey and captain Brian Close, for 35.

But it staged a superb recovery to take England to 257 for 3 at the close—a lead of 41 runs over Pakistan which was able to add only two runs to its overnight first-innings score of 214 for 9.

Leicestershire beat Gloucestershire by 6 wickets. Gloucestershire 106 and 402; Leicestershire 354 and 158 for 4.

Derbyshire beat Northamptonshire by 4 runs. Derbyshire 207 and 147; Northamptonshire 145 and 205.

Hately Leads Liverpool To Rout of Newcastle

LONDON (AP)—Tony Hateley, the centre-forward who cost £100,000 ($300,000) in the transfer market, scored three goals today to help Liverpool hammer Newcastle 6-0 in soccer's English League.

A crowd of 52,000 saw Hateley get his first goals for Liverpool. He was transferred from Chelsea just before the start of the season.

But Sheffield Wednesday, with a 2-1 win over Burnley, kept the lead in the standings with six points from three games. No other team in the First Division has a 100-per-cent record.

SCORE LATE GOAL

Sheffield Wednesday had its game against Burnley won inside 15 minutes with goals by Jack Fantham and John Ritchie. Burnley's goal didn't come until ten minutes from the end, when left-winger Frank Casper scored after running half the length of the field.

Mike Stringfellow sent Leicester into a shock lead in the 55th minute. After that Leicester's 19-year-old goalkeeper, Peter Shilton, kept out everything from Manchester's feared goal-scoring trio—Bobby Charlton, Denis Law and George Best.

It was defender Bill Foulkes who went up to head the equalizer for Manchester in the 63rd minute.

HEROIC SAVES

Shilton went on making heroic saves until 10 minutes from the end. Then he was hit on the knee by a cannonball from Best and was carried off with a suspected broken leg.

Sunderland, reduced to 10 men, scored a 1-0 victory over Everton—the team that conquered Manchester United on the first day of the season.

Scottish Bowlers Leading

MONTREAL (CP) — Scotland maintained the lead Friday in the international centennial lawn bowling tournament despite a fourth-round loss in doubles competition to the United States.

Scotland remained undefeated in singles play after four rounds and led in the standings with 14 points.

The United States hung on to second place with 12 points based on three victories and one loss in singles play and three wins and one loss in doubles competition.

Wales was third in the standings with eight points and Ireland was in sole posession of fourth place with six.

England and Canada were tied for fifth with four points each.

NEGROES MISSING OUT ON AD ENDORSEMENTS

NEW YORK (AP)—An affiliate of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says American Negro athletes are being discriminated against in the selection of celebrities for television sports commercials.

A copy of a survey on which the charge is based has been sent to the Federal Communications Commission with a suggestion for a "fuller investigation by the FCC of the possibility of racial bias in the production and broadcast of television commercials."

The survey report says Negroes appeared in five per cent of 351 commercials connected with the coverage of 47 sports programs in New York last fall.

SENIORS' TOURNEY

Bigelow Bidding For Third Crown

George Bigelow, Victoria's divoting doctor, will be swinging for his third major tournament triumph of the year at Victoria Golf Club.

Winner of the 1967 Canadian and B.C. seniors' crowns, Bigelow will be attempting to retain the title he won last year when the 45th annual Seniors' Northwest Golf Association tournament starts at the Oak Bay links.

In addition to the tournament, which consists of a grand championship and five age divisions, the seniors will participate Sunday in an annual team contest between U.S. and Canadian squads.

SCHOOL BUS INFORMATION AND SCHEDULES FOR THE SCHOOL YEAR 1967-68

SCHOOL BOARD POLICY — PUPIL TRANSPORTATION

School bus transportation, subject to available seating space, will be provided for:

Grade 1 - 3—Pupils who live more than two miles from the nearest Elementary School.

Grade 4 - 7—Pupils who live more than two and one-half miles from the nearest Elementary School.

Grade 8 - 12—Students who live more than three miles from the nearest Secondary School.

Mileage distances are calculated by the most direct route on established roads or walk areas, the distance being from the home property access at the road to the entry of the school site.
All occupational class students, except those who have been advised to attend North Saanich Junior Secondary, will attend at Mount Newton Junior Secondary School.
Special classes have been established at BRENTWOOD, CORDOVA BAY, McTAVISH ROAD and SANSBURY ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS. All pupils attending these classes have been advised. The following school bus schedules indicate the schools at which buses stop on each of the trips so that pupils attending the special classes and who are entitled to transportation may determine which bus to ride to arrive at the school where the special class to be attended is held.

GENERAL COMMENTS:

1. Any questions or further information about the school bus schedules should be directed to the School Board Office, Sidney, Telephone 656-1111, or write to P.O. Box 100, Sidney. Every effort has been made to establish the bus routes to serve the greatest number of students who are entitled to school bus transportation in accordance with existing school board policy.
   A few days will be required after school opening to allow for a "shake down" period and the indulgence of all concerned is requested.
2. In general it is expected that the return afternoon school bus runs will be the reverse of the morning runs.
3. Tentatively the schools in School District No. 63 (Saanich) will open as indicated, Tuesday, September 5th, 1967.

SECONDARY SCHOOLS:

Claremont Senior Secondary School	9:00 a.m.

ONE THING YOU WILL FIND, LOT OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

By MICHAEL JOHNSON

MINSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The Muscovite visiting Minsk first notices the local women. They are gorgeous.

Then he notices the foreign women. They are just as beautiful.

The city lies on the tourist route from Berlin to Moscow and the streets ring with French, German and English conversation.

Minsk was in the path of Nazi invaders, and they left a heap of rubble behind in 1945. The local people have rebounded, however, and built a sparkling, modern city on that pile of ruins.

The result leaves a gap in the history of the city. Relics of the past are there, but they are hard to find. They hide behind the concrete and glass of the new Minsk.

Tourists in Minsk, like tourists everywhere, are looking for something old for their cameras. More often than not, they never find it.

While the tourists search, the local population — at least the men — get a treat by watching the modern-day foreign invaders. A group of local gentlemen gathered outside the Hotel Minsk recently to observe a busload of fashionably dressed French women.

"Mini-mini," exclaimed one, using a word that translates the same into French, English, Russian and the native language of Minsk-Byelo-Russian.

Touring Byelorussian industry, one gets the impression that the people have risen rapidly and far in the last 50 years. Illiteracy, 80 per cent in 1917, has been wiped out. The farm population was 86 per cent, now it is 59 per cent.

New towns are sprouting up, with labor imported from throughout the Soviet Union's 15 republics. Saligorsk and Zhodino, thriving cities erected about a potassium mine and a truck factory, have been built since the Second World War.

Big Parade of 6,500 Ghosts Awaits Visitors to S. California

There will also be: A zany sand castle contest at the beach. Turtle races on the desert. An Indian children's fiesta. Peak blooming of over 4000 bushes in one of the world's top rose gardens.

The goblins and witches will be in the huge children's costumed parade at Anaheim where the annual Halloween Festival will be held Oct. 27 and 28 for the 44th year. The evening Pageant parade will feature giant jack-O-lanterns spouting fire and mechanized witches, according to the area's All-Year Club.

The sand castle contest to be held Oct. 15 at Newport Harbor starts with the exploding of a flare and ends with a cannon boom. There are prizes for castles that are most discombooberated, least likely.

The turtle races will highlight the Desert Empire Fair Oct. 2 to 4 at Ridgecrest. Big dry land turtles are brought in from the surrounding scenic desert and loosed at the centre of a big circle, the first one out winning.

Children of the Indian village of Pala not far from San Diego celebrate the feast day of St. Francis, patron of the Cupeno tribe, on Oct. 9. A solemn high mass at the Pala Mission and a religious procession will be followed by Indian games, contests and tribal dances.

It will be one of the peak blooming times in one of the world's most beautiful gardens, the Pageant of Roses at Rose Hills in Whittier, suburb of Los Angeles. There are over 400 varieties of roses including rare Weeping Tree roses and other blooms in tints of green and lavender.

It will also be grape harvest time in the 24,000 acres of vineyards, largest such acreage in the country, near Cucamonga inland from Los Angeles. Heaping truckloads of grapes hurry to the wineries to dump them in vats big as swimming pools. Wineries welcome visitors.

One of the most photographed events in the country will be the parade of decorated boats of the fishing fleet down the main channel during the Fishermen's Fiesta at the Port of Los Angeles Oct. 13 to 15. Fisher folk will do their native dances in costume.

A "Frontier Sweethearts" contest will be an unusual feature of the Early California Days celebration Oct. 13 to 15 at Wofford Heights beside Lake Isabella, the year-around fishing favorite high up in the Sierra Nevada mountains above Bakersfield.

Variety Of Villages

MAMAIA, Rumania — Surely the most pleasant way to get a tan behind the iron curtain is on the beach of this swanky Black Sea resort — dazzling evidence of the high priority the Rumanian government is giving the tourist industry.

The Rumanians have plenty to work with, aside from the sun, the surf and the remarkably luxurious, modern hotels along this country's 163 miles or so of Black Sea coast.

In the north is the picturesque Carpatian Mountain range, in the centre are beautiful, rolling plains and to the southeast is the Danube delta with its reedy swamps and Roman ruins.

SAGA ON SAILBOAT

For Five Full Days He Boasted of a Dream

By JOHN MANNING

Former Victoria Times reporter and his wife Pat are currently on a 12,000-mile "Centennial Cruise" aboard their tiny sailing ship Powindah. The pair started in England and hope to end their cruise in the Inner Harbor. This is the 39th in a series on their adventures.

Sablo looked down channel twice before he knew that his eyes were not deceiving him.

A sailboat was coming into Tumaco.

A cluster of fishing canoes straggled in her wake and people were already shouting from the shore, pointing to where the strange boat must anchor.

Sablo began to run toward the Port Captain's office. The Negro youth wanted to be there when the officials boarded the boat. The last time a yacht had come, armed guards were posted on the deck of the boat: the Port Captain feared they were Russian spies. Sablo's bare feet kicked up puffs of dust as he ran.

He watched the man on the yacht drop anchor and he saw the woman in the stern and the way she handled the boat and he wondered that no more crew appeared.

No Armed Guard

It was at that moment that the idea came to him. Then it was the merest notion of an idea but later, when the yacht owner had come ashore and seen the Port Captain and there had been no armed guard to watch for spies, Sablo had gone home to bed and the idea returned to him like a tiny explosion.

The next morning he borrowed his Uncle's dugout and paddled out to the yacht. There was a foot high line of weed around her hull, above the waterline, and there were rust streaks marring the white paint. It was evident that she had been at sea for some time. He tried to imagine how many pesos it would take to buy such a ship. More, probably, than the cost of ten canoes.

Drifted About

For an entire hour he paddled and drifted about the sailboat, looking up at her two masts and examining the rigging. Later the woman came on deck. She smiled at him. Sablo pointed to the side of the hull and made a scrubbing motion with his hand. "I make it clean for you Senora," he said "Five pesos." He held up the five fingers of his brown hand.

Ten minutes later he was alongside the yacht, scrubbing the weed off the hull.

The job took him over two hours and when he was done the woman gave him coffee. His hands were wrinkled and cramped from the scrubbrush but the warmth of the cup brought new life to them.

When he went ashore Pedro and Antonio were waiting. They both helped him pull the canoe out of the water, something they had never done before.

Ten Pesos

"How much did he give you?"

"Ten pesos," said Sablo, doubling the amount.

"They are millionaires," said Sablo. "They have a parrot and there is a radio in the boat, for I heard music. They have sailed here from Panama."

"From Panama!" echoed the two friends.

"When?"

"Soon. I am going too."

"Did they ask you?" queried Pedro.

"Of course."

MANNING
. . . can't say yes

"You are just fifteen. Your grandmother won't allow it."

"I am going to be a sailor," replied Sablo, ignoring the reference to his grandmother. "They will pay me twenty pesos a day."

Worked Hard

"Your grandmother won't allow it" repeated Pedro.

Throughout the rest of the week Sablo worked on the boat. He had definite duties.

He arrived at eight a.m., and would first turn to scrubbing down the deck, sluicing water over it from a wooden bucket; then he would polish the brass bell, the brass centre ring on the steering wheel and the brass slides on the companionway hatch.

Sablo took special care with the brass bell. He polished it until he could see his eyes in the metal.

For the next five days he ate his lunch in the sailboat's cabin with the married couple sitting across the table from him and the parrot on top of the table.

Ate Slowly

The parrot had its own plate. Sablo addressed the man as "Captain Juan" and his wife as Senora "Patrick" for he could not pronounce Patricia. The boy was self-conscious and ate his food slowly, as though he were not hungry and then would sit back and smoke one of the foreign cigarettes.

With each successive day Sablo became more important amongst his friends.

They would await his arrival back on shore, question him about the food he had eaten, what the two gringoes had talked of, and how much money he was making. Sablo always doubled the amount, watching with secret pleasure the bulging of their eyes.

"I am going with them, you know," he would say. "I am leaving Tumaco forever."

Envy grew like a disease amongst his friends. One of them spoke to Sablo's father. His father was waiting for him when he returned home. There was a half empty bottle of aguardiente on the floor. His grandmother was huddled in the single, darkened room that was their home; she was wringing her bony hands together.

"Give it to me," said his father.

"What?" asked Sablo.

"The money. I want it."

Sablo turned to run and almost made the open doorway before his father caught him, tripping him up. He cuffed the boy twice, hard, on the side of the head and made him stand in front of him and hand over 42 pesos and then struck him again.

Like most of Tumaco's populace, Sablo's father had no work. He spent his time between one of four wives in the town and rarely saw his eldest son. Among the wives were eight children. Two others had died at birth. His father was always seeking money for aguardiente or beer.

Foreign Boat

"Yes. I hate this town."

"Have you asked them?"

"I wanted them to see my hard work before I asked them. Tomorrow is Sunday. I will ask them tomorrow," said Sablo, suddenly making up his mind.

When he appeared alongside the boat next morning he was wearing his best clothes and a pair of shoes borrowed from Antonio. He tied the canoe in such a way that it floated free of the stern and could swing with the tide, as Captain Juan had taught him.

"You're all dressed up," said Juan. "We didn't expect you today."

Juan's Spanish was very bad, but Sablo caught the meaning of his word. "Yes," he said, "I have these clothes for the voyage."

"Voyage?"

"Yes. You will take me, won't you, take me to Ecuador?"

"Chico, there isn't enough room, I'm sorry."

"I can sleep here on the deck. I will bring a blanket."

"I'm sorry, Sablo."

The youth went home through the back streets of the town. For once his grandmother said nothing when he entered the shack. He took off Antonio's shoes, wrapped them in newspaper, and then changed back into his old clothes.

"I knew they wouldn't take you," said the old woman.

the water and when the tide was out a special, raw odour filled the room. The smoke from the lamp helped dispel it.

EXOTIC ENTRANCE to home is easily obtained with simple water fountains, sidewalk over "moat," and plants. Lawn sprinklers can be substituted to make inexpensive fountain with minor adjustment. Note ample use of glass on each side of door.

WATER USE RAISES 'GRAIN'

TORONTO — An asset to any home is gleaming hardwood floors. But proper maintenance is necessary to keep them that way.

For routine cleaning of an oak floor, don't use soap and water, warns the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Water if used frequently on the floor will raise the grain and cause a rough surface. If water should be spilled on the floor, wipe it off promptly with a dry cloth," said a board spokesman.

"To keep floors at their gleaming best they should be cleaned with wax at least two or three times a year. One of the good basic points of maintenance is daily sweeping with an untreated dustmop."

"With little time and effort the home owner eliminates loose dirt and dust that would otherwise dim the lustre of the floors," said the spokesman.

"An occasional polishing with a soft cloth, weighted floor brush, or an electric polishing machine will keep the floors glistening. An electric polisher eliminates a great deal of labour in maintaining your oak floors and does the polishing job as well as, if not better than, if done by hand."

Ordinarily the finish of an oak floor which has received reasonably good care will last many years before beginning to show signs of wear. Then, with simple refinishing, it will regain its full beauty.

"Even if an oak floor has received extremely heavy wear or has been neglected for many years, its original gleaming beauty can be recaptured by means of sanding and refinishing. . . .

RETOUCH SPOTS

"If the existing finish is floor seal or lacquer, it may be neceassary merely to retouch worn spots with the same type of finish. This is not advisable with other finishes, nor when the worn areas are large, numerous, or in particularly conspicuous parts of a room. More pleasing results can be obtained in such cases by refinishing the entire floor.

"Before applying new finish, sweep the floor clean and remove all wax and spots. Recommended cleansing agents for this purpose are mineral spirits and naptha, either of which can be secured at most large paint stores. An alternative is to use a water-dampened cloth and mild soap. To remove grease spots, laundry soap containing lye may be substituted for mild soap. It is important that use of such soap be restricted to the spots.

USE STEEL WOOL

"Especially stubborn spots which do not yield to soap treatment, mineral spirits, or naphtha usually will disappear when rubbed with steel wool. When the damp cloth-and-soap method of cleaning is employed, only a small area should be worked at a time. Immediately after the area has been cleaned, it should be wiped dry so that the grain of the wood will not be affected," said the spokesman.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. How do I know when to pick Bartlett pears for keeping? They usually fall and rot on the ground. T.O.I., Victoria.

A. Bartlett pear is not a long time keeper. You could get a picking date by phoning Department of Agricultur, Parliament Buildings, but you need to watch fruit carefully in storage, and use as color changes from green to yellow. They commence ripening from the middle of the fruit, outwards.

Q. My Peace roses are growing much too high for my rose bed, although I cut them down to one foot in spring. What can I do with them, or must I put them in the background by themselves? Mrs. M.S., Oak Bay.

A. The Peace rose is such a strong grower that recommended pruning for it is to cut to about four feet in spring, allow the shrub to bloom in June, and then prune more severely after blooming; by about mid-July.

The growth made after this date will be less than in early spring, but will give you another crop of blooms by early September.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Lilium candidum, the Madonna-lily, can only be moved this month, since it must make fall growth to keep it going over winter. Plant with no more than two inches of soil over crown of bulb.

Wallflowers and other biennials need to be kept growing vigorously for bushy plants to transplant in September.

Iceland poppies, mixed colors of the splendid larkspurs, godetias, annual Sweet William, and clarkias are a few suggestions. These will bloom in time for June flower shows if sown in fall.

Any tomato flowers which have not set fruit now may well be removed. This will hasten development and ripening of the main crop. Keep a written record of varieties which have proved early ripening and otherwise satisfactory to your needs.

Young squash fruits can be taken from the vines as soon as usable size, allowing larger fruits to mature for winter use.

Job Picture Now Brighter

Employment increased and unemployment decreased in British Columbia last month.

Federal figures show the employment level at 762,000 compared with 727,000 in June and 725,000 in July, 1966.

The number unemployed was 33,000 compared with 36,000 in June. But it was 28,000 in July, 1966.

The unemployment rate in B.C. was 4.2 per cent. The rate was higher in Quebec and Maritime provinces but lower in Ontario and on the Prairies.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENERS

By JACK BEASTALL

The interest in growing gourds has increased during the past five years, and the weather this season has been kind to gardeners who sowed the seeds early.

Jack

For those who have never grown gourds before, the present problem is when to gather the fruits and how to cure them.

Both curing and preserving are dependent upon the quality of the fruits and their maturity. There is no way of preserving bruised fruits, for bacteria will enter damaged areas and cause decay.

Every care must be taken during growing and harvesting to see that the skins are not nicked or bruised, and that the fruits do not lie on the soil.

SOFT-SHELLED

It is not generally known that two types of gourds are grown, one is the soft-shelled gourd which does best in northern regions, the other is the hard-shelled type which requires hot summers to grow to size and mature.

The soft-shelled gourds include the pear, egg, crown, turk's turban, and similar shapes.

For keeping, these should not be harvested until mature or they will quickly decay. The best indication of maturity is a withered vine, but if fruits must be picked sooner we can only depend on a very gentle squeeze to feel if the shell is firm.

All gourds require a long season of growth, and since the soft-shelled types are about 90 per cent water they must be protected from frost.

As soon as harvested, the fruits should be carefully washed in some kind of disinfectant that will not affect the color. The Gourd Society of American recommends a strong solution of borax.

After washing, the fruits are placed in a cool, airy room to cure, out of direct sunlight, and spread well apart. Artificial heat, or drying in an oven, is not advised.

In two to three weeks the shells should be hard enough to receive a coat of any good liquid wax to heighten the colors and give a glossy finish.

LOSE COLOR

It must be remembered that this type of gourd has a thick flesh instead of a thin shell, and they continue maturing for quite a while. They are not likely to maintain their color for more than three or four months, and then they soon decay.

The lagenarias, or hard-shelled varieties, may be harvested after the first frost if wanted for some special purpose, but are improved when left outdoors to weather during the fall months. Lagenarias are not ready to gather until the vine has withered.

The fruits should always be cut, not pulled, from the vine, leaving two to three inches of stem attached. The stems of lagenarias are part of the gourd and do not drop off as they do with the ornamental varieties.

Exercise great care in handling, and wash immediately in strong borax solution, wipe dry with a soft cloth, and hang in a cool, well-ventilated room out of direct sunlight.

MAY TAKE MONTHS

Curing takes time, and only nature can do it properly. Artificial heat, warm oven, or drilling holes in the base is not recommended. Different kinds and sizes will vary in length of time taken in curing, some take months.

During this period mold will likely form on the surface, and constant watching is needed to prevent blemishes. When mold forms, wipe carefully with soft cloth dipped in strong solution of borax.

The hard-shelled lagenarias have been used for centuries for both practical and decorative purposes. Dishes, water carriers, dippers, vases, bird houses, musical instruments and charm strings are a few of the interesting and useful articles found in many lands.

The shells of these lagenarias are strong enough to last for hundreds of years, yet so delicate they crack easily when dropped.

DECORATED

Today the hard-shelled gourds are used for handicrafts in schools and homes by both young and old, and by institutions in therapy for convalescents.

For these instructions on harvesting all kinds of gourds we are indebted to the Gourd Society of America, Inc.

This group publishes and distributes books and pamphlets in all phases of gourd culture and uses, at prices ranging from 25 cents to $3.50.

Londoners Are Not Best Guides

By HARFORD THOMAS
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON — He wrote to say he was bringing his wife and three teenage daughters to London for a week.

Would I suggest "interesting things to see and do, particularly if they are a little outside the usual sightseeing." What do you reply to these unheralded travelers from afar?

Sensible shoes and good guide books was my first answer. If you come to London, presumably you like big cities and you are not looking for sunbathing.

The way to discover a city is to walk about in it, and in a city as big as London aimless walking can be killing.

SIGHTSEEING

They are quite likely to know Paris or Venice or Rome more thoroughly than London. Any one Londoner's guide will be biased towards the bits he knows.

Visitors can be treated as a stimulant. Take them on the trips he has been meaning to do for years. It can fit into the larger scheme of things.

Take the river. London is in essence Thames-town, even though it has made surprisingly little of its riverside (an oversight the civic trust plans to put right).

Yet if you stick to the Soho-Mayfair-Hyde Park Kensington belt you need never see the Thames at all.

I would give a lot of time to the river, starting at Charing Cross and crossing by the Hungerford foot-bridge which runs on the east side of the railway bridge, with a descent on the south bank to the riverside front of the festival hall and the Queen Elizabeth hall.

I would do it by day for the Canaletto-like prospect towards St. Paul's, and again at night for the Whistler effects of lights and dark water. And I would dine by the window of the festival hall restaurant, timed for the sunset.

Food Scarce, Very Expensive Family Finds on Russia Trip

NEW DELHI (AP)—A Canadian couple has completed a rigorous drive with their two children the length of the Soviet Union. They report food shortages everywhere except in Moscow.

What food they did find was extremely expensive, say Simon and Christine Feldman of Montreal. Their biggest complaint was against a Russian major at a town near the Iranian border, whose actions made the Feldmans and their sons—11 and 5—go without food for 24 hours. Feldman says: "This is one thing I'll never forget or forgive them for."

The Feldman's are making a round-the-world trip in a self-contained camper truck made in Britain.

Feldman says in 1963 he retired from his dressmaking business in Montreal and moved to Miami Beach. He also had trotting horses and toured the circuit with them during the season, under the Galahad Farms colors.

STARTED IN FRANCE

In 1966 they decided to see the world. They started in France and drove south through Europe to Israel, Syria, and Jordan. They went through Turkey, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland, East Germany and into Scandinavia.

They entered Russia at Vyborg, on the Fininsh border, and drove 3,000 miles through the Soviet Union in 30 days. From Iran they crossed Afghanistan and Pakistan, and from New Delhi were going south to Madras and a ferry trip to Ceylon.

"When you travel overland in the Soviet Union you are supposed to stay each night at the Intourist camps," Feldman says. "But the roads are so bad it takes about 18 hours from one camp to another—yet you are not supposed to travel after dark.

"We did and no one ever stopped us.

"The only place we found with enough food was the Dollar Shop in Moscow. Food was much cheaper there also. Other places tomatoes were 75 cents a pound and cherries $1.50 a pound, for instance. Potatoes just weren't available, and the meat looked like it had been chewed by animals."

DEMANDED FINES

Police stopped him several times and demanded ruble fines for illegal parking, speeding or illegal passing. Each time he demanded to be shown the traffic sign concerned and when they could not show it, he refused, successfully, to pay the fines.

"Everywhere in the Soviet Union we saw a lot of drunks on the streets," Feldman said. "It is one of the things that stands out most in our minds.

"Also, the farther south we went, the dirtier the camps got.

"Trucks were broken down all along the highway. If you picked up all the parts you see along the road you could build your own truck, I think."

Four Jailed, Fined $50 For Marijuana

MONTREAL (CP)—Four young Vancouver residents Friday were sentenced to a day in jail and fined $50 for having been illegally in possession of marijuana.

Barbara O'Brien, Mica Soya, Eric Donald Hale and Duncan James Bremner, all in their late teens or early 20s, were arrested last week following a raid by RCMP on a downtown Montreal apartment.

After pleading not guilty at arraignment, the four had been held without bail for six days until preliminary hearing where they pleaded guilty to the charge.

Judge Armand Chevrette imposed the one-day sentence after the defence lawyer submitted they were all being punished enough in having a criminal record.

SHORTS CAN SHOCK

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council reports that socks without cotton can lead to shocks and shorts made of nylon, silk and dacron may cause static electricity.

Persons working in explosive atmospheres should not wear "shocking" shorts.

THE TWO FACES OF ELECTRIC HEAT

They tell you:

- Electric heat is just as economical as oil heat.
- Electric heat is healthier than oil heat.
- Electric heat is cleaner than oil heat.
- An electric water heater is better than an oil-fired water heater.

They try to hide:

- For the average home, electric heat costs up to 100% more than oil heat unless extensive insulation is used.
- Electric heat is stagnant heat. Unlike oil heat, it does not circulate and freshen the air in your home. With electric heat, your family keeps breathing stale air.
- Recent research at Columbia University proves that there is no cleaner heat than modern automatic oil heat.
- It is a proven fact that an oil-fired water heater heats water 6 times faster than electricity and much more economically.

Youth of Albernis Featured in Film On CBC Net Sunday

A film focusing on the youth of the mill towns of Alberni and Port Alberni will be a special Camera West presentation on CBC-TV's Centennial documentary series 20/20, Sunday afternoon at 5:30, on Channels 2, 6.

The Albernis are alive and thriving with huge complexes of pulp mills, saw mills, shingle mills, and plywood manufacturing plants. The money is good and the majority of people enjoy a relatively high standard of living.

However, for some of the young people challenge and diversity of thought is clouded by the desire for status in their own group. The proximity to excellent wages acts as a deterrent to ambition, particularly for continuing education. Great numbers of young men leave school at 16 to go to work in the mills.

For the most part, young men leave school because they are satisfied with the life that working in the mills will give them and they are anxious to have the material things, such as automobiles, which they see others in their age-group enjoying. Yet it is paradoxical that Alberni High School has one of the highest scholastic records in the province. While still in school, boys can earn $150 a month working weekends at the mill.

Nearly all young boys regard the automobile as a symbol of freedom from parental authority, a stepping stone to maturity, and a device to enhance their social prestige.

The film shows just how important the car has become to today's youth. Through interviews with youngsters, some of whom own prestige automobiles of a make and model out of the reach of the average middle class man, the film attempts to gain an insight into the philosophy of youth in this particular area.

'Our Place'

Cyril Ritchard, internationally acclaimed actor, is the guest star on "Our Place" Sunday night at 9 on Channels 7 and 12.

The summer comedy series stars the Doodletown Pipers, Jack Burns, Avery Schreiber and the Muppet dog Rowlf.

Ritchard highlights the show with a musical rendition in the character of Captain Hook and with his version of the song Mad Dogs and Englishmen. He is joined by the Doodletown Pipers, Burns and Schreiber in a production number, Only in the Movies, about the memorable moments that could only take place on the silver screen.

Burns and Schreiber appear in a comedy sketch about two old men who meet on a park bench, and in their taxicab characterizations.

'Meet the Press'

William P. Bundy, assistant U.S. secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs, will be the guest on Meet the Press Sunday at 1 on Channel 5.

The interview will take place a week before the elections in Vietnam. Mr. Bundy's area of responsibility includes Vietnam.

Interviewing him will be Rowland Evans, of the Chicago Sun-Times; David K. Willis, of the Christian Science Monitor; John Chancellor, of NBC News, and Lawrence E. Spivak, producer and permanent panel member of the show.

Sullivan Show

A tiger riding a horse and an English couple's performance on a trapeze suspended from a rocket circling 40 feet above the ground — two of the most outstanding circus stunts in the world — will be presented on the Ed Sullivan Show, Sunday night at 8:00 on Channels 2, 6, 7, 12.

These two acts, presented by German circus owner Adolf Althoff, and the Bronleys, are part of a special 60-minute circus performance produced in Munich, Germany.

Other headline acts on the show include Trio Rivels, a Spanish clown act which combines slapstick comedy and music produced on unusual instruments; the Atlas Sahara Troupe, Arabian acrobats and tumblers; The Ferkos, Czechoslovakian family of tumblers; Eddie Windsor of England and his trained donkey; and Fatima Zohra, Portuguese contortionist, whose act includes lighting a cigarette with her toes.

There is also the Titos, a Mexican family of rebound tumblers; Fattini, Italian sway-pole artist who performs headstands 60 feet above the arena floor; the Veterans, a six-man Swedish knockabout act; the Mascotts, German head-to-head balancers; Trio Rennos, Italian act in which one man performs comedy acrobatics on an aerial rigging supported on the shoulders of two others; Circus Krone horses, German act of 12 liberty horses; Three Winters, German balancing act; the Akeffs, Egyptian foot jugglers, and the Bentos Clowns from Belgium.

A four-legged bad actor was fired from NBC-TV's new The High Chaparral series. The horse repeatedly attempted to nip series star Leif Erickson while shooting on location near Tucson, Ariz. The same pinto earlier had knocked Erickson to the ground during a fight sequence. Erickson sustained a broken right wrist.

'The Saint'

Simon Templar, alias the Saint, finds himself in the crossfire of two women (rivals for a man and for an auto racing title), in The Fast Women, on Sunday night at 10 on Channel 5.

Simon volunteers to test a racing car. A blow-out almost costs him his life. Only a bullet could have caused the accident. The Saint traces a suspect, a knife-throwing and rifle-shooting expert, only to find him shot to death. Templar then decides on a course of action which might mean death to trap the killer.

"The Saint" stars Roger Moore as Simon Templar. The cast includes Jan Holden as Cynthia Quillen, John Carson as Godfrey Quillen and Kate O'Mara as Teresa Montesino.

'Bonanza'

Jack Kruschen is guest star in The Deed and the Dilemma, a warm-hearted story of a fiery Italian immigrant who tries to establish a vineyard in the West, on Bonanza Sunday night at 9 p.m. on Channels 2, 5, 6.

Kruschen portrays Giorgio Rossi, head of the family, with Brioni Farrel as the daughter, Regina; Penny Santon, the wife Maria; and Michael Stefani, son Lorenzo.

Giorgio plans his vineyard on a piece of land given him by Ben Cartwright. But his dreams are soon shattered when a neighboring rancher blocks off the water. Giorgia clashes head-on with the rancher and his idealistic interpretation of American principles only makes matters worse.

Lorne Green, Dan Blocker and Michael Landon star as the Cartwrights. Others in the cast are Donald Woods as Gurney, Chris Alcaide as Blake, Robert Lyons as Sandy and Bing Russell as Clem.

The Lincoln 1933 classic car that Fess Parker bought recently cost $5,200 originally and now sells for $9,500, if you can find one. Fess, star of NBC-TV's "Daniel Boone" series, said that there are only four in the world of the 52 manufactured originally.

DEAN MARTIN
. . . varied career

Star Makes 'Being Lazy' Profitable

When Martin makes movies, he plays golf in the early morning before reporting to the set. When he works Las Vegas, he devotes the daylight hours to golf. And, before checking in for a taping session for NBC-TV's The Dean Martin Show, Martin gets in a round.

Or, to quote Martin, "My hobby is making movies and doing television. What I really work at is my golf."

Martin's work has enabled him to shoot in the 70s.

Martin has made being lazy pay off. He averages about four hours of actual working time for each show. The very casualness of Martin's approach, coupled with showmanship, has been a major factor in his television success.

Martin, born Dino Crocetti in Steubenville, Ohio, did not exactly rush into show business. He tried boxing, pumped gas, and dealt cards in gambling casinos before turning to singing.

In 1946 Martin and another then unknown entertainer, Jerry Lewis, were both carving out a mild living in show business as separate performers. That year they teamed up for the first time at the 500 Club in Atlantic City. Their zany brand of music and comedy soon catapaulted them to fame. They were a hit in night clubs, made 16 movies together, and performed on top television shows.

SMASH RECORD

When the pair decided to go their separate ways in 1956, some skeptics thought Martin was through. But, with his smash record, "That's Amore" (three million sales), under his belt, Martin wasn't hurting and soon proved to be good box office at movie theatres.

Martin's movie credits after 1956 include Ten Thousand Bedrooms, The Young Lions, Toys in the Attic, Career, Some Came Running, Texas Across the River, and the two Matt Helm pictures, The Silencers and Murderers' Row. Soon to be released in another Helm picture, The Ambushers.

Martin received two special awards in 1967: a Golden Globe from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association as Most Popular Television Personality of the Year and the Academy of Country-Western Music's award as their man of the year.

Documentary on Citadel

'Ghost' Will Walk In Famed Fortress On Halifax Hill

Halifax was founded in 1749 to provide a base for the British navy and army and a springboard for attack on the French at Louisbourg and Quebec. The final contest between France and England for possession of the North American continent was clearly approaching.

Citadel Hill, in the heart of Halifax, was always the chief land defence of the fortress and four forts were built, at different periods, on its summit.

On Monday afternoon at 5:30 the "ghost" of the Halifax Citadel returns to narrate its own story in a Centennial documentary film on Channel 2.

Through flashbacks, the program looks at early stages of the fortress and how it and the military has affected the capital city in urban growth, cultural development and its importance as a sea port. The military men who manned the Citadel influenced every part of Halifax life in its early days, even to the layout of the city streets.

The first fort was part of a wooden palisade around the young settlement, designed to protect the settlers from Indians. The second was built at the time of the American Revolution and was intended as a stronghold and base against the rebels. The third was built while Napoleon was trying to conquer the world, and was later repaired for the War of 1812 with the U.S.

Because of the latter war, Britain knew she must have a permanent fortress as an Atlantic base in time of peril, and so the fourth, the present one, was constructed.

Not one of these forts was ever called upon to resist invasion. No shot was ever fired against them in anger. However, it is safe to say that they have served their purpose merely by existing.

The Halifax Citadel has changed little since 1859 and it is the present Citadel that the "ghost" walks through, telling his story.

For the Ladies

Take 10 pounds off her, because the camera always makes her look 10 pounds heavier. Teach her how to make up and how to stand. Clothe her in a beautiful gown and place her before a buying audience.

Then maybe you have a high-fashion model.

"And again, maybe not," says Joan Fontaine, Academy Award-winning actress, who will prove her knowledge of high fashion and the techniques of modelling as hostess on the Model of the Year Pageant in color Wednesday night at 10 on Channels 7 and 12.

"You might just have a beautiful woman in beautiful clothes," she continues. "Although that's a start, there's a lot more to being a star model. The trick is to make women want to buy the clothes right then and there. That takes projection, movement. The successful model must have an inner quality—a way of moving that makes her appear to be walking on air—a gift that most women do no possess.

"Clothes do not make the model, but the good model can make the clothes. The really top models wear clothes with such style and look so status-right that women feel impelled to buy the clothes right off their backs."

The always-well-groomed Miss Fontaine has made a study of the basic ingredients that make a top model tick.

Among her duties will be a running commentary on exclusive clothes created by U.S. designers and modelled by 14 young hopefuls for the model of the year title. The selection of the winner will climax the pageant broadcast.

"The pageant will provide a wonderful opportunity for these girls, for the most part unknown, to start near the top of the modelling ladder," says Miss Fontaine. '"The key to being selected model of the year could be in the manner in which the model moves—all other things being equal."

Miss Fontaine has done her homework well, since experts in the field, specifically those associated with the top model agencies, generally agree that the ability to move transcends even the face and figure.

Cattle Roundup

The true-life adventure story takes place on the biggest ranch in North America—the million-acre Gang Ranch in the Cariboo country. The telecast shows today's cowboy driving more than 3,000 head of beef from summer ranges in the high mountain country.

On the Gang Ranch, cowboys still live a lonely, rugged existence in log houses roofed with sod and chinked with moss. They work from dawn until dark, seven days a week, spending most of their time in the saddle.

To film this first-hand glimpse of the contemporary cowboy, the Exploration unit spent 12 days traveling the vast ranch by jeep, camping in one of the five mountain ranges on the ranch.

Chrysler Theatre

Ricardo Montalban and Joanne Dru star as a private eye and a private secretary who clash on the trial of a murderer when Bob Hope presents the Chrysler Theatre in color on Channels 2 and 6 Wednesday night at 8:30.

Pat Hingle also stars in the mystery drama, "To Sleep, Perchance to Scream," which presents Lola Albright as special guest star.

Private eye Adam Steele (Montalban) sets out to find the murderer of the veteran detective (David Sharpe) who taught him the business. Steele's only clue is a $5,000 cheque to the veteran from industrial tycoon Martin Carlyle (Hingle). On the trail to Carlyle, Steele crosses the tycoon's secretary (Miss Dru) but gets unexpected help from actress Vickie (Miss Albright).

Friday Fight

The featured fight on Friday Night at the Fights will match bantamweights Jose Luis Valdovinos against Raul Herrera beginning at 9:30 in color on Channel 5.

Valdovinos, often called the Baby Bandit by his supporters, has a 12-1 record to date. The 20-year-old Mexican is already rated No. 12 in the world's bantamweight division.

Texan Raul Herrera has racked up a 14-4 professional record. Eight KOs in his pro career have earned him a reputation as a deadly puncher.

This unique boxing series features top professional fighters as well as interviews with celebrities from the sports and entertainment worlds. On Sept. 16 the series moves to Saturday night at 11:05.

AGE-OLD QUESTION of "Do Blondes Have More Fun" will be answered Monday night at 8:30 on Channel 4. The subject of the "blonde phenomenon" was examined in a poll taken by the Sigma Chi fraternity of the University of California at Los Angeles, who supplied the young ladies seen in the picture.

Favorite headgear of NBC-TV's Bonanza star, Dan Blocker, is a tam and a Tyrolean hat. He doesn't like wide brims on his hats. Also he's a sports car entuhsiast and has to keep the hair from flying around in his eyes.

TV TIDBITS

Charles Bickford, star of NBC-TV's The Virginian, is convinced of the effectiveness of television. He claims that he has received more fan mail from his present role than from the more than 100 motion pictures he has made.

Hope Lange and Diana Hyland are the female stars of Jigsaw upcoming on NBC-TV's World Premier series, but it's featured player Suzanne Benton who gets to wear the $500 nightgown and peignir in the show.

Jack Webb, star-director-producer of Dragnet 1967, noted that he and his co-star, Harry Morgan, really are not a new team. "We worked together in a 1951 Alan Ladd movie and again in Dark City, Charlton Heston's first motion picture, Webb said.

OTTAWA EMBARRASSED

Where Did Starfighter Jets Go?

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Some Canadian-made Starfighter jet fighter-bombers are believed to have ended up in Nationalist China and Spain, informed defence sources say.

These planes are among 140 Starfighters produced at Canadair Ltd., Montreal, under a $200,000,000 arrangement made between Canada and the United States in 1961 for their military aid programs to other countries.

There is apparently a good deal of embarrassment in government departments about the present location of some of the 140 planes. No authority will talk officially about the subject.

Qualified sources say, however, that some of the planes were originally destined for Nationalist China and Spain under the U.S. military assistance program and that there is no reason to believe they were not sent there.

TITLE VESTED IN U.S.

Of the $200,000,000 program, the U.S. put up $150,000,000 and Canada $50,000,000. Title to all the planes was vested in the U.S. in late 1961.

Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons May 13, 1964:

"An understanding was reached whereby the U.S., having title, would decide the allocation of the aircraft, taking into account Canadian views."

By that time the Cyprus crisis had erupted. Canada sent a peacekeeping force to Cyprus in March, 1964, and was reluctant that any of the Starfighters be sent to Greece or Turkey, longtime disputants over the future of Cyprus.

Mr. Hellyer added: "Arrangements have since been made for the total production of Starfighters to be divided into two categories: aircraft purchased in Canada for the U.S. military assistance program, and aircraft produced for presentation to NATO countries as a joint Canada-U.S. program of assistance to NATO countries.

"Such aircraft as have been delivered to date all fall into the former category.

"No decision has as yet been taken concerning the countries which will receive Starfighter aircraft under a joint Canada-U.S. program of assistance to NATO countries."

RESPONSIBLE FOR 22

Sources say Canada is associated with distribution of 22 Starfighters to Turkey and 25 to Denmark. Both are NATO partners.

But when the planes were shipped to Turkey remains cloudy. The government has said it has not shipped major weapons to Turkey or Greece since 1964. And Mr. Hellyer's statement in 1964 indicated the planes had not been shipped before that date.

For its part, the U.S. was to look after plane shipments to Greece, Norway, Spain and Nationalist China.

It is known that 80 of the 140 Starfighters had come off the assembly line by November, 1964. But officials are vague about where they were shipped, as they are about the destination of the last 60 planes.

Sergeants Charged As Russian Spies

WASHINGTON (WP) —The army charged two sergeants Friday with having conspired to deliver classified defence information to two high-ranking Soviet diplomats.

The Pentagon identified the soldiers as Sgt. 1st class Ulysses L. Harris, 37, of Neptune, N.J., and Staff Sgt. Leonard J. Safford, 30, of Chillum, Md.

Harris was arrested in Korea on Sunday and returned to Ft. Belvoir, Va., where he is in custody. Safford, arrested in Chillum Saturday, is being held at Ft. Meade, Md.

Safford is accused of having asked another soldier to photograph military equipment at the army's strategic communications command facility in Rosslyn, Va., on Dec. 8, 1966.

He is also alleged to have turned over two packages of "unidentified documents" to Nikolai Fedorovich Popov, formerly one of about a dozen first secretaries in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

He picked up the documents from Safford June 24 in a Hillaldale (Md.) shopping centre and July 29 at a Palmer Park (Md.) shopping centre, the charge states.

Safford was administrative supervisor of the headquarters unit at the army's strategic communications centre in Suitland, Md. He had been cleared for top secret information.

Harris, who also had top secret clearance, is charged with having met with Safford, Popov and Anotoliy Tikhorovich Kireyev, formerly a counselor to the Soviet mission to the United Nations in New York, and conspiring to transmit defense secrets.

FALSE BOMB SCARE EVACUATES HOSPITAL

PENTICTON (CP) — A bomb scare Friday night led to the evacuation of 85 patients, including 14 newborn babies, from the Penticton General Hospital.

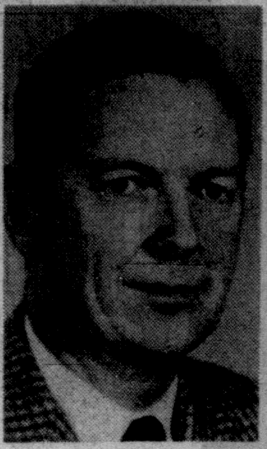
UBC DEAN SAYS:

Grad Schools Greatest Need

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan of the University of British Columbia said Friday building and equipping graduate schools is the greatest single problem facing universities in Canada today.



McTAGGART-COWAN
. . . train more leaders

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan, the university's dean of graduate studies, was speaking to conference delegates from the Canadian Federation of University Women, attending the four-day triennial convention here.

"We have been living almost parasitically off the highly-developed world for our business, academic and government leaders' training," he said.

"The universities of Canada could absorb every one of the Ph.D.'s graduated from Canadian universities—and they'd still have to hire two-thirds of their faculties from outside.

"We're not coming within streets of meeting our own educational needs, and this leaves nothing for industry or for government."

In British Columbia alone, the three universities hired 284 new faculty members this year and granted just 84 doctorates, he said.

BECAME INNOVATORS

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan said holders of advanced degrees are the innovators who create new jobs in the long run.

Earlier Friday, delegates adopted resolutions asking:

1. That a married woman have the right to an independent legal domicile;

2. That provinces prohibit marriages of persons under 16;

3. That provinces establish inquiries into the status of women in such fields as hiring and promotion practices, parental rights, domicile, taxation and property rights;

4. That the Income Tax Act be changed to allow the deduction of housekeeper-babysitter's wages as a legitimate expense for either full-time or part-time employment;

5. That the department of Indian affairs set up programs to increase secondary school attendance and attract teachers to reserves;

6. That the federal government allot a major increase in funds for research into the causes and problems of drug addiction and drug dependency.

259 Writers Speak Out On Viet War

LONDON (CP)—A new flurry of argument about the rights and wrongs of the Vietnamese war is about to erupt in Western literary circles.

Disclosure was made Friday by a British publisher of the impending appearance of a book rounding up views on the war collected from 259 writers in Britain, the United States and Europe.

Publication, scheduled for Sept. 8, should give added fire to a British controversy which in recent weeks has centred on the personality of a self-proclaimed "ex-radical," British novelist Kingsley Amis.

Amis backs U.S. involvement in Vietnam, and is the frequent target of a passionate attack from the literary left.

ANSWERS 2 QUESTIONS

The forthcoming book, to be published in London by Peter Owen, features answers from the writers, including Amis, to a pair of questions:

1. Are you for or against the States in Vietnam?

2. How, in your opinion, should the conflict in Vietnam be resolved?

Most of the writers are said in preliminary accounts of the book to oppose the U.S. presence in the Southeast Asian war. There is less certainty apparent as to how the current hostilities might be stopped.

The list of writers opposing U.S. Vietnamese policy includes Edmund Blunden, British poet and author of one of the major memoirs of the First World War; U.S. dramatist Arthur Miller and two redoubtable women novelists with their publishing base in London, Iris Murdoch and Edna O'Brien.

The new book is to be called Authors Take Sides on Vietnam.

Stewardess Bombarded By Proposals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The sky was the limit for Steve Musich when it came to proposing to his girl.

Steve, 33, took Merry Lee Gunneson, 24, an airline hostess, on a picnic Thursday. While they munched filet mignon, a small plane buzzed them repeatedly, dropping leaflets.

Her curiosity aroused, Miss Gunneson climbed a knoll and caught one of the orange-colored leaflets. On it, in gold lettering, were the words: "Merry Lee, I love you. Will you marry me? Steve."

Musich said she stared at the leaflet for a few seconds then laughed for five minutes. But she said she would marry him, he reported Friday.

The proposal cost Musich $60—$30 for the plane and the rest for leaflets.

Crop Losses Heavy

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India loses more than 7,000,000 tons of food grains a year to rats, birds, insects, damp and other wastage, a government expert committee reported Wednesday. The loss is nearly 9.3 per cent of total crop in India which is importing 10,000,000 tons this year to meet her needs.

Provinces Sign Up For Medicare

OTTAWA (CP)—All provinces now have signed agreements with the federal government to participate in the Canada Assistance Plan, Health Minister MacEachen announced Friday.

Quebec, the last province to come to terms with Ottawa on the plan's integration of shared-cost programs for public assistance, signed Aug. 21.

The plan provides payments to the needy aged, blind, disabled and unemployed, to needy mothers and their families, and to children in the care of child welfare authorities.

Provinces, which administer the programs, have an option of replacing separate programs with single, comprehensive schemes embracing those in need.

The agreements are retroactive to April 1, 1966.

The plan also provides for federal assistance to health care costs. These may include any or all of medical, surgical, obstetrical, optical, dental and nursing services, drugs, dressings, prosthetic appliances, dentures and eyeglasses.

Since Parliament approved the plan last year Quebec, Ontario and Saskatchewan have extended health care benefits under programs covered by the plans.

Mr. MacEachen's statement said the new preventive social services scheme in Alberta will be another program qualifying for 50-50 federal-provincial sharing.

Arthur Mayse

Were I required to list man's periods of absolute concentration, I would rank the playing of a salmon on light tackle with the near-vertical aspects of mountaineering. Both, to be properly accomplished, demand finesse, and produce an aftermath of euphoria tinged very slightly with rue.

It has been my luck to take a reasonable number of salmon, both the nimble coho and the powerful chinook or spring, on gear which was light for the labor in hand. The last of these, a coho that shone silver in the air, charged a spinning lure cast from a rock point a week or two ago.

I don't remember the first —too long past and too many fine fish between. But there was one spring salmon, hooked by a freak of fortune and beached by a miracle, that I will not forget.

The Island river we fish was in poor shape that August, its bones showing and its trout few and far between.

But down in its estuary, a sunken fly would sometimes tempt a strike from sea-run cutthroat, grilse, or lemon-and-red spotted Dolly Varden.

I went down early and alone one morning. The Gulf was flat calm, the sun just risen over the fantastic tangle of Coast Range peaks. The river wandered across the tide flats, and far out from its mouth, a coho vaulted clear.

The sun climbed and the morning turned hot. Somewhere about 10 o'clock, I tired of profitless casting and trudged over sand and cobble stones to ford a run where brown seaweed streamed in the current.

North along the curving shoreline, a quarter mile from the river, was a kelp bed where cutthroat sometimes lurked.

The long, empty beach shimmered in the heat. I tramped it, reconciled to a fishless day, and enjoying the perfect loneliness.

It was no day for hurry. Arrived at the sand patch in line with the kelp bed, I settled down for a contemplative study of the trout flies ranged on clips in their aluminum case.

I had about decided on a Peter Ross on a size-eight hook, a confection of red, black and silver with boldly-barred teal wing, when out by the kelp bed, something splashed.

It was not the sound of a leaping fish, but an abrupt chop. By the size of the ripples that spread from a spot close in to the kelp, whatever had smacked the surface carried a fair amount of weight.

Coho, I thought, or a very large sea-run cutty. Then herring minnows sheeted through the surface, and where they had been, was a swirl of noble proportions.

Spring salmon, and no fish to tangle with on a five-ounce flyrod. Still, the temptation was very strong.

Fingers all thumbs, I stripped the light leader through the loop at the end of the tapered line and replaced it with the heaviest in my box.

The tide had been edging steadily in behind its edge of tawny foam. I took to the shallow, trying not to splash, and waded until another step would fetch the water over my hip-boot tops. The hotspot was still 20 feet or so beyond my longest cast.

In a situation of that sort, there are no two ways for an angler. I took the extra step, flinching at the inrush of cold water, and shuffled on out. At waist depth, I could just reach the area where the spring salmon harried his prey.

I had tied on a big Silver Doctor. It splatted awkwardly on the backcast, but went out well. Heavy hook and tinsel body sank it . . . I began to swim it back in erratic twitches, and before it had darted more than a couple of yards, the spring nailed it in a lazy swirl.

He could have broken me at once in the kelp, but he veered away, and a rough half hour or so later, rolled on his side in the shallows. I gave the gear all it would take, skidded him in till he stranded, then dropped the rod and fell on him.

Eighteen pounds, so help me Father Walton, won at the cost of a numb wrist and a stab of sorrow for wild beauty slain.

NOT YET tested by tempest, oil drilling rig working off Tofino for Shell has easily withstood 10-foot swells. Seen from Okanagan Helicopter's Bell turbocraft, the rig heaves gently in Pacific 12 miles from shore. In gales and high seas, her profile is expected to offer little resistance.

Only Money Glitters In Dull Life on Rig

By AB KENT
Times Business Editor

When Joe Ferguson gave up nine years of policework in June to enter an untried field, he turned his back on a comfortable $580 a month.

Now he wears coveralls and a hard hat, makes nearly double his policeman's salary, and gets two weeks off every month.

"It was a hard decision to make to leave Saanich police, but now I'm glad I did," Ferguson said Friday.

For the last three months he has been a watch stander aboard SEDCO 135F, the offshore oil rig boring for Shell Canada into the continental shelf 12 miles off Tofino.

'Not Half Bad'

And to Joe, life on an oil rig is not half bad. "I like it very much," he said as he helped show a group of reporters around the vessel.

His duties are related to the work he was trained for before turning to policework, at first for city police. He was in the navy and learned pipefitting, and watch standing involves meters, valves and switches.

Working in the rig's control room, Ferguson is repsonsible for the vessel's trim, or how it floats in the sea.

Ballasting and deballasting are fairly constant operations to keep the vessel on station over the well being drilled by the exploration crew.

Watch standers work under the direction of the barge engineer, like the chief engineer on board a ship. They take weather observations for relay to Tofino airport and handle radio communications between the rig, supporting vessels, aircraft and airport.

They also keep tabs on the vessel's deck load, its tons of steel drill stem and shaft casing, the hundreds of sacks of caustic soda, gels and thinners mixed in the drilling mud, and the level of fresh water and fuel oil both on deck and in ballast 70 feet beneath the waves.

'Too Unvarying'

Not all the rig's crew are as enthusiastic about their novel way of life. Turnover is frequent. Some find the 12-hour shifts (eight hours plus four at time-and-a-half) too long and the routine too unvarying.

There they sit, 100 feet above the sea, in sun and fog, day in and day out. In the fog, which has wrapped the rig most of the summer, life can be depressing to workers used to being ashore.

The Japan current brings it, and even when it is sunny aloft, the fog swirls below and must be blown away to let the sunshine through.

When it does shine, it is glorious, like being on a cruise ship. The meals, too, are like holiday feasts. Beef roast and steaks are choice, the mushrooms profuse.

"We eat well," Ferguson said in notable understatement. For instance, Friday lunch offered tomato soup, fish and chips, cold cuts of beef and other meats, choices of salad, blueberry pie, ice cream, pudding milk, coffee, apples and oranges.

"But by the time we get through work and our personal chores like washing our clothes, shaving and so on, there is not much time for anything else but sleep," Ferguson said.

'Time Is Heavy'

Ferguson reads when he can, but like most of the others he shuns the TV room, where three or four channels can be picked up. The crew prefers to fish overside, visit between cabins and sleep. Some play cards.

Peter Grady, 19-year-old Tofino student working on board for the summer, also likes his job. As a maintenance roustabout he gets about $750 a month.

But roustabout Roy Silvers, 23, of Victoria, can hardly wait to get back to University of Calgary where he is taking mechanical engineering. "Time is heavy here," he said.

There are welders, mechanics, electricians and crane operators — each earning up to about $950 a month — and drillers who are paid about $1,000 per month.

They all work shifts, 10 days on, seven days off.

His superior is the Victoria manager of Southeastern Commonwealth Drilling Co. Ltd., Wallace Pounds, who holds a certificate as "master" of the barge. The rig also is registered as a landing field because of its helicopter deck.

Canadian Crew

Steinocher has been a driller for 12 years, never on dry land. He has worked mostly in the Gulf of Mexico and on inland barges, a sinewy man built like a jockey but with arms of a roughneck. He drawls softly, but his word carries weight.

His boots would look more at home on the range, but where he comes from oil and cattle country is the same.

Barge engineer Frank Williford, 27, is a Texas A and M graduate in electrical and structural engineering, has worked in Louisiana, Venezuela, Brazil and Surinam for Sun Oil, Southeastern and foreign governments.

"This is by far the best country I've worked in yet," he said of the B.C. coast.

While he's on the rig his wife Candace works as a secretary in Victoria. The arrangement works well since they have no family. When he returns:

"We don't crowd everything into a weekend like other people. We have a whole week to see the country and we can relax."

All the 50-man crew, save for one American mechanic, is Canadian, and three quarters of the supervisory staff is American. More management will be turned over to Canadians as they become experienced.

BOATS AVOID DRILLING RIG

Tourists have not yet discovered SEDCO 135F, the oil drilling vessel working for Shell Canada off Long Beach.

Even fishing boats plying the coast keep clear of the vessel's nine anchor buoys. Freighters have passed no closer than a mile or so.

There was a spooky sort of encounter in the fog recently when a ship neared in passage from the south, its fog horn booming.

Gulf Joan, the standby deep-sea tug moored to one of the anchor buoys, had the ship on its radar screen and answered its bleatings at intervals until it had safely passed.

15-Hour Marathon Ends McRae Hearing

Submission of evidence into the value of the 132-acre McRae estate was completed Friday at midnight.

After a final 15-hour session in Victoria Law Courts, chairman Richard Anderson of Vancouver said the three-man board will come to a decision "as soon as possible."

The McRae estate, which includes Cedar Hill golf course in its environs, was expropriated by Saanich council last April.

Saanich offered about $750,000 for the land. But the McRaes have placed its value at more than $3,000,000.

Robert Price, counsel for the McRaes, said in his argument Thursday that the large estate has been greatly undervalued by Saanich appraisers.

Price said that the McRaes must be compensated for the potential profits they would lose by being forced to give up the well-situated land.

"The owner, acting as a developer, contemplates that he will develop the property," he said.

Louis Lindholm, appearing for Saanich, cited numerous previous court decisions in an involved 10-hour argument.

Rejecting Mr. Price's statement that the owners should receive part of the potential profits to be made from the land Mr. Lindholm argued that "the uncontradicted opinion of the Supreme Court over 50 years is that present market value must govern in these matters."

Bush Fire Put Out

About 20 people phoned in the alarm shortly after 9 p.m.

Major Outfall Work Looms for District

The amount of sewage treatment required under proposed new anti-pollution laws will depend on each individual area.

"It means each situation has to be judged on its own," Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said this morning.

PCB TO SET LEVEL

A letter going to every municipal council in B.C. says the Pollution Control Board will be authorized to set "the level of sewerage treatment to be required" of municipalities and a time table spelled out for the work to be done.

Mr. Brown said the degree of sewage treatment will be related to:

- Alternative uses of the water;
- The amount of sewage the water can safely receive and the ability of the water to "regenerate" itself.

Asked if southern Vancouver Island will have to stop pouring raw sewage into the ocean, he replied that this will be up to the Pollution Control Board.

BELOW STANDARDS

"They might accept that as suitable for a period. But if there were 2,000,000 people in Victoria the situation might be different."

Last year's Greater Victoria sewerage report says with the possible exception of the Finnerty Cove outfall in Saanich, existing outfalls are not capable of providing sufficient dilution to meet Pollution Control Board standards.

There are at least 23 major sewer outfalls to the sea, but only two of them — Finnerty Cove and Clover Point — comminute sewage.

OVER 50 YEARS

The report recommended a $23.5 million trunk line and outfall plan over the next 50 years. The Capital Region District is moving to implement this.

The report said substantial outfall lengths are required, with or without treatment. It concluded that on the south and east coasts "treatment is uneconomic and unnecessary."

Chlorination was not considered because, while achieving a suitable coliform level at the shoreline, it would not safeguard the aesthetic characteristics of the waterfront.

It recommended comminution for all marine outfalls discharging raw sewage. This will aid in dispersal of solid material and minimize aesthetic nuisance.

The president of the Victoria Home Builders Association, Jim McLaren, welcomed any government move which will open up more sewered lots for home buyers.

The lack of sewered lots was one reason why houses have moved beyond the financial means of the average person.

Land prices were up in some cases by 100 per cent over the last few years and there is hardly any sewered land left for building new homes on.

More sewered land for new houses should stabilize high mortgage rates, helping to bring houses back within reach of most people, he said.

Lull in Winds Helps Control Forest Fire

The Sproat Lake fire was being contained today as a lull in the wind allowed firefighters to strengthen their guards.

The blaze, which has bared 6,000 acres in the past 10 days, quieted down overnight, partly choked by its own dense smoke.

One fear is that winds may strengthen over the weekend, fanning the flames across tree tops and breaching the fire guards.

Cyclist Rides On Hot Seat

David James Boone, 19, pulled off the Pat Bay Highway to discover a short circuit in the motorcycle's tail light had ignighted his sleeping bag and duffle bag.

The blaze was extinguished and there was only minor damage.

Full Light At McKenzie Promised

In a letter to Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, the department said it hopes to proceed with a new light "in the near future."

The work could not be done until the road is widened to allow for left-turn slots and the highways department also hopes to do this in the "near future".

At present there is a flashing red-and-amber light and Reeve Curtis was warned a serious accident will occur. The intersection is a provincial and not a municipal responsibility.

"This is very good," commented Reeve Curtis, "in that the need for a signal is admitted and action is to be taken on it.

"The need has been apparent for some time. I hope 'near future means as soon as possible."

Memorial to Indian Chief Suggested for C. Saanich

The Tsartlip chief, who was internationally known as a wrestler and did much to promote sports in Saanich, died in November, 1966.

The Brentwood Women's Institute has suggested that a tree be planted in Centennial Park in memory of the chief, but today a well-known artist suggested a wood sculpture instead.

A. D. J. Pitts, 959 Mount Newton Cross Road, said "if we do something, let's do something worthwhile."

He suggested that a local artist be commissioned to make a wood sculpture for erection in front of the municipal hall.

"Our municipal hall has been attractively landscaped," he said. "But it needs something to make it stand out."

He felt an artist could be found to undertake the project at a reasonable price. Organizations and the municipality could be asked to contribute towards the project.

Mrs. J. M. Burwood, president of the Women's Institute, said Mr. Pitts had put forward an "imaginative proposal."

"As an individual I'm all in favor of it," she said.

The matter will be brought up at the September meeting, she said.

She noted that the Tsartlip band at Brentwood is commemorating his memory by putting up a Chief Thunderbird trophy as a major prize in a fishing derby to be held Sunday.

"The chief did a lot for charity—not only for his own people but also for white charitable causes," she said. "We also should do something as he was truly an outstanding man."

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. L. Herriott . . . celebrating their golden wedding anniversary today.

BRIDE DESIGNS AND MAKES GOWN FOR VOWS TODAY

Delicate floral lace formed the bodice and belled sleeves of the gown worn by Catherine Elaine Hood when she became the bride of Larry Christopher Whitman, this afternoon.

The gown, which she designed and made herself, was fashioned of satin-backed crepe and featured a single pleat at the front of the sheath skirt. Aurora borealis and pearls shimmered on the coronet which held her shoulder-length veil of illusion net. She carried white roses and leather leaf fern in her cascade bouquet.

Fr. A. E. Leonard officiated at the service in St. Patrick's Church which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert William Hood of Quesnel, and the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Whitman, 843 Esquimalt Road, and Ron Whitman, Victoria. Mr. Hood gave his daughter in marriage and Mrs. L. Gill was organist.

Frank Proctor was best man and ushering the guests were the groom's brothers, Terry and Rick Whitman.

The reception followed in the garden of the Olde England Inn. The three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table was decorated with yellow rosebuds and flanked by arrangements of similar flowers. W. G. Lynch proposed the toast to the bride.

A three-piece suit in tawny beige was the choice of the new Mrs. Whitman for travelling. She complemented the ensemble with brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

Of Personal Interest

From Mainland

A number of Vancouver residents travelled to Victoria to attend the wedding this afternoon of Miss Catherine Elaine Hood and Mr. Larry Whitman. They included Mr. Ray Elford, Mr. and Mrs. Bill MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson and Mr. Rick Thomas. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. Keith Weatherdon, Port Alberni; Mr. and Mrs. R. Wright of Ottawa; the Misses Theresa Hood and Enid Goodman of Quesnel; Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Warick of Chilliwack.

Celebrate Golden Anniversary

To celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. L. Herriott, 940 Snowdrop Avenue, are being entertained at an "open house", this afternoon, in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Herriott, 1640 West Burnside Road. This evening a family reunion dinner will be held.

Mr. Herriott was born in Toronto in 1890 and his wife was born in London, England, three years later. He went overseas with the 61st Battalion in 1916 and on August 29, 1917, they were married in St. George Church, Ramsgate, England.

The couple came to Victoria in 1919 where they made their home until 1933, when they moved to Port Renfrew. They returned here in 1944. Mr. Herriott was a machinist at HMC Dockyard.

Mrs. Herriott has been a member of the 50-Up Club at St. Alban's Anglican Church for several years.

The couple has two children, Mrs. Winnifred Halliday, Port Renfrew, and one son. Their eight grandchildren are Mrs. Katherine Jones, Port Alberni; Mrs. Florence Hay, Victoria; Robby and Clifford Halliday, Port Renfrew; Donald, Barbra, Beverly and Dougie Herriott, Victoria.

The couple also has four great-grandchildren, Michale Hay, Victoria; Loralie, Warren and Teresa Jones, Port Alberni.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Marriage Perfect 'Playboy' Solution

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Never have I written to anyone for advice before, but I need help from an outsider. I've been going with Ben (fake name) for nine years. We are both in our early fifties and can't marry now for reasons beyond our control. I have loved Ben faithfully all these years. He has his good points, but what upsets me is the way he acts whenever a good-looking woman comes on the scene.

He looks her over as though he were judging a heifer at a livestock show. If she pays any attention to him, he carries on like her long-lost lover, putting his arms around her and giving her pats and squeezes. He forgets I am even in the room.

I have pleaded with him and threatened him, but it hasn't changed this 52-year-old playboy.

BEN'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I have the feeling you may be worrying about a problem that you may never have to face. The most you can hope for is for Ben to quit looking at other women while you're looking at Ben.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband he was a quiet, gentle man. Now success has changed him. I have just returned from a "vacation" with him, which I must admit I did not enjoy.

My husband's financial success has given him what he calls "confidence." I call it an overbearing tendency to brag. Everyone we met had to listen to his Horatio Alger life's story. Abby, it was embarrassing. He has made a fine success in business, but where is his modesty and taste?

I am probably not saying this right, but proud as I am of his tremendous "Operation Bootstrap" success, I long for the humble man who sat quietly by my side and talked of something other than himself and his money.

I love him. How can I help him?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell him, my dear. Tell him.

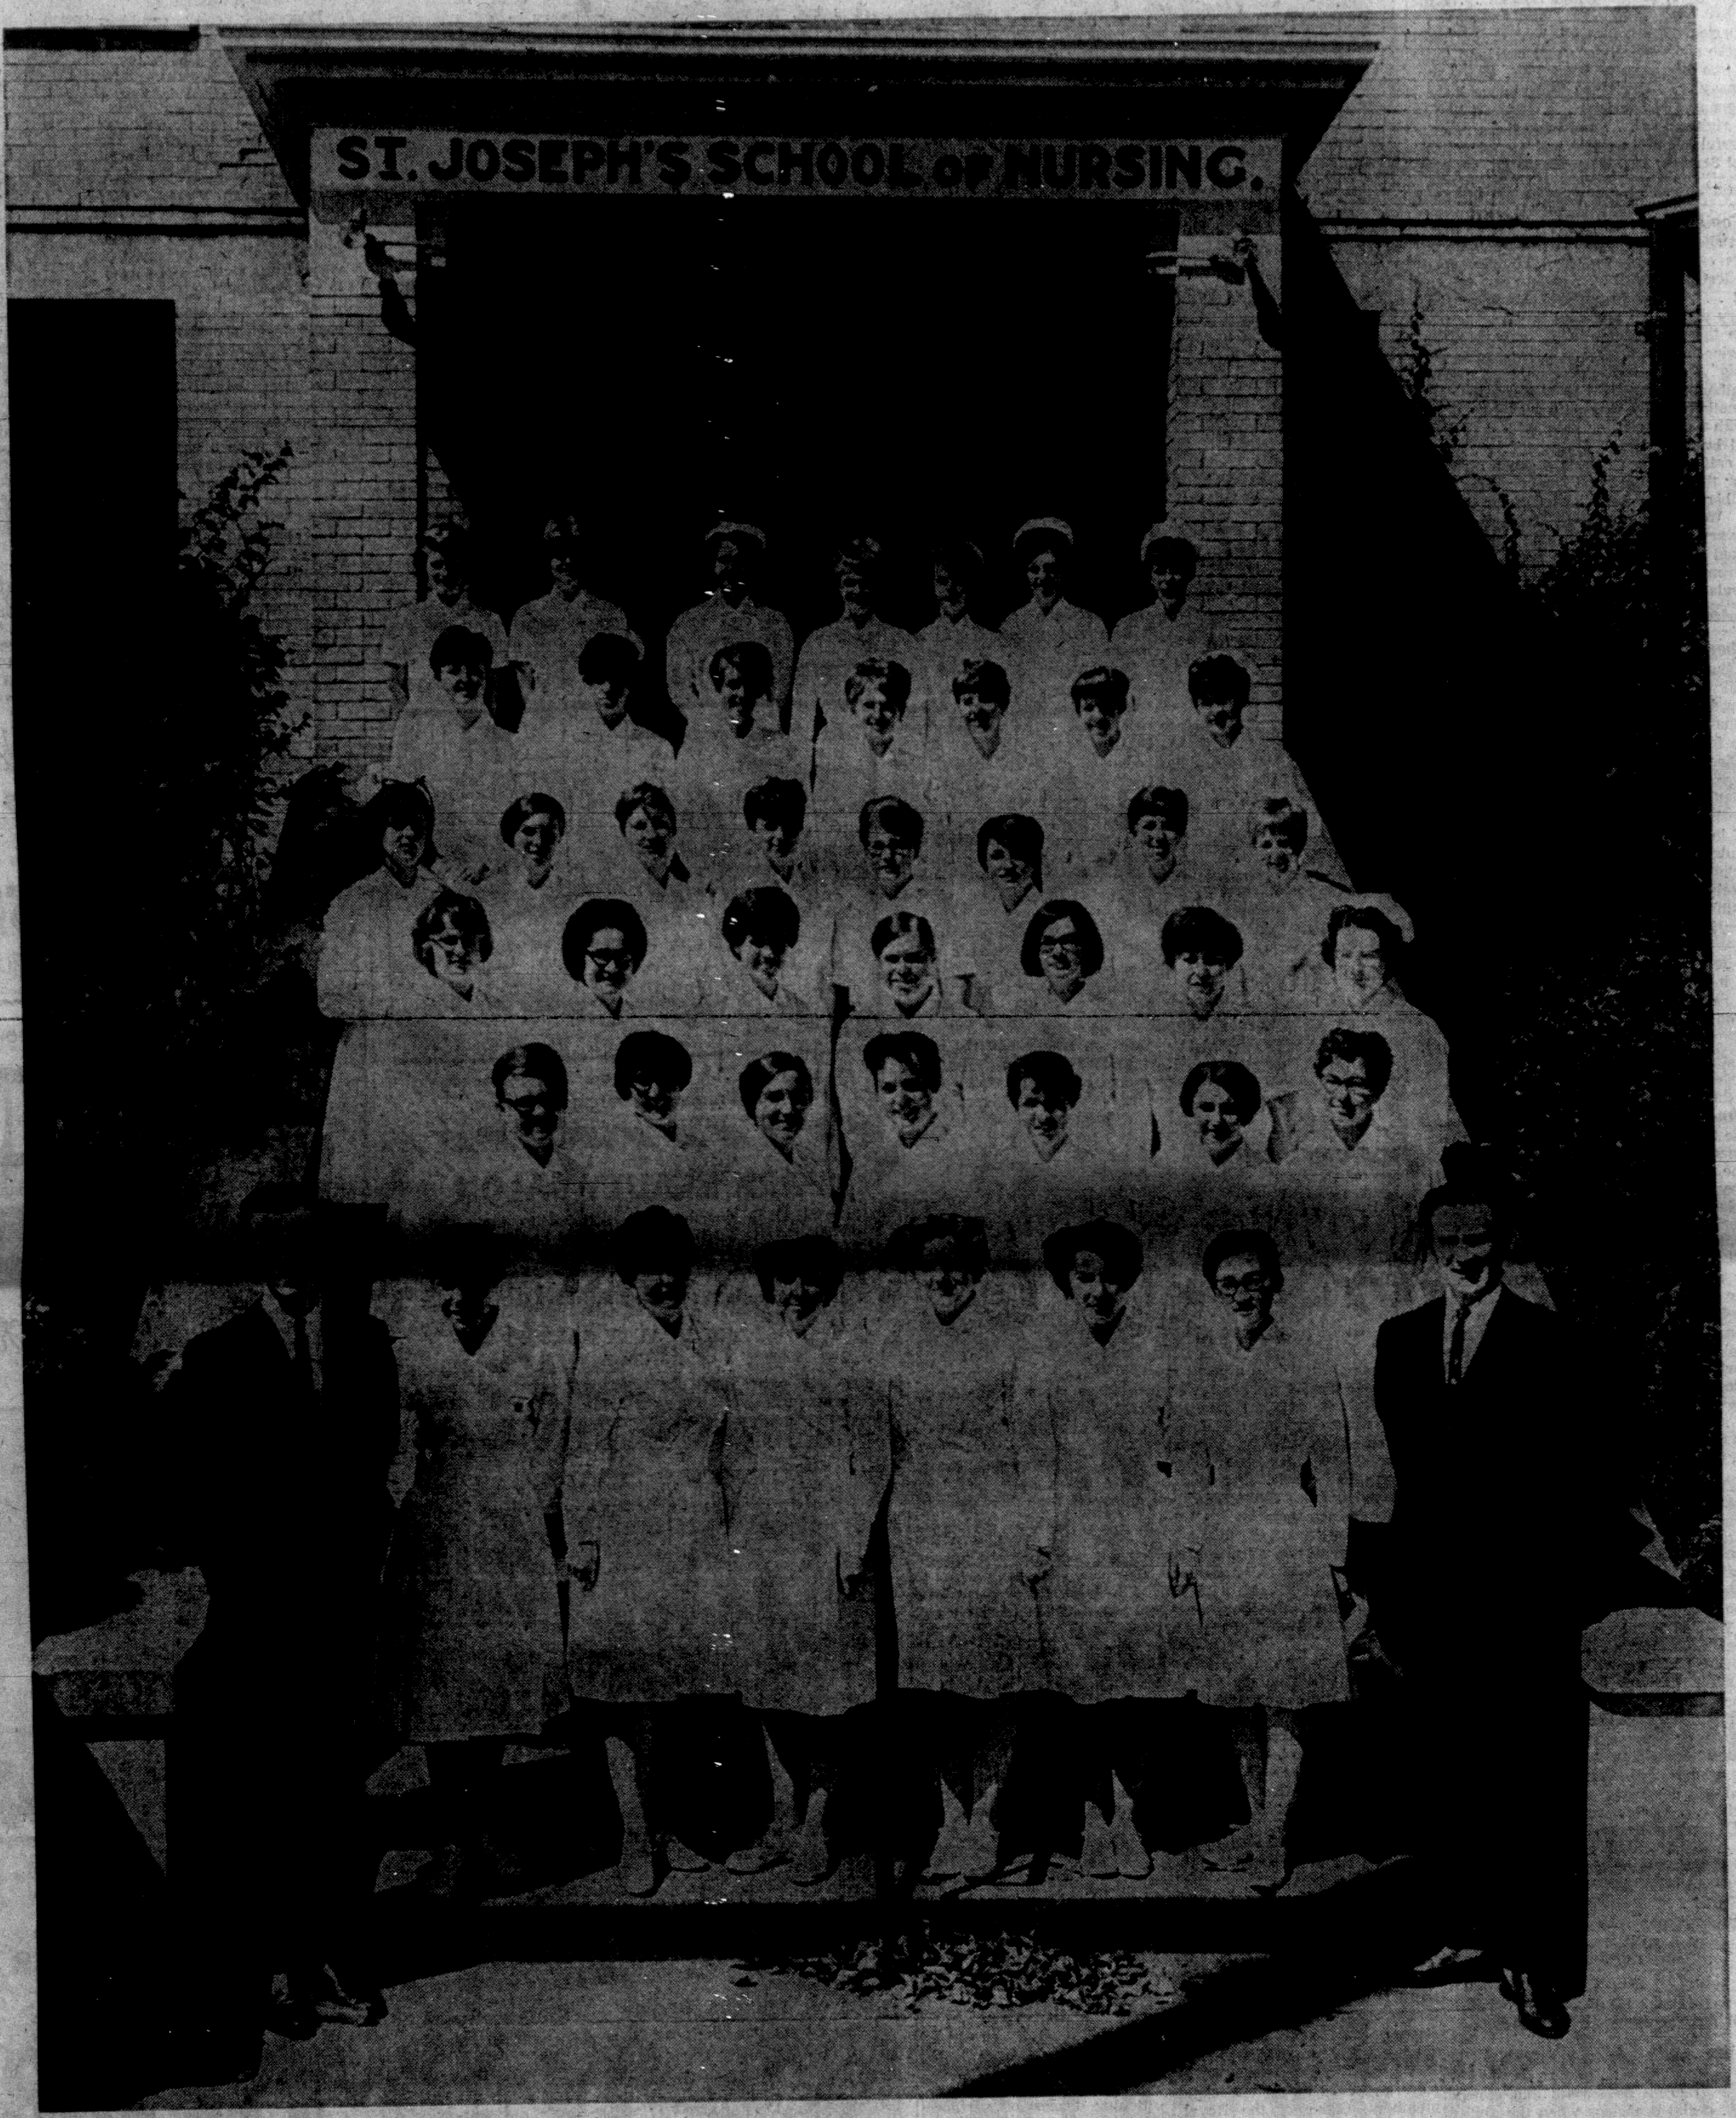
St. Joseph's Hospital Graduation Exercises



ST. JOSEPH'S SCHOOL OF NURSING.

The Royal Theatre will be the setting for colorful graduation exercises of St. Joseph's Hospital on Sunday, Sept. 3, when 53 graduates receive the diplomas and pins won after years of intensive study.

Already, the whirl of graduation parties has begun, among them being the banquet given the students by the Sisters of St. Ann. Next Friday evening the theme will be informal when students and their friends gather at the White Eagle Hall for a Beachcomber Dance.

The following day will be filled with social activities, beginning with a mother and daughter tea, to be held at the Olde England Inn. A reception will be held in the nurses' residence as a prelude to the graduation dance, to be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel that evening.

On the morning of graduation day, the students and their fathers will gather in the school's dining-room for a father and daughter breakfast.

Two men, Mr. F. A. Rice, Comox, and Mr. S. J. Kempster, Victoria (seen at each end of the front row in this picture) will be among those graduating from the hospital's school of medical technology. Others are Marlene Godkin, Saltair, and Sheila Tully, Penticton, seen at the back on the extreme left.

Standing with the medical technology graduates in the back row, left to right, are Melody Faye Lindstrom, Victoria; Antoinette Godefroy, Cobble Hill; Shirley Harrison, Campbell River; Diane Elaine Lindstrom, Lake Cowichan, and Jennifer Crowe, Port Hardy. You go via San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Honolulu to Japan, Hong Kong, Philippines, Australia, Ceylon, India, Aden, Egypt, Italy, the Netherlands, England, Madeira, Bermuda, Bahamas, Panama, Mexico . . . and back up the U.S. west coast . . . with shore excursions at the major ports of call arranged to show you all the exciting highlights . . . PLUS a 4-day overland tour of Japan . . . PLUS your choice of two 25-day European tours . . . the first covering Italy, France, Belgium and London . . . the other, Italy, the French Riviera, Spain, Paris and London . . . Transportation with experienced escorts, all hotels and most meals are included in these shore excursions and overland tours . . . and of course you live like royalty aboard the 28,000 ton, fully air-conditioned Oronsay . . . Can't you just picture it . . . 100 days of fun, excitement and relaxation? . . . If you'd like to know more, see Paulin's right away . . . and have them reserve your place on this wonderful round-the-world holiday adventure! . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., 382-9168.

A distinguished shoe collection . . .

"They're the loveliest shoes we've ever had from Amalfi's," Mr. Ian Munday told us enthusiastically when he showed us Munday's new Amalfi collection for fall . . . and to this we add our own heartfelt Amen! . . . These beautiful shoes from Italy are truly elegant . . . very distinctive and new in every respect . . . In the dressy group there's "Diluvio" . . . a very pretty pump in black, navy or wine calf with antique silver buckle and shaped heel . . . "Dobbia" . . . an excellently fitting double-strapped shoe in black calf with patent toe, or brown with black calf tip . . . "Fuma" is another dressy shoe with a slightly lower heel . . . soft black kid with truffle trim, or navy with grey trim . . . A huge tortoise shell buckle adorns "Malerba" . . . which comes in brown or black calf . . . Then there's a group of walking shoes distinguished for their comfort and smart styling . . . High fronts, wide straps, big buckles are all part of the Amalfi look for fall 1967 . . . We especially like "Tringa" which exemplifies all this . . . very wide strap with side buckle . . . extension sole, little stacked heel . . . in brown grain calf . . . Amalfi shoes are priced from $21.95 to $31.95 and are exclusive to . . . Munday's, 1203 Douglas St., 383-2211.

Fall shipment from Liberty of London . . .

We hasten to tell you that Wilson's have just received their fall shipment of Liberty silk scarves . . . as well as an exciting collection of blouses tailored from Liberty lawn . . . by that prince of shirtmakers, Hathaway . . . and now is the time to go in and make your selection for yourself and to have on hand for gifts . . . because the choice will never be better than at this moment . . . You know, you simply can't mistake a Liberty design . . . they have a distinction and originality all their own . . . and their use of color is something to marvel at . . . The new scarves . . . 23 and 27 inch squares . . . seem to us lovelier than ever . . . fabulous shades and nuances . . . Prices, you'll be happy to know, remain unchanged at $6.50 and $8.50 . . . Blouses, tagged at $12.95, are precisely tailored, with three-quarter-length cuffed sleeves and convertible neckline . . . Bottom is straight so they can be worn either inside or out . . . Here, again, the patterns are delightful . . . ranging from dainty flower motifs to paisleys and fascinating designs on dark backgrounds . . . The material, which is cotton, has the fineness and texture of silk . . . washes like a charm, and irons like a hankie! . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

Opaque, textured stockings are no longer confined to the very young. Best in colors to match one's costume.

Fetching toppers at Madam and Eve . . .

We saw some awfully cute hats in the Madam and Eve Shop this past week . . . and while there are just a few of them . . . we couldn't help thinking how perfectly they team up with the smart little suits and coats with the young look which M and E is noted for . . . These hats are very tailored . . . made of a fine wool material printed in modernistic designs in a real Joseph's coat of colors . . . with stitched brims which you can turn up in back, or front, or any way that suits your face or your mood . . . You can roll them up and stow them in a suitcase . . . stick them in your pocket . . . and they spring right back into shape . . . there's a gold, orange, lilac and blue combination . . . , red and blue paisley . . . a wide-brimmed royal blue, red, green and gold print . . . a plain orange hat with turn-up brim that ties under the chin like a gaucho's sombrero . . . and a similar one in beige . . . a couple of perky little corde rain hats . . . black and beige . . . to keep you looking chic in showers . . . A three-piece outfit that caught our eye is a dilly . . . blue, lime and mauve dress and jacket . . . plus a skirt . . . so you can wear it as a two-piece suit, dress and jacket, or dress alone . . . It's a size 10 and costs $135 at . . . Madam and Eve Shop, Trounce Alley, 383-7177.

English furniture of rare beauty . . .

One thing you simply must do . . . if you've an eye for the aesthetic . . is drop in to the Gallery at Home Furniture next time you're anywhere in the vicinity of Fort St. . . . They've just received a grouping of English furniture . . . reproductions of hundreds-of-years-old-pieces . . . that's sheer delight! . . . There are pier and shield shape box mirrors . . . those charming little mirrors with two small drawers beneath them which you stand on a chest in your bedroom . . . Likewise, a slender cheval mirror to stand on the floor anywhere . . . There are nests of tables with Queen Anne or Duncan Phyfe legs and pie-crust tops in beautifully grained burl walnut . . . coffee and wine tables, ditto . . . in various shapes . . . Corner wine cabinets with pull-out glass tray and all necessary space for keeping glasses and the wherewithal . . . Corner curio cabinets . . . ladies' drop leaf desks and Regency desks . . . all these in crotch grain burl walnut or mahogany with real antique finish and outstanding design . . . (a number of pieces bear stickers announcing they've received the Queen's Award to the Furniture Industry, 1967) . . . and PLEASE . . . if you'd like one of these lovely pieces of furniture for Christmas . . . have it laid aside for you now . . . because it takes a good six months to get an order sent from England! . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

Jean Barthet of the Chambe Syndicale De La Mode Parisienne is enthusiastic about the helmet as an important millinery silhouette of the coming season. He uses striped jersey with a matching scarf to illustrate the three-colored look.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Look to Youth for Hat Themes

Will you be ready at the beginning of September to move into fall fashion?

Your first step may well be a new chapeau . . . the transition millinery is most exciting.

Damaske

Many of the shapes are familiar ones but, for the woman who is ready to accept the newest look of millinery, the Chambre Syndicale de la Mode Parisienne brings a fresh look.

The theme of the season is youth, expressed vividly in the young helmets shown by St. Laurent and Jean Barthet, the zippy, roll-brimmed padre hats of Christian Dior and Givenchy, and the forward-reaching visor caps endorsed by nearly every millinery designer.

While influenced by youth, the hats themselves are extremely wearable by women of all ages, because of their head-fitting silhouettes and lack of gadgetry.

The general fashion silhouette has changed very little for the coming season and this means that excitement and interest will be brought about by outstanding accessories. The tamed color of fall and winter costumes will be highlighted by the pure singing color of the new millinery.

Hats will bring a coat, suit or costume to life, making of it a more important whole.

Many hats will be "fit-to-be-tied". Head-hugging helmets and wide-brimmed "Aussie and Anzac" shapes will be tied under the chin or under one ear.

Many helmets will have the clean architectural shaping of the coming season.

The beret, a perennial favorite, is with us again but this year it is often shown with a softly rounded peak over the forehead. Velvet plays a big part in the fall beret scene.

The large back of the head roller remains a favorite and shapes to a femininely flattering chapeau in wisp-weight felt. The simple dome shape returns but in a more restrained manner. The very high crowned dome has been replaced by the dome which more closely follows the line of the head. Many of the helmets and new domes are multi-colored with large squares or wide stripes in three color combinations.

Could This Man Be Your Husband?

By DOROTHY FRASER

Earlier this summer a man we'll call John Jones, age 39, was busy mowing his lawn when suddenly he was seized by an agonizing pain in his chest . . . so excrutiating that he collapsed. Rushed to one of our big city hospitals, where a coronary attack was diagnosed, he was treated and seemed to be recovering . . . yet within three days, John Jones died . . . due to lack of equipment which could summon help, keep his heart beating when it began fibrillating. He was one of some 80 Victorians who die UNNECESSARILY each year in hospital from coronary attacks. Think of it . . . this young man, breadwinner and father of a young family . . . might have been YOUR husband! This needless loss of life from heart attacks is now about to be cut in half through the setting up in both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals of Intensive Coronary Care complexes with sophisticated electronic equipment that will monitor heart beats . . . keep failing hearts alive far faster than humans could spring into action . . . at a time when every second counts. Some of this equipment has already arrived . . . and is responsible for saving a life within the past weeks. The Victoria Kiwanis Club, as its centennial project, has undertaken to raise money for the purchase of this electronic equipment, and is asking you to help NOW! If every adult reader of this item gave only $1 . . . the cost of this heart-saving equipment would easily be met! So please be generous . . . remember, the heart you save may be your own! Send contributions to: Kiwanis Coronary Care Fund, 221 Linden Avenue, Victoria.

TWIGGY TELLS NAME'S ORIGIN

MONTREAL (CP) — "He used to call me Twiggy because I was so thin and I used to get annoyed."

The five-foot six-inch, 92-pound fashion model laughed as she explained at a Montreal press conference Wednesday how her manager, Justin de Villeneuve, christened her with the now-famous nickname.

Twiggy wore a short North American Indian-style dress of burgundy antelope with cut-outs at the shoulders and midriff as she idly nibbled at her fingernails and answered reporters' questions.

The 17-year-old cockney said she receives several fan letters from "moms" who scold Justin.

"They say he's starving me," she giggled.

Cowans-Cogger Vows . . .

. . . Heard at White Rock

MAINLAND HOME FOR NEWLYWEDS

When they return from a honeymoon trip touring the Sechelt Peninsula, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lindsay Cowans will be making their home in New Westminster.

The bride, the former Maureen Adele Cogger, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cogger of White Rock and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Cowans, 1083 Joan Crescent, Victoria.

Star of the Sea Church in White Rock was decorated with white gladioli and daisies this afternoon for the service conducted by Fr. Joseph Franks. During the ceremony, organist Capt. J. Crowe played "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of daisy-patterned lace over peau de soie. Fashioned on empire lines, the bodice featured short puffed sleeves. A dainty tiara of pearl daisies held her shoulder-length veil and she carried yellow daisies and gypsophila in her bouquet.

Street-length dresses of burnished orange crystalline over taffeta, also fashioned on empire lines, were worn by the bride's attendants. Their bouquets of white daisies and ivy matched the flowers they wore in their hair.

Best man was Michael Wilson and ushering the guests were Stephen Dyer and Randall Cowans.

A two-piece suit of white wool, topped with a coat in pastel tweed, was the choice of the bride for travelling. Her hat was in turban style and accessories were black patent.

Furniture Scratched? Try These Tiny Felts

By PENNY SAVER

It has always been a great mystery to me how furniture gets scratched. We have four tables in various spots in the living room, and two of them have only vases standing on them. The goblins must come out and dance on them at night, because they have scratches aplenty. The other tables and shelves have a better excuse—they are littered with knick-knacks, lamps, ashtrays and bowls. A couple of these tables have just been refinished and I'm hoping that the goblins will keep their distance and not scratch them too.

I've now found a dandy little item that saves furniture surfaces. These are small self-sticking felt pads that you can put on the base of a lamp, on ashtrays, figurines, vases or planters to keep them from leaving a mark. Put four or five of these little stickers on your table ornaments and you should never have any problems. A card of 24 of them is priced at 25 cents.

We have two large den walls which look awfully bare without pictures to cover up the vast blank area. We put all kinds of pictures up there—magazine photos, maps, charts, a calendar—things that are inexpensive and easy to hang. Then, when we get tired of them, we simply change them . . . presto—a new decor.

If you want to hang any pictures or maps in your home you'll find paper hangers will help. These will hold any papers, and all you have to do is just moisten the gummed back, and attach to the paper. You can buy a package of 10 of these for 15 cents.

Please give me a call at 382-3131 if you'd like to know where I shopped for these items.

Plan Picnic At Eagles' Park

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Victoria Lodge No. 2, will gather at Eagles' Park near Elk Lake, Sunday afternoon, for a picnic. The annual affair begins at 1 p.m. and is open to all lodge members, Order of the Royal Purple members and their families.

Die Sooner

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

By PAT DUFOUR

Five Vancouver Island women will leave Victoria on Thursday on the first leg of a dream trip to Europe. Their "magic wands" that brought their dreams to fruition . . . sturdy hockey sticks.

Four of the players are on the national Canadian team that will represent our country when the International Federation of Women's Hockey Associations holds its world championship matches near the German city of Cologne.

Representatives from this area on the team are Mrs. Vivien Wilkinson and Mrs. Geoffrey Hill, both of Victoria, and two sisters, Miss Suzanne Bradford and Miss Marguerite Bradford of Duncan. Suzanne, a student nurse at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, has received special permission to take time out from her studies in order to play in the seven-week tour.

Going along as a special delegate will be Mrs. Peter Clarke of Shawnigan Lake. Mrs. Clarke is president of the Canadian Women's Field Hockey Association.

The Canadians will spend two weeks in West Germany, shooting for top honors against teams from England, France, Jamaica, the Argentine, Germany and other countries. Six matches have already been arranged.

At the close of the championship matches, the Canadian team will go to Holland for a week of exhibition games, repeating the program in both Scotland and Northern Ireland. The last leg of their trip will see them stopping off in the Maritimes for two days of competition with local teams.

One of the local team members admitted to being slightly miffed at a story that recently appeared in a Vancouver paper, suggesting that women hockey players ran the risk of appearing unfeminine. "Just because we take our sport seriously some people immediately think that we're in danger of becoming female weight-lifters!"

True or false, the uniforms that the team will be taking with them will certainly dispel any illusions that Canadian women hockey players lack interest in haute couture.

Their official playing outfits swing and sing with color. Teamed with pert kilts made in the colorful maple leaf tartan will be gold socks and blouses. Snappy slacks and sweaters in a brilliant red shade will be used for practice sessions.

Even when travelling, the women will be wearing outfits that are guaranteed to have even the most conservative of European men signing up for the "girl-watching" game. A gold maple leaf is emblazoned on the breast pocket of their scarlet blazers. A neatly tailored grey skirt and toning felt hat add just enough extra dash to keep eyes turning in the wearers' direction.

Thrilled as they are with their zippy outfits, the players have little time to ogle their wardrobes. Every day they're out on the field, wielding the hockey sticks that have become their passports.

When they leave here on Thursday, they'll be headed for Hamilton, Ont., and a week of training camp. From there, they'll fly to Germany on Sept. 9, ready to compete in the Olympics of the field hockey world.

From the first bully-off each of the kilt-swinging contestants will be straining to bring the world crown back to Canada.

And, in case you're wondering, each would gladly volunteer to forego some of the feminine fripperies in order to make room in her suitcase for the coveted silverware!

What TV Replaces

Gown of French Brocade Worn for Friday Service

A full cathedral train, lined with white satin, swept back from the gown of embossed French brocade worn by Carrol Lynn White Friday evening when she became the bride of Geoffrey Thomas Nicholson. Twin bridal bows at the shoulders held the train.

Fashioned on empire lines, the bodice of the sheath gown featured a softly rounded neckline and belled sleeves. Small seed pearls trimmed the white satin flowers which held her veil of illusion net. Mauve orchids centred her cascade bouquet of stephanotis and ivy.

Silver baskets of small mauve chrysanthemums decorated St. Aidan's United Church for the candlelit service conducted by Rev. A. G. MacLeod.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. White, 3912 Cadboro Bay Road, and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nicholson of Vancouver.

As the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, organist Mrs. Vera Barcley played "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." She also accompanied soloist Ted Sommer who sang Sibeluis' "Lord's Prayer" and "Panus Angelicus" during the signing of the register.

Bell-skirted gowns of mauve crystal charm, with contrasting bands of mauve peau d'elegance encircling the empire waistlines, were worn by matron of honor Mrs. M. Cottingham and bridesmaids the Misses Judy Brander, the bride's cousin from Toronto, and Pat and Kathy Nicholson, the groom's sisters. Their headpieces were peau d'elegance en tone, edged with veils, and they carried cascade bouquets of white carnations tipped with mauve.

Best man was Dave Goodman. Guests were ushered to their pews by the groom's cousin, Larry Behnsen, Vancouver; Frank Hansen and John van Munster.

Harry L. Mack proposed the toast to his granddaughter at the reception following in the Gorge Vale Golf Club. The head table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a gold bud vase. The Davis Trio played for dancing.

For travelling on honeymoon to Calgary and the northwestern United States, the bride donned a sleeveless sheath dress of brilliant green silk crepe, topped with a matching lace coat. Her picture hat and accessories were white. Roses en corsage were an added complement.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bush, 553 Senanus Drive, Saanichton, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Lynn Marguerite, to Mr. Donald George Peden, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Peden, 3205 Cadboro Bay Road. The wedding will take place on Saturday, September 9 at 7 p.m. in St. Michael and All Angels Church. Rev. O. L. Foster will officiate. CHURCH PARADE

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will attend the annual church parade of the Old Contemptibles Association (Victoria Branch) and take the salute following the service in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday. Major Norman Featherstone will be the aide-de-camp in attendance.

Golden Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. Angus McKay of 24 Olympia Avenue will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday by holding an "at home" for their friends from 3 to 7 p.m. The couple has two children, Angus Hugh, and Mrs. M. (Anne) Allen, both of this city. There are three grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. McKay were married in Stevenston, Ayrshire, Scotland, coming to live in Victoria shortly after the ceremony. Mrs. McKay, the youngest daughter of Mrs. William Boyle, "Moorpark," Stevenston, and the late Mr. Boyle, is a life member of the Burns Club of Victoria and is now president for her second term. She is also actively associated with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

"Scotty" McKay is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McKay of Victoria. He was prominent in athletic and horticultural circles for many years and is a life member of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Grandmother Here

Mrs. F. F. White travelled from her home in Harriston, Ont., to attend the wedding Friday evening of her granddaughter, Miss Carrol Lynn White, and Mr. Geoffrey Thomas Nicholson. LEAPING from tree to tree, flames rapidly wiped out four acres of young timber on the outskirts of Duncan Friday. A bulldozer closes to within a few feet of the scorching heat to cut off the flames. By today the fire had been contained, but 25 firefighters were being kept busy mopping up. Fire was spotted at 2:10 p.m. Friday by lookout Tom Gilmour atop Mount Prevost. A Canso water bomber from Pat Bay airport quickly moved in to drench the area while water tankers and tractors battled it on the ground. At the height of the blaze, a number of homes at the south end of Gibbins Road were threatened. (Don Dingwall photo.)

Regional District Forming In Duncan-Cowichan Area

DUNCAN—Mrs. Shirley Posey said Friday a special meeting is to be held early in September to start work on formation of a regional district in the Cowichan area.

She was reporting the outcome of an "in camera" meeting Thursday between Duncan and North Cowichan council representatives, W. Kent Smith of the department of municipal affairs, and members of a citizens' committee.

Mrs. Posey, a member of the citizens' committee, said: "The group felt a regional board would be beneficial for a very large area and asked Mr. Smith to arrange a meeting."

Mrs. Posey said both councils' representatives gave assurances of co-operation in solving sewage disposal problems.

The citizens' committee was formed recently after the third defeat of a sewer bylaw for the south end of the municipality.

Mr. Smith, director of finance and statistics for the department, explained how services can be obtained through the newly developed regional district formula.

He described the similarities between regional boards and regional districts for hospitals.

One advantage of a regional board, he said, was in eliminating overlapping of services and competition for the tax dollar.

CENTENNIAL TATTOO ATTRACTS THOUSANDS

DUNCAN—A centennial military tattoo attracted two thousand people to Pioneer Park here Friday evening.

The colorful ceremonies were staged by 320 Navy, Army and Air Force cadets from all over British Columbia.

They had been trained at camp in Vernon and the tattoo was produced and directed by Capt. William Gabriel of Vancouver.

A two-hour program of massed bands, gymnastics, rescue exercises and field gun contests was performed with guards' like precision.

IWA Asking $35,000 For Fighting Fires

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A union leader said Friday he intends to press a claim of $35,000 for members of the International Woodworkers of America now on firefighting duties on Vancouver Island.

Walter Allen, president of the Port Alberni local of the IWA, said the amount is the difference between what firefighters are being paid and what he believes they should receive.

In a statement MacMillan Bloedel said its employees fighting the 6,000-acre Sproat Lake fire are working for the B.C. forestry service and will get the service's rate of $1.25 an hour.

The industry's rate runs from a base of $2.97 an hour up to $3.53 for a crew boss, Mr. Allen said.

The dispute is not affected by the fact that some of the men were out of work because of a company closure resulting from the high fire hazard, he said.

A company spokesman said, "The forestry service called on us for men when the fire spread from Crown land to our logging operation.

Our understanding is that while they are fighting the fire they are on the service payroll."

No Smoking Ban to Stay

Gulf Islands school board rejected a plea by Mayne Island truestee Mrs. James Ross for relaxation of smoking rules for students at Ganges dormitory.

Her fellow truestees held firmly to the board's "no smoking" rule placed on the books nine years ago. Students are not allowed to smoke from time of leaving home for school until their return.

Mrs. Ross argued that students whose parents allow smoking should be premitted to smoke in the dormitory. She maintained students returning to the dormitory from school should have the freedom as other students returning to their homes. She also contended that the school principal should set smoking rules not the board.

James Campbell replied that the board's policy is simple. A student may not have tobacco in his possession from the time of leaving home until his return home. "This policy is part of dormitory rules," he declared. "If parents do not choose to accept it they are free to place their children elsewhere."

New Matron Named

New matron appointed for Ganges school dormitory is Mrs. Anne Ridley of Vancouver. She will replace Miss Eileen Green who resigned in June. Mrs. Ridley leaves her position as psychiatric nurse at Woodlands school to come to Salt Spring Island.

NEW RECRUITS FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT

Vice-Principal Attracts Teacher Relatives

DUNCAN—When Harold Proctor went back to England last summer it was meant to be a holiday.

And it was, but it was also a one-man recruiting campaign.

It bubbled over as he talked with relatives and friends.

ARRIVALS START

So much so that this week the Proctor home on Maple Bay Road looked like a clearing station for new teacher recruits to the Cowichan Valley.

Also in temporary residence is a friend, Peter Wilson, who will join the staff of Alexander Elementary School in Duncan.

Mrs. Wilson and their two children are to join Peter later this month.

En route to Duncan as a result of the Proctor's publicity promotion are Christopher and Judith Vardy.

Mr. Vardy is a nephew of Mrs. Proctor who over the past two years has written him 35-page letters extolling the virtues of Canada and detailing everything from the climate to the cost of living.

Harold Proctor believes he may have started a teacher exodus from the United Kingdom which might snowball.

ANOTHER EXPECTED

He fully expects his sister, who talked Peter Wilson into coming out, will join the immigrant procession herself.

He said: "It's being very selfish but the more teachers we get the better, and it's a tremendous financial saving for Canada as these people have all been trained in England."

Harold, who has been in Canada ten years, says; "My only fear is some people will think we're getting too many Limeys."

Bringing four new teachers into the district should almost have qualified Mr. Proctor for a grant from the education department which pays a professional to do this type of recruiting.

His immigrants have a teaching potential of six as both Mrs. David Proctor and Mrs. Wilson are teachers, but meantime more concerned with bringing up their own children.

He said 1967 had the lowest resignation rate ever for the school district. At 12 per cent it was well below the previous average of 15 to 20 per cent.

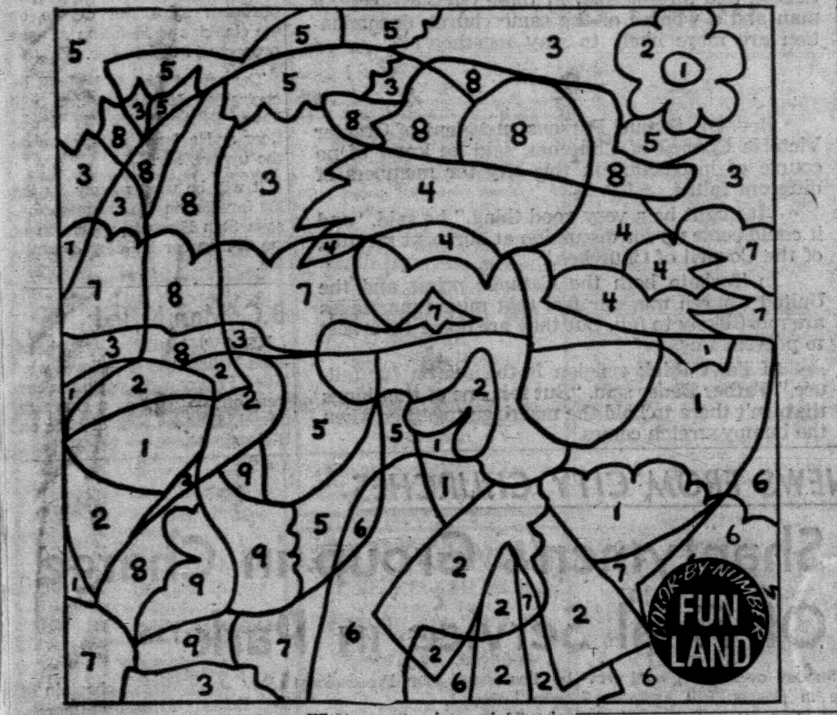
COLOR-BY-NUMBER FUN POSER



What surprise picture is hidden 'midst the jumbled lines above? It's fun to find out, and easy too. Simply apply colors to individual segments according to this color code: 1—Yellow. 2—red. 3—Blue. 4—Orange. 5—Green. 6—Purple. 7—Black. 8—Brown. 9—Flesh.

Wherever you come across unnumbered areas, you may color these white or leave them blank.

Apply colors neatly; keep them within indicated lines. If more than one person wants to take part, distribute colors and apply in turn.

BRAIN TEASER

Puzzlists call this a paradox. The single 10-letter word which is the solution to this poser is right before your eyes. All you have to do to get started is to put two and two together and end up with four. Don't let it take your measure, it's easy.

Allow me sir, to go as first,
and then as number two;
Then, after these, we find you are
To follow as is due.
But lest you never guess this queer
And hyperbolic fable,
Pray let there follow after that,
Whatever may be able

Solution: Measurable. Me-as-u-r-able. Stump you? Try it on your friends.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Use each word below to its best advantage in the sentences given. All five words are to be used, one in each sentence.

solo ramp deck landing ride

1. Passengers walked down the ——.
2. The plane came in for a ——.
3. The student was ready to ——.
4. It was a bumpy ——.
5. Crewmen stood on the flight ——.

Remember, all five words are to be used, each just once.

Solution: 1—ramp, 2—landing, 3—solo, 4—ride, 5—deck.

MINI-TEST

Answer: Ludwig van Beethoven.

LOOKING DOWN?

1. From the Eiffel Tower you'd look down on ——.
2. From the Empire State Building you'd look down on ——.
3. From Sugar Loaf Mountain the South American city you'd see would be ——.
4. The Hawaiian city below Diamond Head is ——
5. From the Statue of Freedom you'd see ——

TONGUE TWISTERS

Repeat these aloud rapidly several times:

KEEP UP WITH THE JONES FAMILY

The ages of the Jones family are "all in the family"—meaning a secret. See if you can discover the age of each member from the following:

The household consists of Grandma, Grandpa, Papa, Mama, Maud, Robert, Uncle Bill, Aunt Jane. Their combined ages of 300 years. The age of each is divisible by 5.

When they are arranged in two groups with Granma, Papa, Maud, and Uncle Bill in one group, and Grandpa, Mama, Robert and Aunt Jane in the other the total age of each group is the same.

When the two groups are rearragned so that all the women are in one and all the men in the other, the first group (women) totals one-eighth less than the other. The men add up to one-seventh more than the women. What is the age of each?

Answer: Grandma is 60; Grandpa, 65; Papa, 35; Maud, 10; Uncle Bill, 45; Mama, 30; Robert, 15; Aunt Jane, 40.

EXPRESS SWEET THOUGHTS

A candy dish contains 25 vanilla creams, 10 maple creams, and 10 raspberry creams. What is the least number of pieces one must take out of the bowl to be sure of having (a) two with same flavor? (b) two with different flavors?

Answer: (a) The first three could all be different. Any four must contain two with the same flavor. (b) The first 25 could all be vanilla, any 26 must contain two with different flavors.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Canada will issue a bi-colored 5c stamp on Sept. 28 to mark Toronto's centennial year as capital city of Ontario. It will be printed by the line-engraved process. The foreground, in green, shows a man and woman of 1867, looking, as if in a vision, at the city as it is today—this being colored in red. Printing will run to 23 million.

Toronto was built on the original site of villages once occupied by the Senecas and Missisaugas. From 1793 to 1834 it was known as York, after which it was incorporated as a city and renamed Toronto. With 2 million people it comprises 10 per cent of Canada's population.

Taking a glance at the new Scott's catalogue, the first thing that one notices is the extraordinary rise in the value of Britain's commemorative issues, starting with the Wembley sets. The high values of 1913-18, 1929, 1934 and 1955 also have doubled, or even trebled in price since last year's edition.

The same applies to the stamps of Norfolk Island, Pitcairn Island and Papau-New Guinea, which have been at last brought up to the level of English catalogue values.

Some weeks ago it was suggested in this column that collectors would do well to buy any of the items mentioned above on the basis of Scott's last year's valuations. If anyone was lucky enough to do so they may now congratulate themselves.

Dipping again into the new catalogue—Early Canada show a 10 per cent rise here and there, but most prices seem to have levelled off. However, the 10c black-brown of 1859 is now $250, and the laid paper 1c of 1868 is up to $350 (from $250). Those steady performers, the high values of the Jubilees, add $50 apiece except the $1, which is now $75 in the mint; while the used show corresponding jumps. The officials show little change; and, although mentioned, the "flying G" types are still unlisted, although they are priced separately in Gibbons. As to British Columbia, prices are static this year.

A couple of months ago Tristan da Cunha surcharged the 4½d stamp "4d" owing to a change in postal rates. It was very soon sold out, and a further supply was reprinted. Now these too have been exhausted, and no further supplies will be available.

Cleric Hits 'Silent Saints'

By DAVID DAVIDSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian churches of all denominations should co-ordinate their communications' programs in the spirit of the ecumenical movement, the general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada was told Friday.

Rt. Rev. G. P. Gower, Bishop of New Westminster, called for the unified program and criticized the Anglican church for its amateur approach to communications.

"Let us open up our doors so we can speak together with one voice," Bishop Gower told more than 250 delegates to the 10-day synod that began Tuesday.

He said also there are "so very few" trained communicators in the church and suggested conferences across the country where clergy could be trained in communications technique.

Archdeacon Alford Abraham of Sarnia, Ont., also supported unified church communications because getting the Christian message across "calls for co-operation."

However, the archdeacon said, there is "no substitute for individual witness in the church."

He said the church has not succeeded in telling its message because "we have produced a church of silent saints."

Rt. Rev. E. S. Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, made "a plea for honesty" as the synod, the church's highest legislative body, debated a resolution to streamline and expand its present communications program.

He said the proposed changes were not suggested to save money.

"Let's not fool ourselves," Bishop Reed said, "we will have to be prepared to raise our budgets."

PRIORITY CALL

Archdeacon T. J. Matthews of Lennoxville, Que., called on the synod to give priority to "modern avenues of proclaiming the Gospel in new forms of communications."

Rev. A. Gordon Baker, rector of Cronyn Memorial Church at London, Ont., and for nine years editor of the Anglican Churchman, said now is the time for "radical" approaches to communications.

"People today are asking more religious questions than ever before," he told the synod.

He called on the church to get with it because "God has been pushing ahead and communicating without us."

Dr. Baker said also there has been a "tremendous breakdown" in communicating with youth and "within the generations."

Stubborn Man Finally Concedes

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — Joe Comeau, 46, who lost a leg in the Second World War and had the other in a cast after a tree-climbing escapade, had a short but conclusive battle Thursday with his tractor-type lawn mower. He lost.

Comeau crashed 20 feet down a steep bank with the mower on top, blade spinning. He had cut only a small section of his back lawn after strapping himself to the machine.

Today, he was in fairly good condition in hospital, missing a large piece of his buttocks. He also had a mangled elbow, a broken finger, the tip off another, and several others lacerated.

"He is a very stubborn man," his wife said. "He just won't accept that there is anything he can't do.

"At least when he came out of the anesthetic he said he would sell the mower . . . and his motor scooter."

Can Love Survive Strain Without Unity of Faith?

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Church Editor

Marriages between men and women of different faiths are more likely to fail than marriages between members of the same faith.

That is a general opinion among Victoria clergymen, commenting on a report from Toronto on mixed marriages.

For six months, a Roman Catholic priest and a United Church minister have been working together on the problem of mixed marriages.

Rev. Clifford Elliott of Metropolitan United Church, Toronto, spends one night a week with Rev. Edward Bader instructing a class of about 70 Catholics and Protestants.

"This is a very fine effort," commented Rev. Albert King, minister of Victoria's Metropolitan United Church, "and it shows they appreciate the problems involved.

"Differences of opinion on religious faith matter little when two lovers are engaged in friendly discussion. But they matter a lot when there is tension and strain. And, in these circumstances, a man and a woman of the same church denomination are more likely to stay together."

●

Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, president of Greater Victoria Council of Churches, said he knew of no course of instruction in this city for members of different faiths.

"It might be a very good thing," he said, "and it could come up for discussion at our next meeting of the Council of Churches."

In Toronto both the Catholic priest and the United Church minister feel that mixed marriages are most likely to fail. But they are doing their best to prevent this.

"I don't think religion is the reason for failure," Father Bader said. "But it is one of the things that isn't there to hold the marriage together when the bumpy stretch comes."

Prairie Posting For Hall

Rev. Richard Frank Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, 355 Arnot Avenue, Victoria, was ordained at Canadian Memorial United Church, Vancouver, Sunday.

IN FORESTRY

Mr. Hall, a graduate of Union College Seminary, University of British Columbia, was educated at Burnside Elementary, Central Junior, Victoria High and Mount View secondary schools.

He spent 15 years in forestry department of the B.C. government and 2½ years with the Credit Union League in Vancouver before studying for the ministry.

Mr. Hall will take over the ministry of the United Church at Gravelbourg, Sask. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hall and their three children, Karen, Pamela and Michael.

Youngish Man Needed for Play

The Country Church Players, a two-year-old drama group, will begin rehearsals soon for its next play, White Sheep of the Family by Leonard du Garde Peach and Ian Hay.

"A youngish man is needed in the cast," says Mrs. T. G. S. Chambers, 3383 Aloha Avenue, (478-2770).

The Church of St. John the Baptist, Colwood, has sponsored this drama group by allowing the use of its parish hall for meetings and performances.

SOLOIST in First United Church Sunday at 11 a.m. is Victoria contralto Alice Waddell (above). Norma Valiant will sing at the 7 p.m. service and William McNeil will be guest organist for the day.

$50,000 Christian Centre

Langford's Gordon United Church will start a $50,000 Christian Education Centre on the church's Goldstream Avenue property in September.

The new centre, to be built by contractor Marvin Safher, will have 16 rooms on the lower floor and a large auditorium on the upper floor.

It will be used mainly by the 150 families in the congregation, says Stan Hiscock, chariman of the 20-member building committee.

B.C. Man Killed

KELOWNA (CP) — Richard Moss Williamson of Lillooet was killed Friday night when his car went off the road on a curve at Carmi, 35 miles east of here on Highway 44.

Rev. Robert Moses, visiting minister at Metropolitan, will speak on The Power That Will Not Fail.

CHRIST TOPIC FOR SERMON

"Christ Jesus" is the title of the lesson sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The responsive reading is from Isaiah and includes this verse: "And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord."

Rev. John Morris, chaplain of the British Embassy Church, Paris, France, will speak in Brentwood College Memorial Chapel, Sea Drive, Brentwood Bay, at 11 a.m. Sunday.

The celebrant will be Bishop Calvert who retires as Bishop of Calgary Aug. 31.

At Christ Church Cathedral, children and parents are asked to go to the cathedral hall at 10.40 a.m., either after attending the family eucharist or before the mid-morning service.

"The children will be taken straight to their new classes where they will have the chance to become acquainted with their teachers," says Rev. Roy Hoult, assistant minister.

Priest Won't Wed Divorcees

OTTAWA (CP)—An Anglican priest told his church's general synod Friday night he would refuse to re-marry divorced persons as provided by a new marriage canon approved earlier in the week and would resign rather than have another clergyman perform the ceremony in his parish.

"I'll never officiate at the marriage of a divorced person," said Archdeacon Alford Abraham of Sarnia as the synod considered an amendment to the new marriage canon that would permit clergy to refuse for conscience reasons to re-marry divorced persons in the church.

The amendment also would permit bishops to assign another clergyman to perform the marriage of a divorced person in the parish of a priest who has refused.

Archdeacon Abraham predicted such a procedure would result in the advent of "despicable Marrying Sams" in the Anglican Church.

"If I were a priest in such a situation by return mail a bishop would receive my resignation."

SUPPORTS AMENDMENT

Rt. Rev. E. S. Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, supported the amendment—it did not come to a vote but will be dealt with next week.

He said that parishes belong as much to parishioners as they do to a rector and that they should have the right to use the new canon, which not only deals with divorce but with the whole field of Christian marriage.

Another amendment to the canon approved Friday would put Anglicans serving abroad under their home bishop for purposes of the canon. Commissions will be set up in each diocese—there are 28 in Canada—to assess applications from divorced persons for remarriage in the church.

Earlier Friday, the synod approved a resolution to ask the government to set up a research board to determine the effect of television on Canadian society. Some delegates also called on the church to move ahead in its use of modern communications.

STUDY CO-OPERATION

A resolution along that line later passed the synod which also decided to study the possibility of co-operating with other denominations in publishing a joint newspaper.

Dr. R. F. Stackhouse, professor of the philosophy of religion and Christian ethics at the University of Toronto, said it was well to consider the positive aspects of television but there were negative considerations too.

U.S. Actor Paul Muni Dies at 71

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Paul Muni, who painstakingly studied the lives of men of accomplishment and played them to perfection, died Friday of a heart attack at his home in nearby Contecito.

He rose to stardom in the part of a tough gangster in Scarface, but gained acclaim in portraying the lives of great men, including his Oscar-winning role as scientist Louis Pasteur.

The Australian - born actor was 71.

Muni is survived by his wife, Bella, and two brothers.

Although he lost his left eye because of a tumor in 1955, Muni made a successful comeback. But he had been in poor health recently.

His practice was to submerge himself in a role, especially such biographical portrayals as the title role in The Story of Louis Pasteur, which won him an Academy Award in 1936.

By painstaking research—up to 20 hours a day—he sought to duplicate the personality, appearance and mannerisms of Pasteur, Emile Zola and Benito Juarez, whose lives he played.

His rise to stardom began in Scarface in 1928. He earned another Oscar nomination in The Good Earth, but his favorite role was in the relatively overlooked I am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang.

WHY ARE NEGROES SO ANGRY?

'Burn!' Says He, and They Did

By AUSTIN SCOTT

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, angry, volatile, and 23, drew himself up to his full, imposing six-feet-plus and showered his Cambridge, Md., audience with bitter words.

"If this town don't come around, this town should be burnt down," he shouted. Less than 24 hours later, four square blocks of the small city had been reduced to scorched rubble, and National Guardsmen patrolled the streets.

In Detroit, a middle-aged Negro housewife looked from her front porch past 12 fire-blackened chimneys where her neighbors' homes had stood. She wondered aloud how the Negro teen-agers gathering on what was left of 12th Street—youngsters the same age as her two daughters—could call the destruction "beautiful."

A Negro policeman in Brooklyn N.Y., glanced around a main intersection at the plywood-fronted stores that testified to night-time violence and recalled what had impressed him:

"I saw a lot of people who were angry that night," he said. "All under 14."

Why should these youngsters, born into an era of concern over civil rights unmatched in the last century, be angry?

"I wish I knew," the policeman said. "We try every way we know to reach them. We even bought them 25 mats so they could practice karate. But we don't reach them. They use us when they need us."

DEPICT NEW MOOD

Scenes like this, together with countless others less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young American Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread in July to cities across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of their friends and neighbors.

The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

But his name drew applause in July at a Black Power conference attended for the most part by moderates and militants who were both well educated and well-off financially.

"I hope you don't expect me to rap Rap," a pert Harlem girl of 18 told a reporter. "He's kinda crazy—but it's a feel-good crazy."

—AP Wirephoto

ARMED SOLDIER guards suspected rioters at height of Detroit violence in worst outbreak of burning and looting since the disorders in Watts, California, in 1965. Riots hit most major eastern U.S. cities this summer.

The mood extends into Negro colleges where administrators report black nationalist blocs, dormant since the 1920s, are growing.

SENTIMENTS VOICED

"Minorities of all hues and stations are tired waiting. Maybe your grandchildren will be able to say the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag without the feeling of revulsion I get . . . as I say 'with liberty and justice for all'," one schoolteacher wrote to her adult son.

"Without question there is a new breed of Negro American youth," said Negro sociologist Dr. Kenneth Clark.

Those who are "assertive, insistent, demanding, volatile," are a minority, he said, but a minority which "cannot be ignored and which may well determine the future of American race relations."

The effects of those who are "assertive, insistent, demanding, volatile" are already seen—and worried about—from California, where a group of young Negroes carrying guns marched into the state legislative chambers, a rebellion at Negro Howard University in Washington over administration guidelines on racial matters.

It took youth patrols in Boston, Dayton, and Tampa earlier this year to smother the fires of racial unrest fanned by other youths.

Mayor Frank Sedita of Buffalo acknowledged that no adults could speak for the angry youth of his city when he agreed in June to a two-hour grievance session with 200 Negro teen-agers in a YMCA auditorium.

AFRICAN MOD SPREADING

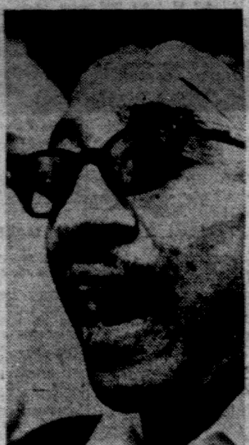
Young Negro women with their hair cropped in the "natural" unstraightened style associated with Africa can be seen all over Harlem any day. The style is slowly spreading to other Negro slums, along with African-derived styles of dress. African culture centres and Afro-American bookstores, long fixtures in Harlem, are springing up in places like Buffalo.

They report a thriving business in the works of the late nationalist leader Malcolm X, nationalist poet and playwright LeRoi Jones, Franz Fanon, an anti-colonial Algerian doctor, and the speeches of Stokely Carmichael, who preceded Rap Brown as head of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee.

"I don't think there's as much an attraction to black nationalism as a disenchantment with white middle-class values," said Whitney M. Young Jr., a Negro and executive director of the National Urban League.

"It's a rejection of the hypocrisy and inconsistency of the white society . . . as they perceive it—morally bankrupt, congenitally selfish and unable to give up privilege and advantage.

"There was a time, I think, when Negro youngsters and everybody else looked up with a certain amount of admiration to the accomplishments of white people. But I think the closer they have gotten to them the more they have begun to question their real value systems, their preoccupation with materialism."



BROWN
. . . fiery speech

The tendency to question fundamental American values is seen as important by Donald R. Hopkins, 30, a Negro, assistant dean of students at the University of California at Berkeley.

"They do not accept the glib assumption of the older civil rights leaders that the fate of Negro and white Americans is inextricably entwined and that the future of the Negro is the future of America," he has written.

APPLY TO LEADERS

Other authorities say that Hopkins' words apply not so much to the masses of Negro youth today as to the potential Negro leaders of tomorrow.

"There certainly is dissatisfaction with today's leaders," said William H. Booth, New York City's human rights commissioner and a former member of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"But I don't see any dangers to be frightened of . . . I don't see large numbers of people out to change the system."

Nonetheless, the emphasis is on those who speak loudest.

Ebony magazine, a Negro monthly, devoted its entire August issue to what it called "Negro Youth in America—Anxious, Angry and Aware."

Publisher John H. Johnson noted that of the estimated 25,000,000 Negroes in the United States, 11,000,000 are under 25.

"Negro youths are groping for new forms of relatedness with themselves and their leaders," he wrote. "The future of the American city, to a very great extent, depends on the responses older Americans—Negro and white—make to the emerging moods of this important group."

His words were underscored by a Negro youth from Wichita, Kan., who told city commissioners he did not believe in the violence that had touched his city, but would "rather die and go to hell" than remain in the conditions that plagued his neighborhood.

OLDER FOLK SCARED

"We are not afraid," he said. "Our adults were and are scared to death. They've been scratching their heads and shuffling their feet so long, whining and grinning, that the recent tension has frightened them as much as it has frightened you. Our so-called responsible Negro leaders had tried hard but have produced nothing."

At Newark's national conference on Black Power in July, 1,000 articulate, generally well-educated Negroes spent four days dissecting American society, with all whites, even reporters, excluded from the conference sessions.

An audience that included many professional, government and executive level Negroes cheered speeches that would have been considered extremist a decade ago, and were then heard only on Harlem street corners where the nationalists and other small, anti-white groups held forth.

"For anyone who had spent his childhood standing on the street corners of New York listening to the black nationalists scream their anger and pronounce their fatal judgment on America, it was strange to sit in the Military Park Hotel and see that their message has finally caught on. Like it or not, they speak for a legion now. . . . To assume that the 1,000 present spoke only for themselves would be as serious a mistake as could be made in these most serious times."

Teachers Will Demand Much Higher Salaries

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — B.C.'s school teachers are being advised to seek significant salary increases in September.

This is the recommendation of the B.C. Teachers' Federation agreements committee which concluded a five-day strategy planning session Friday.

It is being left to the 89 local associations across the province to decide actual demands for negotiations with school boards starting next month.

The teachers also are being advised to consider seeking supplementary sick leave benefits, shared-cost group life insurance and detached duty or educational leave provisions.

The agreements committee, which met behind closed doors during the BCTF's summer conference, stated in a release Friday that wage and salary increases for teachers in other provinces and for the work force in general justifies significant increases for teachers in B.C.

It said there is a special need and supportable case for higher increases for existing scales for teachers with a university degree and for those with masters degrees.

The meeting also was urged to support a government-sponsored lottery to produce funds for educational research.

Arthur Benzer of Trail and Cec Blois of Haney said B.C. should copy the New Zealand lottery system and use the proceeds to improve schools.

Edward Nelson, second vice-president of the federation, said teachers should get away from subject and child-centred education and think instead of a teacher-centred system.

"Teacher-centredness is the surest guarantee the child will be the ultimate beneficiary of all educational efforts," he said.

De Gaulle Holds Support of French

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle's conduct of foreign policy has the full backing of 56 per cent of Frenchmen, reports a public opinion poll published here today.

The poll, by the French Institute of Public Opinion, also reports 56 per cent are satisfied with de Gaulle as president but only 49 per cent want him to stay in office until his mandate expires in 1972.

The survey, published in the evening newspaper France Soir, indicates that the average voter was left relatively unmoved by two political controversies this summer—de Gaulle's Canadian visit and France's position in the Middle East war.

But it finds that the average Frenchman reacted strongly to the government's recent changes in the social security system, calling for cuts in benefits and increases in contributions.

Only 38 per cent approve the president's handling of social and economic policies, says the survey.

9 IN MEMORIAM

FOSSEY—In loving memory of a wonderful father, father-in-law and grandfather, Ronald Godfrey, who passed away August 26, 1965.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

—Always remembered by Ronna, Roddy, Dougie and Lorene.

FOSSEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ronald Godfrey, who passed away Aug. 26, 1965.

Beautiful memories woven in gold,
This is the picture we tenderly hold.
Deep in our hearts, your memory is kept,
To love and to cherish and never forget.

FULTON—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Agnes Maud Fulton, who passed away September 2, 1957.

Without a farewell spoken,
With no one to breathe a silent prayer,
A million times I've needed you,
A million times I've cried.
If love could have saved,
You'd have never died.
It broke my heart to lose you;
But you didn't go alone,
For part of me went with you
The day you calmly entered home.
What wouldn't I give to hear your golden voice. To see your tender face and clasp each other's hands once more.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband Jim, son Charles, daughters Irene, Dorothy, Phyllis, and grandchildren.

LINN—In loving memory of Joseph William Linn, who passed away August 27, 1965.

Our heart still aches with sadness,
And secret tears flow,
What it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know;
When we are sad and lonely,
And all things seem so wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper
Have faith, dear ones, carry on.

—Dearly loved and remembered by his wife, Dorie and sons, Andy and Bobby.

MOORE—Treasured memories of our Mother and Grandmother, Annie Maud.

Five years have passed since that sad day
When the one we loved was called away.
Safely the leaves of memory fall,
Gently we gather them all.
Loving her deeply, her memory we keep,
While she lies in peaceful sleep.

—Missed so deeply by Margaret, Fred and Ross.

TAYLOR—In loving memory of our dear Dad and Grandad, Harvey A. Taylor, who passed away August 27, 1966.

His memory is as dear today
As the hour he passed away.

—His loving family, Chuck and Iris de Macedo, Colin and Grace de Macedo, Hank and Sandra Hohlachoff.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you ever get into an argument with your partner and the argument progresses to the point where a bet is made you will do very well if you bet that your partner did something wrong. If you make a mistake and bet that you were right then you are likely to lose because on most argumentative occasions an impartial referee is likely to rule that both partners were wrong.

Of course, if you bet on degree of guilt the chances are that one partner is more guilty than the other.

West opened the queen of diamonds against the contract of five clubs doubled. East played the four. West continued the suit whereupon South ruffed, cashed his ace-king of trumps and ace of spades. Then he led a spade to dummy's king, ruffed a third spade, went back to dummy with the ten of clubs, discarded two hearts on the good spades and made his contract.

West felt that East should have won that first diamond and led back a heart. East pointed out that he had played his lowest diamond and that West should have shifted to a heart. We were asked to adjudicate and our verdict is that both partners went wrong but that East was far more guily.

East had bid brilliantly and succeeded in pushing South one beyond his depth. West had made a free bid of three diamonds and doubled five clubs and East should have known that diamonds would not go artu nodwice. Therefore he should have won the diamond and led a heart. On the other hand West also should have led a heart at trick two. He could be sure that his partner would hold eigher the ace or queen of hearts and that a heart shift could not be wrong.

BRAND NEW FULL BASEMENT

Have you driven out this way lately; if you haven't you're missing a treat. Lovely homes are under construction in all of this area. And we're starting 3 of the best on Acland Road. You'll see our sign "AUGUST CONSTRUCTION."
Drive along Acland Road you'll see our sign on another which is in the framing stage. (We can finish this one in 45 days.)
If you're interested we can make arrangements to show you through the one next door, which is sold by the way.
Your down payment might just be enough. Sometimes people sub-contract back some of the work earning hundreds of dollars.
If you are short on your down payment why not look into this? We'll even consider trades. Give us a call.

60 Entrants In Centennial Yacht Race

Entries are now coming in for the Centennial Yacht Race to be sailed off the Victoria waterfront Sunday, Sept. 10. At least 60en trants will participate and further entries will be accepted until Sept. 3.

Out-of-town yachts have also shown interest in this event and the first entry listed from Vancouver is M. L. A. Hunter Vogel's Hunter class 30 Lollipop.

The race, which was launched last year to celebrate the B.C. Centenary, is sponsored by Greater Victoria Centennial Society. The race committee is representative of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and the Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association under the chairmanship of James McVie.

Five classes will start with the big boats leading off at 11 a.m. Centennial Yacht Race trophies will be presented to class winners.

The S.s. Beaver will be anchored off Clover Point as the control vessel and the course will see the yachts sail from the start line to Albert Head to Scrogg Rocks at the entrance to Esquimalt Harbor and back to Clover Point. It is expected the leaders will be finishing mid-afternoon although race progress will be seen from the entire Beacon Hill waterfront.

Two Men Hurt In Car Crash On Queensway

Two men were taken to hospital and a third escaped uninjured when a car went out of control and crashed in the 2600-block Queensway about midnight.

A passenger, Lloyd Dewolfe, 24, of 1018 Balmoral, was released after being treated for an injured shoulder, while Russell Tschritter, 23, of 946 Ellery, was uninjured.

Saanich police estimated damage at $800.

Victorian Wins Twice at PNE

Clifford Coe, 942 Linkleas Avenue, was a two-time winner, taking the PNE Cup as well as first place in the carving and whittling division.

B. G. Carter, 1813 Chestnut Street, tied for first place in the carving and whittling division with Mr. Coe.

A Sidney man, Vincent Field of 2313 Oakville Avenue, was awarded first place in marquetry.

OLDEST DRIVE-IN restaurant in the area will soon disappear and this space-age dome will take its place. The 36-foot diameter steel dome, soon to be covered with a steel skin by Yarrows will be the hub of the new Brite-Spot drive-in at Quadra and Union. Glen Searle who has operated the 30-year-old drive-in for the past 10 years says the old restaurant will be demolished and adjoining property cleared to provide parking for 40 cars. The parking area plus construction of the dome represents an expenditure of $25,000

Four in One Family Jailed In Rupert Riot Aftermath

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Four members of the same family, arrested following a street riot July 22, were sentenced Friday to up to five months.

Thomas Daniels, 29, was sentenced to five months for assaulting a police officer and fined $1,000 or four months, consecutive, if in default, for obstructing a peace officer.

His brother, Gary, was sentenced to three months and was fined $1,000, or three months if in default, on the same charges.

Their sister, Kay Frances Daniels, 24, and mother, Emily Francis, 45, each received three months for obstructing a police officer.

Their father, Joseph Daniels, whose arrest sparked the hour and a half of rock and beer-bottle throwing, will appear in court next week on an intoxication charge.

NEW YORK—Up the Down Staircase has grossed more in a single week at a single theatre than any other motion picture, Warner Bros.-Seven Arts said Thursday.

The previous record, also at Radio City was $243,535, set the last week of December, 1964, by Father Goose. The picture starred Cary Grant.

MONTREAL—The Shah of Iran's program today called for visits to pavilions of Communist and major Western countries in the second day of his Expo 67 tour.

The Shah began his tour Friday with a visit to the Iranian pavilion on St. Helen's Island, watched by a cheering crowd of several thousands, including some of the monarch's former subjects, now living in the U.S. and Canada.

He was accompanied by Pierre Dupuy, the fair's commissioner-general, as he arrived at his own pavilion, which was described as a "miniature Iran," and during the ensuing tour of the Canadian, United Nations and French pavilions.

Alderman Supports Request by 3C's

The Three Cees Association would disband tomorrow if its members could be assured of an open and impartial hearing of grievances against the Corps of Commissionaires, Ald. Geoff. Edgelow was told Friday.

The letter he accepted from association secretary Donald R. Sykes said the group would disband and "withdraw its subsidiary men from existing contracts" if the entire corps' board would grant the hearing with proper rights of defence to members with grievances.

Ald. Edgelow, a member of the board, said a meeting of the board has been called for Tuesday and that he would present the Three Cees' request for a hearing and also ask for consideration of re-instatement of four men recently dismissed from the corps.

The Three Cees Association was formed by commissionaires as a social club originally. Later the group became concerned over alleged grievances, and honorary commandant A. C. Wurtele claimed that the association was setting up in competition to the corps and dismissed four commissionaires who were members of the Three Cees.

Split Hinted With Military By McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary McNamara, defending the U.S. administration's selective bombing tactics against North Vietnam, said Friday he still is convinced the war must be won by ground troops in South Vietnam.

The final decision in this conflict will not come until we and out allies prove to North Vietnam she cannot win in the South," he said.

There is little reason to believe that anything short of sustained and systematic pounding of the population centres would force the North Vietnamese into submission, McNamara said, adding that no one has suggested such drastic measures.

SUPPLEMENT

"The bombing of North Vietnam has always been considered a supplement to and not a substitution for an effective counter-insurgency campaign in South Vietnam."

He contended that in the light of its limited objectives the bombing campaign has been successful, even though it has not halted completely the flow of Communist supplies and reinforcements from North Vietnam into South Vietnam.

His argument at a closed session of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, which marked no change in his previous position, failed to persuade subcomittee members who want the bombing tempo stepped up.

SOMEONE WRONG

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem. Mo.) said that if McNamara is right then his top military leaders are wrong. The military chiefs have told the Senate group that recent increased bombing is hurting North Vietnam.

"If the position as presented by the secretary this morning is right, I believe the United States should get out of Vietnam at the earliest possible time, and on the best possible basis," Symington said, "because with his premises, there would appear no chance of a true 'success.' "

McNamara took issue with Symington's statement that the defence secretary is at odds with the military chiefs.

Did Irish Do It First?

TRALEE, Ireland (UPI) — Two Canadians set out today on a 5,000-mile voyage across the Atlantic in a 22-foot leather boat to prove the Irish discovered America 1,000 years before Columbus.

The Canadians believe ancient Celts, and the sixth century navigator St. Brendan in particular, made the Atlantic crossing in their skin boats hundreds of years before Columbus discovered America in 1492.

Navigating by the stars, they hope to follow the route taken by the early navigators which will take them via Iceland, Greenland and the Baffin Islands and should land them somewhere between Boston and Rhode Island.

They expect the voyage to last anything between two and five months. "It depends on how many times we get lost," Lloyd said.

But as the little canoe was pulled out to sea, local fishermen shook their heads and said odds were against success-

HELPS HER TO COMMUNICATE

Special Device for Child

When school begins in September, Valerie, a nine-year-old cerebral palsy patient, will have a special typewriter to teach her how to communicate.

The typewriter, devised by electronic experts, may be the answer to teaching her to put words together and, eventually, sentences.

Valerie is a patient at the Handicapped Children's Clinic in Victoria. She has decreased hearing and since entering the clinic in 1960 has received intensive treatment in all areas.

Last school term, teachers fitted an electric typewriter with a shield in an attempt to teach her.

It didn't work because she could not control her arms and fingers well enough to use the device.

When experts heard of Valerie's plight, they devised a special typewriter from two old pieces of equipment.

They have been linked together so that when Valerie punches a key on the board, the letter or figure appears on the teletype. It is through this medium that teachers feel Valerie can be taught to communicate.

Rockwell's Body Unclaimed

(See also page 3)

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A former Nazi firebrand accused of slaying George Lincoln Rockwell was held under heavy police guard today while Rockwell's body lay unclaimed in hospital.

An autopsy showed Rockwell, 49, founder and leader of the American Nazi party, was killed by a bullet wound in the chest.

Five hours after the shooting in the parking lot of a small shopping centre, police filed a murder charge against John C. Patler, 29, formerly No. 4 in the small party's hierarchy.

Officials said Patler, who is being held on $50,000 bond, has received no visitors.

Meanwhile, Rockwell's heir apparent vowed "we will carry on."

Matthias Koehl, second in command to Rockwell, told reporters: "I don't know, of anyone who can fill his shoes . . . but we'll all do everything we can to carry on."

Koehl said Patler was expelled from the party last April because of his "Bolshevik leanings." He had been a member of the group which directs its hate toward Negroes and Jews, almost since its founding in 1958.

EDITED MAGAZINE

Rockwell once described Patler as the party's propaganda minister and Patler edited the organization's magazine Stormtrooper until early this year.

Patler, also of Arlington, was to appear in court Monday to determine the date of his preliminary hearing.

Rockwell was shot after leaving a coin-operated laundry in the shopping centre, one block from party headquarters. The shots, fired from a low roof over a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half mile from the scene. Police would not say whether a weapon had been found or whether he had made a statement.

'Free Quebec' Gang Attacks Canada Train

Egg Toss Angers Marchand

MONTREAL (CP) — About 20 self-styled separatists, tossing eggs and leaflets and shouting separatist slogans, today broke up a ceremony marking the arrival of the Confederation train at suburban Dorval.

It was the first time since the train started out from Western Canada in the winter that there has been a direct attack on it.

The youths began throwing leaflets calling for a "free Quebec" just as Manpower Minister Marchand began speaking. Minutes after three eggs crashed to the platform.

One youth was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace. He ran in front of the platform and tossed leaflets high into the air before being hustled off by police.

On the platform with Mr. Marchand were Bobby Gimby, composer of the song Ca-na-da, and a group of children.

In another incident, a young woman dressed in a green dress grabbed about 50 pamphlets describing the history and the purpose of the train, tore them up and threw the pieces into the crowd of several hundred people.

SLOGANS SUNG

During the singing of O Canada the youths, gathered to one side of the platform, sang out their own slogans. One slogan clearly heard was: "Les Quebecois marchent a sa victoire"—The people of Quebec are marching to victory.

The disturbance began as the group of dignitaries assembled on the platform shortly after 11 a.m.

The leaflets were scattered as Mr. Marchand finished congratulating the city of Dorval on its 300th anniversary. He reacted with angry outbursts, each of them greeted by cheers from the group of youths.

After the manpower minister declared the 15-unit train open to the public, Mr. Gimby and the children stepped to the main area of the stage and began singing the famous song.

Most Powerful Rocket Poised

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Saturn V, the most powerful rocket ever built, moved today toward its launching pad on the back on a diesel-powered transporter that resembled a giant mechanical turtle.

The rocket is scheduled for an October test launching, the first of a series that will qualify it to boost U.S. astronauts towards the moon in two or three years.

Towering 364-feet above the huge transport the Saturn and its Apollo spacecraft were an impressive sight. More than 200 space officials and reporters gathered to see it moved from the huge assembly building. Also perched upright on the transporter was a 380-foot mobile launching tower to service the rocket.

When the rocket leaves the ground, it will generate 7,500,000 pounds of thrust from five first-stage engines. This is nearly five times greater than the thrust of any previous U.S. booster and is believed to be at least twice the thrust of anything fired by the Russians.

More Unrest In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (CP)—Police fired tear gas to disperse some 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators in central Hong Kong today as political unrest continued in the British colony.

The demonstrators, chanting left-wing slogans, blocked off busy streets at lunch hour close to the heart of the city.

IDAHO FIRES APPROACHING 'DISASTER'

Fires continued to rage out of control in the U.S. Pacific Northwest's timberlands today in what Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson said may develop into one of the area's worst forest fire disasters in more than 50 years.

Samuelson, who summoned legislative leaders to an emergency meeting in Boise today, said tinder-dry forest conditions were similar to those of 1910 "when north Idaho was practically burned up."

The governor estimated it was costing Idaho $150,000 per day to put out the fires, "and the outlook seems to grow more gloomy every day."

Dief Youth Primed For Convention Bid

By The Canadian Press

With less than 10 days to go, things seem to be warming up for the Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention.

While the nine declared candidates were on the road, youthful supporters of undeclared John Diefenbaker served notice that they plan a demonstration for the party leader.

And, if they are not permitted to make it on the convention floor, as provided in the convention rules, "we'll ring the Maple Leaf Gardens," said Keith Martin, co-chairman of the Youth for Diefenbaker committee.

"We are determined to have some kind of demonstration whether Mr. Diefenbaker runs or not."

But he and colleague Bill Hatton said they'll keep their precise plans for a demonstration secret.

Meanwhile, the leadership candidates were scattered in every region of the country.

They'll be moving into Toronto toward the end of next week to campaign among delegates attending policy session Sept. 4-6 and the leadership contest Sept. 7-9.

Gene Rheaume, convention executive secretary, announced that the 2,343 voting delegates may be swelled to 2,450 with the addition of some participants in the recent Montmorency Falls, Que., policy advisory conference held by the party as a convention prelude.

Among the candidates, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba did some heavy road work in eastern Ontario, appearing at a press conference in Ottawa then hitting Cornwall, Smiths Falls and Kingston in search of delegate support.

At each point, Mr. Roblin stressed the need for national unity, a system of spending priorities to curb runaway taxation, and a shift to helping those in real need rather than helping everyone through universal welfare programs.

Mr. Fulton said that if he leads his party back to power he'll try to modify but not abolish the medical care insurance plan scheduled to come into effect July 1, 1968.

He maintained creative Canadians are restrained by policies of the Liberal government.

ANDREAS PAPANDREOU

Former Greek Minister Faces Trial

ATHENS (Reuters) — Andreas Papandreou, a former government minister, tonight was committed for trial on charges of high treason by an Athens court, it was reliably learned.

Andreas, son of George Papandreou, leader of the Union of the Centre party and a former premier, was accused of being involved in the "Aspida"—the Shield—plot.

He was first accused and jailed April 26, a few days after the military takeover in Greece.

The indictment, issued after months of investigation, also charged 10 other civilians in connection with the Aspida case.

Aspida was the name given to a group which included 15 army officers jailed from two to 18 years last March for plotting to overthrow the regime and establish a non-aligned police for the country.

Policemen Slain

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Two young police officers died in a gun battle early today after they answered a call reporting a man was beating his wife.

23 Africans Slain In Rhodesia Battle

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Rhodesian security forces have killed 23 African terrorists and captured 26 more in three days of fierce fighting north of Bulawayo, Rhodesia's second largest city, the government announced today.

The communique, first official word on renewed outbreak of terrorist fighting, said Rhodesian forces suffered six killed and 12 wounded in the action.

The communique disclosed jet planes had been used against the terrorists, members of banned nationalist organizations which have vowed to overthrow the regime of Premier Ian Smith of Rhodesia and other white-ruled governments in Africa.

The government statement gave no indication of the size of the terrorist forces. Reports reaching Salisbury said it numbered more than 100.

'BE COOL, CALM AND GRACEFUL'

Hippies Bow to Park Ban

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

The Victoria Youth Council has urged young people to stay away from Beacon Hill Park Sunday following a 5-2 decision by city council banning a proposed love-in.

At a special meeting Friday, the council supported the stand taken earlier by acting-mayor Robert Baird and rejected a youth council request to hold the event.

The love-in was to have been the climax of youth week—seven days of forums, meetings, paint-ins, clean-ins and discussion planned to increase dialogue within the community.

A youth council statement published Friday night counselled youngsters to stay away from the park on Sunday.

"No, Virginia, there isn't a love-in Sunday," the statement said. "But be cool and calm and graceful.

"Let's not be guilty of the same intolerance our aldermen demonstrated today.

"If we show up in dozens or in hundreds we'll only antagonize people."

Ald. Stewart said the question was one of "fair play."

"I am not a hippy, nor do I subscribe to their way of life. But this matter is more involved than that."

"We are discussing what council's decision should be when any duly constituted group makes a request.

"If we are going to reject their application because of bias and prejudice, then we have gone a long way back to the dark ages.

Ald. Stewart, who attached several conditions to his motion to approve the request, said he was confident the young people would not only observe all the laws, but would not spoil other events in the park.

Ald. Wilson made a brief statement supporting the request.

"The park, as all parks in the city, should be available

Only One Week Remains To Enter Photo Contest

This contest has seven days.

Amateur photographers have only one week left in which to enter The Times snapshot contest to compete for travel and cash prizes.

Sixth of the seven weekly contests closed at noon today and the final week ends Sept. 2.

Winners of $10 prizes in the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animals of the World, and the World in Which We Live, will be named early next week.

At the end of the seventh week, judges will take the seven weekly winners in each category and select three who will be awarded $25 prizes and also chances at the big prizes.

First prize is a trip around the world for two for 30 days with $1,000 in spending money.

Other travel prizes include trips for two, with spending money, to Europe, Mexico, Hawaii and the West Indies.

In addition there are seven $100 prizes for Canadians who aren't lucky enough to win travel prizes and there's a special $200 prize for the best Canadian print submitted.

Only black and white prints by amateurs are acceptable. Prints should be no more than 10 inches long on the largest dimension.

Hate Peddling Rockwell's Pathetic Product

Hank Burchard spent six months with George Lincoln Rockwell several years ago after he "infilitrated" Rockwell's party for a college term paper on the sociology of deviant behavior.

WASHINGTON —"He can be such a hell of a nice guy, you find yourself forgetting what he's trying to do."

That quote comes from an FBI agent who used to keep track of George Lincoln Rockwell's movements.

To a person who knew Rockwell closely for six years, he was not far wrong.

You could easily call him hatemonger; rabble rouser, America's most notorious anti-semite and racist. He was boastful, shrill, nasty, often unwashed and unkempt. In many ways, he was pitiful.

But, when he wanted to be, he was intelligent, witty, charming, sensitive, kind and generous. He was this way when he found the time to talk about something besides what he called the "international Jewish-Communist conspiracy to mongrelize the white race by using the U.S. supreme court to force miscegenizing (sic) of good white Christians with . . . blacks."

What this "Half Penny Hitler," as former Mayor Wagner of New York put it, said he was trying to do was to take over the world, "gas all the Jews our beloved Hitler missed and all the (Negroes) and mongrels too . . ."

What he really did, after he had spent a few years learning his way around the hatemongering business, was to get himself a gimmick and ride it from coast to coast and around the world to a stupid little death in a battered Chevrolet sedan in a shopping centre parking lot.

TAWDRY SUCCESS

His Nazi "movement" —there were seldom as many as a score of members — was the only thing George Lincoln Rockwell ever made a success at, tawdry as it was. He kept it going for ten full years, far longer than it took his careers as a naval officer; advertising artist and magazine publisher to go sour.

Rockwell had all the talents and abilities of a man who should have gone far. But he was missing that thing necessary to make it all hang together and it drove him nuts.

When he first set up shop in Arlington, Va., in 1957 Rockwell knew only that he was tired of his apprenticeship and that it was time for him to show "the jerks and nuts and cretins" who taught him the hate business how it really ought to be done.

Rockwell cranked up an offset press in the basement of a bungalow and began to turn out garish but well-executed leaflets and pamphlets.

While he was experimenting; Rockwell later told this reporter, "I thought over the things I learned in San Diego during the Korean War (A Navy pilot in World War II, Rockwell was recalled to active duty in 1951).

"She (a woman he knew there) was such a nutty broad I can't even remember her name. But she did get me started, and when I finally learned the truth about Hitler and what he was trying to do, I wanted to kill myself for having sunk those two German submarines in 1944."

Rockwell told this tale to anyone who would listen, but anyone who listened long enough was likely to detect a hollow ring. It sounded like a recording.

Once he had settled on the brand name of American Nazi Party he was looking for, Rockwell built his image. He hung up a large swastika on the living room wall, trained a red sunlamp on it and opened the door. "You use what brings them in," he said.

Almost simultaneously, Rockwell went public. Before long, Arlington authorities were trying to put him in jail for creating a public nuisance (the crowds) and crumpled dollar bills were pouring in—usually addressed in a penciled scrawl, "Rockwell - Arlington."

He had his own full-time FBI squad, fame, and the fear and outrage of Jews all over the world.

Rockwell found he had to stress race bias to catch the rising tide that followed the school decision of 1954, but his first hate was always the Jews.

"All my life I would try hard for something and it would go along pretty well," he once said. "But just when I thought I had it made it would all fall apart. It took me a long time to understand I was on the Jew list. They were playing with me like a cat with a mouse."

The Jew list, he explained, was a system by which the international conspiracy singled out talented Aryans and marked them for debasement and eventual death.

But the thing that brought in money and speaking invitations and party members was the Negro, so Rockwell came down hard on such tired old themes as "send them back to Africa," and produced reams of that kind of material.

Rockwell's marketing methods were sometimes effective. He sent a lieutenant dressed in a gorilla costume to the famous 1963 March on Washington for civil rights; when "Freedom buses" came north from the south, he sent a Volkswagen "hate bus" into the Black Belt.

All of these things led to publicity and publicity led to a semblance of power and enough money to keep things going — but not enough to pay for a decent place to live; or a presentable car to drive.

Or to buy a Washington machine.

'END TO BE WRITTEN'

Violence, Failure Marks of Accused

WASHINGTON—John Patler, the man accused of assassinating George Lincoln Rockwell, was introduced to violence at the age of five.

In 1943, Patler's father shot and killed his wife in what Patler described as "a crime of passion; one of those freak episodes in life when a man permits his emotions to blind his rational thought."

His account of his boyhood centres on fights with Negroes and Puerto Ricans in Harlem; poor marks in school; tenement life; unhappiness when he and his younger brother, George, finally went to live with their father after he was released from Sing Sing prison.

From those early fights in the subways of New York, Patler said he "learned early that the only way you stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

HATED JEWS

Patler, thin and only five-foot-seven, with brown hair and brown eyes, discovered as an adolescent that he had a talent for drawing and editing. He invented a cartoon while in junior high school in which the villain was named "Redrum" —murder spelled backwards.

He is still cartooning, only his characters now are more likely to be dehumanized Negroes, and found in the pages of the Stormtrooper, under the title, Hatelets.

When disagreement with the father took a nasty turn, Patler and his brother were taken to domestic relations court, and then detained in the New York Youth House, "the same place Lee Harvey Oswald did a stretch when he was a teen-ager," Patler wrote.

EXPERT MARKSMAN

He gravitated into the Nationalist Youth League (NYL), a nascent Nazi youth group, and in 1957, met Rockwell at a NYL function.

In 1958, Patler entered the Marine Corps and earned an expert rifleman's badge.

In the fall of 1958, Patler joined the Nazi party. "At this time," he recalled, "the commander (Rockwell) was practically all alone in his struggle." During a brief stopover at Rockwell's Arlington headquarters, Patler was so affected by the near-destitution of the party that he divided his furlough money, giving half to Rockwell for the party.

In 1960, Patler married a 19-year-old and was discharged from the marines in the wake of a party rally at which he was arrested.

The discharge was ordered, according to Patler, because "enormous pressure was exerted by the Jew war veterans and I once again found myself in the middle of a battle on account of my political beliefs."

BROKE WITH ROCKWELL

His participation in party rallies and demonstrations turned into a string of arrests for disturbing the peace.

His return to the fold later that year caused upheavals within the Arlington group, but Patler stayed on.

Early this year, he broke with Rockwell again—for the last time, as it turned out. According to a girl who knows Patler quite well, "he never wavered in his belief in the party, but he and other top aides were dissatisfied with the lack of definite goals and the way Rockwell spent money."

In a footnote to Patler's autobiography in the Stormtrooper, George Lincoln Rockwell early this year wrote to his readers: "I would like you to keep in mind that this is an unfinished story. The end has yet to be written . . ."

Were I required to list man's periods of absolute concentration, I would rank the playing of a salmon on light tackle with the near-vertical aspects of mountaineering. Both, to be properly accomplished, demand finesse, and produce an aftermath of euphoria tinged very slightly with rue.

It has been my luck to take a reasonable number of salmon, both the nimble coho and the powerful chinook or spring, on gear which was light for the labor in hand. The last of these, a coho that shone silver in the air, charged a spinning lure cast from a rock point a week or two ago.

I don't remember the first—too long past and too many fine fish between. But there was one spring salmon, hooked by a freak of fortune and beached by a miracle, that I will not forget.

But down in its estuary, a sunken fly would sometimes tempt a strike from sea-run cutthroat, grilse, or lemon-and-red spotted Dolly Varden.

I went down early and alone one morning. The Gulf was flat calm, the sun just risen over the fantastic tangle of Coast Range peaks. The river wandered across the tide flats, and far out from its mouth, a coho vaulted clear.

The sun climbed and the morning turned hot. Somewhere about 10 o'clock, I tired of profitless casting and trudged over sand and cobble stones to ford a run where brown seaweed streamed in the current.

The long, empty beach shimmered in the heat. I tramped it, reconciled to a fishless day, and enjoying the perfect loneliness.

It was no day for hurry. Arrived at the sand patch in line with the kelp bed, I settled down for a contemplative study of the trout flies ranged on clips in their aluminum case.

I had about decided on a Peter Ross on a size-eight hook, a confection of red, black and silver with boldly-barred teal wing, when out by the kelp bed, something splashed.

It was not the sound of a leaping fish, but an abrupt chop. By the size of the ripples that spread from a spot close in to the kelp, whatever had smacked the surface carried a fair amount of weight.

Coho, I thought, or a very large sea-run cutty. Then herring minnows sheeted through the surface, and where they had been, was a swirl of noble proportions.

The tide had been edging steadily in behind its edge of tawny foam. I took to the shallow, trying not to splash, and waded until another step would fetch the water over my hip-boot tops. The hotspot was still 20 feet or so beyond my longest cast.

In a situation of that sort, there are no two ways for an angler. I took the extra step, flinching at the inrush of cold water, and shuffled on out. At waist depth, I could just reach the area where the spring salmon harried his prey.

I had tied on a big Silver Doctor. It splatted awkwardly on the backcast, but went out well. Heavy hook and tinsel body sank it . . . I began to swim it back in erratic twitches, and before it had darted more than a couple of yards, the spring nailed it in a lazy swirl.

He could have broken me at once in the kelp, but he veered away, and a rough half hour or so later, rolled on his side in the shallows. I gave the gear all it would take, skidded him in till he stranded, then dropped the rod and fell on him.

Eighteen pounds, so help me Father Walton, won at the cost of a numb wrist and a stab of sorrow for wild beauty slain.

Only Money Glitters In Dull Life on Rig

By AB KENT
Times Business Editor

When Joe Ferguson gave up nine years of policework in June to enter an untried field, he turned his back on a comfortable $580 a month.

Now he wears coveralls and a hard hat, makes nearly double his policeman's salary, and gets two weeks off every month.

"It was a hard decision to make to leave Saanich police, but now I'm glad I did," Ferguson said Friday.

For the last three months he has been a watch stander aboard SEDCO 135F, the off-shore oil rig boring for Shell Canada into the continental shelf 12 miles directly off Tofino.

'Not Half Bad'

And to Joe, life on an oil rig is not half bad. "I like it very much," he said as he helped show a group of reporters around the vessel.

His duties are related to the work he was trained for before turning to policework, at first for city police. He was in the navy and learned pipefitting, and watch standing involves meters, valves and switches.

Working in the rig's control room, Ferguson is repsonsible for the vessel's trim, or how it floats in the sea.

Watch standers work under the direction of the barge engineer, like the chief engineer on board a ship. They take weather observations for relay to Tofino airport and handle radio communications between the rig, supporting vessels, aircraft and airport.

They also keep tabs on the vessel's deck load, its tons of steel drill stem and shaft casing, the hundreds of sacks of caustic soda, gels and thinners mixed in the drilling mud, and the level of fresh water and fuel oil both on deck and in ballast 70 feet beneath the waves.

'Too Unvarying'

Not all the rig's crew are as enthusiastic about their novel way of life, turnover is frequent. Some find the 12-hour shifts (eight hours plus four at time-and-a-half) to long and the routine to unvarying.

There they sit, 100 feet above the sea, in sun and fog, day in and day out. In the fog, which has wrapped the rig most of the summer, life can be depressing to workers used to being ashore.

The Japan current brings it, and even when it is sunny aloft, the fog swirls below and must be blown away to let the sunshine through.

When it does shine, it is glorious, like being on a cruise ship. The meals, too, are like holiday feasts. Beef roast and steaks are choice, the mushrooms profuse.

"We eat well," Ferguson said in notable understatement. For instance, Friday lunch offered tomato soup, fish and chips, cold cuts of beef and other meats, choices of salad, blueberry pie, ice cream, pudding milk, coffee, apples and oranges.

"But by the time we get through work and our personal chores like washing our clothes, shaving and so on, there is not much time for anything else but sleep," Ferguson said.

'Time Is Heavy'

Ferguson reads when he can, but like most of the others he shuns the TV room, where three or four channels can be picked up. The crew prefers to fish overside, visit between cabins and sleep. Some play cards.

Peter Grady, 19-year-old Tofino student working on board for the summer, also likes his job. As a maintenance roustabout he gets about $750 a month.

But roustabout Roy Silvers, 23, of Victoria, can hardly wait to get back to University of Calgary where he is taking mechanical engineering. "Time is heavy here," he said.

There are welders, mechanics, electricians and crane operators — each earning up to about $950 a month — and drillers who are paid about $1,000 per month.

They all work shifts, 10 days on, seven days off.

His superior is the Victoria manager of Southeastern Commonwealth Drilling Co. Ltd., Wallace Pounds, who holds a certificate as "master" of the barge. The rig also is registered as a landing field because of its helicopter deck.

Canadian Crew

Steinocher has been a driller for 12 years, never on dry land. He has worked mostly in the Gulf of Mexico and on inland barges, a sinewy man built like a jockey but with arms of a roughneck. He drawls softly, but his word carries weight.

His boots would look more at home on the range, but where he comes from oil and cattle country is the same.

Barge engineer Frank Williford, 27, is a Texas A and M graduate in electrical and structural engineering, has worked in Louisiana, Venezuela, Brazil and Surinam for Sun Oil, Southeastern and foreign governments.

"This is by far the best country I've worked in yet," he said of the B.C. coast.

While he's on the rig his wife Candace works as a secretary in Victoria. The arrangement works well since they have no family. When he returns:

"We don't crowd everything into a weekend like other people. We have a whole week to see the country and we can relax."

All the 50-men crew, save for one American mechanic, is Canadian, and three quarters of the supervisory staff is American. More management will be turned over to Canadians as they become experienced.

Bush Fire Put Out

About 20 people phoned in the alarm shortly after 9 p.m.

BOATS AVOID DRILLING RIG

Tourists have not yet discovered SEDCO 135F, the oil drilling vessel working for Shell Canada off Long Beach.

Even fishing boats plying the coast keep clear of the vessel's nine anchor buoys. Freighters have passed no closer than a mile or so.

There was a spooky sort of encounter in the fog recently when a ship neared in passage from the south, its fog horn booming.

Gulf Joan, the standby deep-sea tug moored to one of the anchor buoys, had the ship on its radar screen and answered its bleatings at intervals until it had safely passed.

15-Hour Marathon Ends McRae Hearing

Submission of evidence into the value of the 132-acre McRae estate was completed Friday at midnight.

After a final 15-hour session in Victoria Law Courts, chairman Richard Anderson of Vancouver said the three-man board will come to a decision "as soon as possible."

The McRae estate, which includes Cedar Hill golf course in its environs, was expropriated by Saanich council last April.

Saanich offered about $750,000 for the land. But the McRaes have placed its value at more than $3,000,000.

Robert Price, counsel for the McRaes, said in his argument Thursday that the large estate has been greatly undervalued by Saanich appraisers.

Price said that the McRaes must be compensated for the potential profits they would lose by being forced to give up the well-situated land.

"The owner, acting as a developer, contemplates that he will develop the property," he said.

Louis Lindholm, appearing for Saanich cited numerous previous court decisions in an involved 10-hour argument.

Rejecting Mr. Price's statement that the owners should receive part of the potential profits to be made from the land Mr. Lindholm argued that "the uncontradicted opinion of the Supreme Court over 50 years is that present market value must govern in these matters."

ONLY TWO MEET STANDARDS

Major Outfall Work Looms for District

The amount of sewage treatment required under proposed new anti-pollution laws will depend on each individual area.

"It means each situation has to be judged on its own," Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said this morning.

PCB TO SET LEVEL

A letter going to every municipal council in B.C. says the Pollution Control Board will be authorized to set "the level of sewerage treatment to be required" of municipalities and a time table spelled out for the work to be done.

Mr. Brown said the degree of sewage treatment to be related to:

- Alternative uses of the water;
- The amount of sewage the water can safely receive and the ability of the water to "regenerate" itself.

Asked if southern Vancouver Island will have to stop pouring raw sewage into the ocean, he replied that this will be up to the Pollution Control Board.

BELOW STANDARDS

"They might accept that as suitable for a period. But if there were 2,000,000 people in Victoria the situation might be different."

Last year's Greater Victoria sewerage report says with the possible exception of the Finnerty Cove outfall in Saanich, existing outfalls are not capable of providing sufficient dilution to meet Pollution Control Board standards.

There are at least 23 major sewer outfalls to the sea, but only two of them — Finnerty Cove and Clover Point — comminute sewage.

OVER 50 YEARS

The report recommended a $23.5 million trunk line and outfall plan over the next 50 years. The Capital Region District is moving to implement this.

The report said substantial outfall lengths are required, with or without treatment. It concluded that on the south and east coasts "treatment is uneconomic and unnecessary."

Chlorination was not considered because, while achieving a suitable coliform level at the shoreline, it would not safeguard the aesthetic characteristics of the waterfront.

It recommended comminution for all marine outfalls discharging raw sewage. This will aid in dispersal of solid material and minimize aesthetic nuisance.

The president of the Victoria Home Builders Association, Jim McLaren, welcomed any government move which will open up more sewered lots for home buyers.

The lack of sewered lots was one reason why houses have moved beyond the financial means of the average person.

Land prices were up in some cases by 100 per cent over the last few years and there is hardly any sewered land left for building new homes on.

More sewered land for new houses should stabilize high mortgage rates, helping to bring houses back within reach of most people, he said.

Lull in Winds Helps Control Forest Fire

The Sproat Lake fire was being contained today as a lull in the wind allowed firefighters to strengthen their guards.

The blaze, which has bared 6,000 acres in the past 10 days, quieted down overnight, partly choked by its own dense smoke.

One fear is that winds may strengthen over the weekend, fanning the flames across tree tops and breaching the fire guards.

Cyclist Rides On Hot Seat

David James Boone, 19, pulled off the Pat Bay Highway to discover a short circuit in the motorcycle's tail light had ignighted his sleeping bag and duffle bag.

The blaze was extinguished and there was only minor damage.

Full Light At McKenzie Promised

In a letter to Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, the department said it hopes to proceed with a new light "in the near future."

The work could not be done until the road is widened to allow for left-turn slots and the highways department also hopes to do this in the "near future".

At present there is a flashing red-and-amber light and Reeve Curtis was warned a serious accident will occur. The intersection is a provincial and not a municipal responsibility.

"This is very good," commented Reeve Curtis, "in that the need for a signal is admitted and action is to be taken on it.

"The need has been apparent for some time. I hope 'near future" means as soon as possible."

Q. What is Prince Rupert's Centennial project? B.N.

A. A $130,000 nine-hole golf course.

Q. How are the fog signals switched on at Trial and Chatham Islands? F.D.B.

A. A lighthouse keeper switches on the Trial Island signal. There is no fog signal on Chatham Island but there is one on neighboring Discovery Island which is switched on by the light keeper at the Discovery station.

Memorial to Indian Chief Suggested for C. Saanich

The Tsartlip chief, who was internationally known as a wrestler and did much to promote sports in Saanich, died in November, 1966.

The Brentwood Women's Institute has suggested that a tree be planted in Centennial Park in memory of the chief, but today a well-known artist suggested a wood sculpture instead.

A. D. J. Pitts, 959 Mount Newton Cross Road, said "if we do something, let's do something worthwhile."

He suggested that a local artist be commissioned to make a wood sculpture for erection in front of the municipal hall.

"Our municipal hall has been attractively landscaped," he said. "But it needs something to make it stand out."

He felt an artist could be found to undertake the project at a reasonable price. Organizations and the municipality could be asked to contribute towards the project.

Mrs. J. M. Burwood, president of the Women's Institute, said Mr. Pitts had put forward an "imaginative proposal."

"As an individual I'm all in favor of it," she said.

The matter will be brought up at the September meeting, she said.

She noted that the Tsartlip band at Brentwood is commemorating his memory by putting up a Chief Thunderbird trophy as a major prize in a fishing derby to be held Sunday.

"The chief did a lot for charity—not only for his own people but also for white charitable causes," she said. "We also should do something as he was truly an outstanding man."

Jean Barthet of the Chambre Syndicale De La Mode Parisienne is enthusiastic about the helmet as an important millinery silhouette of the coming season. He uses striped jersey with a matching scarf to illustrate the three-colored look.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Look to Youth for Hat Themes

Will you be ready at the beginning of September to move into fall fashion?

Your first step may well be a new chapeau . . . the transition millinery is most exciting.

Damaske

Many of the shapes are familiar ones but, for the woman who is ready to accept the newest look of millinery, the Chambre Syndicale de la Mode Parisienne brings a fresh look.

The theme of the season is youth, expressed vividly in the young helmets shown by St. Laurent and Jean Barthet, the zippy, roll-brimmed padre hats of Christian Dior and Givenchy, and the forward-reaching visor caps endorsed by nearly every millinery designer.

While influenced by youth, the hats themselves are extremely wearable by women of all ages, because of their head-fitting silhouettes and lack of gadgetry.

The general fashion silhouette has changed very little for the coming season and this means that excitement and interest will be brought about by outstanding accessories. The tamed color of fall and winter costumes will be highlighted by the pure singing color of the new millinery.

Hats will bring a coat, suit or costume to life, making of it a more important whole.

Many hats will be "fit-to-be-tied". Head-hugging helmets and wide-brimmed "Aussie and Anzac" shapes will be tied under the chin or under one ear.

Many helmets will have the clean architectural shaping of the coming season.

The beret, a perennial favorite, is with us again but this year it is often shown with a softly rounded peak over the forehead. Velvet plays a big part in the fall beret scene.

The large back of the head roller remains a favorite and shapes to a femininely flattering chapeau in wisp-weight felt. The simple dome shape returns but in a more restrained manner. The very high crowned dome has been replaced by the dome which more closely follows the line of the head. Many of the helmets and new domes are multi-colored with large squares or wide stripes in three color combinations.

TWIGGY TELLS NAME'S ORIGIN

MONTREAL (CP) — "He used to call me Twiggy because I was so thin and I used to get annoyed."

The five-foot six-inch, 92-pound fashion model laughed as she explained at a Montreal press conference Wednesday how her manager, Justin de Villeneuve, christened her with the now-famous nickname.

Twiggy wore a short North American Indian-style dress of burgundy antelope with cutouts at the shoulders and midriff as she idly nibbled at her fingernails and answered reporters' questions.

The 17-year-old cockney said she receives several fan letters from "moms" who scold Justin.

"They say he's starving me," she giggled.

Could This Man Be Your Husband?

By DOROTHY FRASER

Earlier this summer a man we'll call John Jones, age 39, was busy mowing his lawn when suddenly he was seized by an agonizing pain in his chest . . . so excrutiating that he collapsed. Rushed to one of our big city hospitals, where a coronary attack was diagnosed, he was treated and seemed to be recovering . . . yet within three days, John Jones died . . . due to lack of equipment which could summon help, keep his heart beating when it began fibrillating. He was one of some 80 Victorians who die UNNECESSARILY each year in hospital from coronary attacks. Think of it . . . this young man, breadwinner and father of a young family . . . might have been YOUR husband! This needless loss of life from heart attacks is now about to be cut in half through the setting up in both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee Hospitals of Intensive Coronary Care complexes with sophisticated electronic equipment that will monitor heart beats . . . keep failing hearts alive far faster than humans could spring into action . . . at a time when every second counts. Some of this equipment has already arrived . . . and is responsible for saving a life within the past weeks. The Victoria Kiwanis Club, as its centennial project, has undertaken to raise money for the purchase of this electronic equipment, and is asking you to help NOW! If every adult reader of this item gave only $1 . . . the cost of this heart-saving equipment would easily be met! So please be generous . . . remember, the heart you save may be your own! Cowans-Cogger Vows . . .

. . . Heard at White Rock

MAINLAND HOME FOR NEWLYWEDS

When they return from a honeymoon trip touring the Sechelt Peninsula, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lindsay Cowans will be making their home in New Westminster.

The bride, the former Maureen Adele Cogger, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cogger of White Rock and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Cowans, 1083 Joan Crescent, Victoria.

Star of the Sea Church in White Rock was decorated with white gladioli and daisies this afternoon for the service conducted by Fr. Joseph Franks. During the ceremony, organist Capt. J. Crowe played "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of daisy-patterned lace over peau de soie. Fashioned on empire lines, the bodice featured short puffed sleeves. A dainty tiara of pearl daisies held her shoulder-length veil and she carried yellow daisies and gypsophila in her bouquet.

Street-length dresses of burnished orange crystalline over taffeta, also fashioned on empire lines, were worn by the bride's attendants. Their bouquets of white daisies and ivy matched the flowers they wore in their hair.

Best man was Michael Wilson and ushering the guests were Stephen Dyer and Randall Cowans.

A two-piece suit of white wool, topped with a coat in pastel tweed, was the choice of the bride for travelling. Her hat was in turban style and accessories were black patent.

Furniture Scratched? Try These Tiny Felts

By PENNY SAVER

It has always been a great mystery to me how furniture gets scratched. We have four tables in various spots in the living room, and two of them have only vases standing on them. The goblins must come out and dance on them at night, because they have scratches aplenty. The other tables and shelves have a better excuse—they are littered with knick-knacks, lamps, ashtrays and bowls. A couple of these tables have just been refinished and I'm hoping that the goblins will keep their distance and not scratch them too.

I've now found a dandy little item that saves furniture surfaces. These are small self-sticking felt pads that you can put on the base of a lamp, on ashtrays, figurines, vases or planters to keep them from leaving a mark. Put four or five of these little stickers on your table ornaments and you should never have any problems. A card of 24 of them is priced at 25 cents.

We have two large den walls which look awfully bare without pictures to cover up the vast blank area. We put all kinds of pictures up there—magazine photos, maps, charts, a calendar—things that are inexpensive and easy to hang. Then, when we get tired of them, we simply change them . . . presto—a new decor.

If you want to hang any pictures or maps in your home you'll find paper hangers will help. These will hold any papers, and all you have to do is just moisten the gummed back, and attach to the paper. You can buy a package of 10 of these for 15 cents.

Please give me a call at 382-3131 if you'd like to know where I shopped for these items.

Plan Picnic At Eagles' Park

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Victoria Lodge No. 2, will gather at Eagles' Park near Elk Lake, Sunday afternoon, for a picnic. The annual affair begins at 1 p.m. and is open to all lodge members, Order of the Royal Purple members and their families.

RCMP Suspect Foul Play

BURNABY, (CP)—RCMP are investigating the possibility of foul play following the discovery of a body in a bush-covered trail.

Police said the body of Kenneth Victor Livingstone, 29, was apparently carried to the spot where it was found by two youths.

"There were no marks on the body, but we are treating the case as one of foul play until it is proven otherwise," a police spokesman said.

B.C. Man Charged in Shooting

BURNABY (CP) — James Morris Tokarek, 25, of Burnaby has been charged with attempted murder following a shooting incident early today.

Donald William McLaren, 29, is reported in fair condition in Vancouver General Hospital suffering from gunshot wounds to the chest.

High Jump Record Tumbles

OTTAWA (CP)—Wilf Wedman, 19-year-old Simon Fraser University student, smashed the Canadian native high jump record today with a leap of six feet, eight inches at the Canadian junior track and field championships.

Wedman's mark was three-quarters of an inch above the native record set by Ken Money at the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne, Australia, and was 2¼ inches over the Canadian junior mark which Wedman set last year.

Egyptian Jet Gunned Down

TEL AVIV (AP)—A Soviet-made Egyptian Sukhoi-7 jet plane was shot down by Israeli anti-aircraft fire over Bir Gafgafa in the Sinai Peninsula today, an Israeli army spokesman announced.

The announcement said two Sukhoi-7s penetrated Israeli-held Sinai at low level. The second Sukhoi returned to Egypt.

Junior Golf Title Goes East

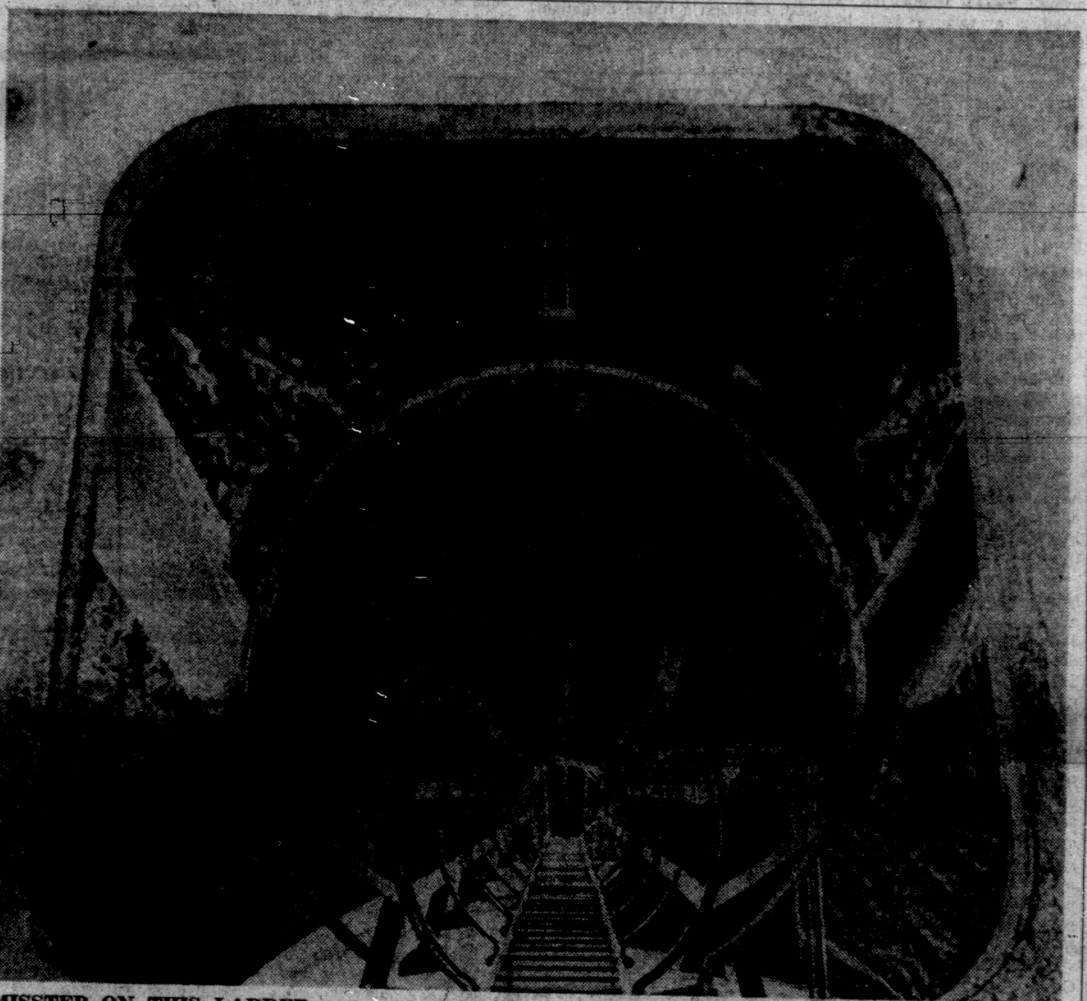
Separatists in Attack On Confederation Train



MISSTEP ON THIS LADDER means a 100-foot drop straight down glory hole aboard offshore oil drilling platform visited by the Times Friday. Marchand Angry As Eggs Tossed

MONTREAL (CP)—About 20 self-styled separatists, tossing eggs and leaflets and shouting separatist slogans, today broke up a ceremony marking the arrival of the Confederation train at surburban Dorval.

It was the first time since the train started out from Western Canada in the winter that there has been a direct attack on it.

The youths began throwing leaflets calling for a "free Quebec" just as Manpower Minister Marchand began speaking. Minutes after three eggs crashed to the platform.

One youth was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace. He ran in front of the platform and tossed leaflets high into the air before being bustled off by police.

On the platform with Mr. Marchand were Bobby Gimby, composer of the song Ca-na-da, and a group of children.

In another incident, a young woman dressed in a green dress grabbed about 50 pamphlets describing the history and the purpose of the train, tore them up and threw the pieces into the crowd of several hundred people.

SLOGANS SUNG

During the singing of O Canada the youths, gathered to one side of the platform, sang out their own slogans. One slogan clearly heard was: "Les Quebecois marchent a sa victoire"—The people of Quebec are marching to victory.

The disturbance began as the group of dignitaries assembled on the platform shortly after 11 a.m.

The leaflets were scattered as Mr. Marchand finished congratulating the city of Dorval on its 300th anniversary. He reacted with angry outbursts, each of them greeted by cheers from the group of youths.

After the manpower minister declared the 15-unit train open to the public, Mr. Gimby and the children stepped to the main area of the stage and began singing the famous song.

Nazi Party Will Bury Rockwell

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Nazi Party said today it would bury its assassinated leader George Lincoln Rockwell in a U.S. military cemetery at Culpeper, Va.

(See also page 3)

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A former Nazi firebrand accused of slaying George Lincoln Rockwell was held under heavy police guard today while Rockwell's body lay unclaimed in hospital.

An autopsy showed Rockwell, 49, founder and leader of the American Nazi party, was killed by a bullet wound in the chest.

Five hours after the shooting in the parking lot of a small shopping centre, police filed a murder charge against John C. Patler, 29, formerly No. 4 in the small party's hierarchy.

Officials said Patler, who is being held on $50,000 bond, has received no visitors.

M[illegible]hile, Rockwell's heir apparent vowed "we will carry on."

Matthias Koehl, second in command to Rockwell, told reporters: "I don't know of anyone who can fill his shoes . . . but we'll all do everything we can to carry on."

Koehl said Patler was expelled from the party last April because of his "Bolshevik leanings." He had been a member of the group which directs its hate toward Negroes and Jews, almost since its founding in 1958.

EDITED MAGAZINE

Rockwell once described Patler as the party's propaganda minister and Patler edited the organization's magazine Stormtrooper until early this year.

Patler, also of Arlington, was to appear in court Monday to determine the date of his preliminary hearing.

Rockwell was shot after leaving a coin-operated laundry in the shopping centre, one block from party headquarters. The shots, fired from a low roof over a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car.

Most Powerful Rocket Poised

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Saturn V, the most powerful rocket ever built, moved today toward its launching pad on the back on a diesel-powered transporter that resembled a giant mechanical turtle.

The rocket is scheduled for an October test launching, the first of a series that will qualify it to boost U.S. astronauts towards the moon in two or three years.

Towering 364-feet above the huge transport the Saturn and its Apollo spacecraft were an impressive sight. More than 200 space officials and reporters gathered to see it moved from the huge assembly building. Also perched upright on the transporter was a 380-foot mobile launching tower to service the rocket.

When the rocket leaves the ground, it will generate 7,500,000 pounds of thrust from five first-stage engines. This is nearly five times greater than the thrust of any previous U.S. booster and is believed to be at least twice the thrust of anything fired by the Russians.

23 Africans Slain In Rhodesia Battle

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Rhodesian security forces have killed 23 African terrorists and captured 26 more in three days of fierce fighting north of Bulawayo, Rhodesia's second largest city, the government announced today.

The communique, first official word on renewed outbreak of terrorist fighting, said Rhodesian forces suffered six killed and 12 wounded in the action.

The communique disclosed jet planes had been used against the terrorists, members of banned nationalist organizations which have vowed to overthrow the regime of Premier Ian Smith of Rhodesia and other white-ruled governments in Africa.

The government statement gave no indication of the size of the terrorist forces. Reports reaching Salisbury said it numbered more than 100.

IDAHO FIRES APPROACHING 'DISASTER'

Fires continued to rage out of control in the U.S. Pacific Northwest's timberlands today in what Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson said may develop into one of the area's worst forest fire disasters in more than 50 years.

Samuelson, who summoned legislative leaders to an emergency meeting in Boise today, said tinder-dry forest conditions were similar to those of 1910 "when north Idaho was practically burned up."

The governor estimated it was costing Idaho $150,000 per day to put out the fires, "and the outlook seems to grow more gloomy every day."

Dief Youth Primed For Convention Bid

By The Canadian Press

With less than 10 days to go, things seem to be warming up for the Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention.

While the nine declared candidates were on the road, youthful supporters of undeclared John Diefenbaker served notice that they plan a demonstration for the party leader.

And, if they are not permitted to make it on the convention floor, as provided in the convention rules, "we'll ring the Maple Leaf Gardens," said Keith Martin, co-chairman of the Youth for Diefenbaker committee.

"We are determined to have some kind of demonstration whether Mr. Diefenbaker runs or not."

But he and colleague Bill Hatton said they'll keep their precise plans for a demonstration secret.

Meanwhile, the leadership candidates were scattered in every region of the country.

They'll be moving into Toronto toward the end of next week to campaign among delegates attending policy session Sept. 4-6 and the leadership contest Sept. 7-9.

Gene Rheaume, convention executive secretary, announced that the 2,343 voting delegates may be swelled to 2,450 with the addition of some participants in the recent Montmorency Falls, Que., policy advisory conference held by the party as a convention prelude.

Among the candidates, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba did some heavy road work in eastern Ontario, appearing at a press conference in Ottawa then hitting Cornwall, Smiths Falls and Kingston in search of delegate support.

At each point, Mr. Roblin stressed the need for national unity, a system of spending priorities to curb runaway taxation, and a shift to helping those in real need rather than helping everyone through universal welfare programs.

Mr. Fulton said that if he

Former Greek Minister Faces Trial

ATHENS (Reuters) — Andreas Papandreou, a former government minister, tonight was committed for trial on charges of high treason by an Athens court, it was reliably learned.

Andreas, son of George Papandreou, leader of the Union of the Centre party and a former premier, was accused of being involved in the "Aspida"—the Shield—plot.

He was first accused and jailed April 26, a few days after the military takeover in Greece.

The indictment, issued after months of investigation, also charged 10 other civilians.

Japan Wins Little League Ball Crown

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Japan won the Little League world series for the first time in the 21-year history of the annual classic for small fry with a 4-1 victory today over North Roseland of Chicago.

Masahiro Miyahara, a 104-pound right-hander who pitched a one-hit shutout in the first game of the series, won his second game, allowing only three hits and an earned run.

'BE COOL, CALM AND GRACEFUL'

Hippies Bow to Park Ban

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

The Victoria Youth Council has urged young people to stay away from Beacon Hill Park Sunday following a 5-2 decision by city council banning a proposed love-in.

At a special meeting Friday, the council supported the stand taken earlier by acting-mayor Robert Baird and rejected a youth council request to hold the event.

The love-in was to have been the climax of youth week—seven days of forums, meetings, paint-ins, clean-ins and discussion planned to increase dialogue within the community.

A youth council statement published Friday night counselled youngsters to stay away from the park on Sunday.

"No, Virginia, there isn't a love-in Sunday," the statement said. "But be cool and calm and graceful,

"Let's not be guilty of the same intolerance our aldermen demonstrated today.

"If we show up in dozens or in hundreds we'll only antagonize people."

Ald. Stewart said the question was one of "fair play."

"I am not a hippy, nor do I subscribe to their way of life. But this matter is more involved than that."

"We are discussing what council's decision should be when any duly constituted group makes a request.

"If we are going to reject their application because of bias and prejudice, then we have gone a long way back to the dark ages."

Ald. Stewart, who attached several conditions to his motion to approve the request, said he was confident the young people would not only observe all the laws, but would not spoil other events in the park.

Ald. Wilson made a brief statement supporting the request.

"The park, as all parks in the city, should be available to all people."

Other council members were unyielding in their opposition.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he was against the love-in because the symphony concert had been planned for some time, although according to Ald. Stewart, parks administrator Herbert Warren said both events could be held without any clash.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay opposed the love-in and went further:

"Possibly we need stronger bylaws regarding loitering, littering and vagrancy," he said, referring to hippies' use of Centennial and Bastion Squares.

Ald. Cecil Parrott suggested there was more to the application than was obvious.

"There is something perhaps more than we know. If the youth council is connected in any way with these people

Only One Week Remains To Enter Photo Contest

This contest has seven days.

Amateur photographers have only one week left in which to enter The Times snapshot contest to compete for travel and cash prizes.

Sixth of the seven weekly contests closed at noon today and the final week ends Sept. 2.

Winners of $10 prizes in the three categories, People of the World, Birds and Animals of the World, and the World in Which We Live, will be named early next week.

At the end of the seventh week, judges will take the seven weekly winners in each category and select three who will be awarded $25 prizes and also chances at the big prizes.

First prize is a trip around the world for two for 30 days with $1,000 in spending money.

Other travel prizes include trips for two, with spending money, to Europe, Mexico, Hawaii and the West Indies.

In addition there are seven $100 prizes for Canadians who aren't lucky enough to win travel prizes and there's a special $200 prize for the best Canadian print submitted.

Only black and white prints by amateurs are acceptable. Prints should be no more than 10 inches long on the largest dimension.

INSIDE CITY HALL

By JIM HUME

Then there was the long-haired, bare-foot fellow who got whipped but still wouldn't change his views on society and life in general.

Hume

He wasn't a hippy because he also believed that at the end of a long day a man should be clean.

He wasn't a hippy because he also believed that a man should actively — and that's a key word—strive for the principles in which he believed.

He Was Different

But he was different, and he was rejected by the organized, law-abiding councils of men.

He was rejected because he was different, because he could not, even in his wildest imagination, subscribe to the generally accepted way of life.

He wore a beard and had long hair over his shoulders.

That did't upset people too much.

What did upset them was that he insisted on challenging the accepted way of life. Once or twice, maybe more than that, he called the law makers hypocrites.

Now we all know that people, however right they may be, just cannot do that. After all if people are entrusted with making the law they must be right.

So this fellow we're talking about ran into trouble with the law and the law makers.

Not that he was ever defeated in open argument with those who made the law. As a matter of fact in the few recorded show-downs he had with them he won hands down.

Inevitable Happened

They couldn't answer him, but neither were they prepared to admit that their concept of law and order should be changed.

The inevitable happened.

Organized society and the non-conformist clashed.

The young fellow, he was about 32 years of age at the time, was asked if he would like to do an about face and, well, to put it politely, fit in with accepted views.

He not only wouldn't, but also refused to stop preaching what amounted to open rebellion against the rules of society then in existence.

So, on a trumped-up charge, they dragged him into court.

That the court was illegally constituted, that the witnesses against him were paid to testify, didn't really matter. The point was they had to get him off the streets. He and his handful of followers. They were a nuisance, disturbing to conscience and, damn it, they wouldn't conform.

No problems at the trial. Asked to recant, he refused. A simple matter, therefore, to find him guilty.

Then they had him whipped, these law abiding, sanctimonious citizens who believed in the good, Godly way of life.

Too Much

They were not unreasonable men, neither were they lacking in charity. At any time during the whipping he could, by simply saying he was sorry and would now walk their chosen path, have halted the lash.

But he wouldn't change.

As a matter of fact he was a very sad man. He believed in what he was saying, and unlike some of the law makers, could not violate his principles just to be popular.

So he took his whipping without a murmur. But he refused to change his thinking or his beliefs.

And that was a little too much for the council.

So they crucified him.

Britons Attempt To Leave Peking

LONDON — Britain's charge d'affairs in Peking, Donald Hopson, is trying to arrange for the 35 British women and children belonging to the mission to be flown out of China.

He has already sent a message to the foreign office in London saying that he is trying to make airline reservations. It is presumed that he has applied to the Chinese authorities for exit visas, which are needed by anyone leaving the country.

It seems certain that the only way of leaving Peking is by air. The Chinese authorities are never very willing to let diplomats travel by train, as it would enable them to see too much of the country and its people. In the present state of internal chaos, train travel would be out of the question.

The best air route out of Peking is by way of Moscow. This was the route Soviet diplomats and their families were using recently, when they were assaulted and insulted at Peking airport.

Hopson has not been able to establish direct contact with the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs. He is operating from a temporary office in the diplomatic compound, but he and members of his staff have been able to visit his damaged residence and the completely burnt-out mission.

The diplomatic compound is now under police guard. There is normally only a small guard there, whose main duty is to prevent friendly Chinese from visiting British and other foreign diplomats living in the compound.

Bear Mauls Two

CHOTEAU, Mont. (UPI) — A rampaging black bear mauled two teen-aged campers Friday 60 miles southeast of Glacier National Park where grizzlies killed two coeds. Neither youth was seriously injured.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The disturbance which has kept cloud and rainshowers in the north coast and parts of the northern B.C. now shows signs of moving southward and is forecast to lie across southern Vancouver Island by Sunday evening. This will spread cloud into the south coast and the central interior with possibly a few showers.

Otherwise areas ahead of the system under the influence of a weakening high pressure ridge will remain sunny and warm into Sunday. Temperatures are cooler behind the disturbance.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half mile from the scene. Police would not say whether a weapon had been found or whether he had made a statement.

Patler often was in the forefront of Nazi party harassing activities and it brought him a long string of arrests.

Patler once wrote: "I learned early that the only way you can stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

CALLED HIMSELF RACIST

That might sum up Rockwell's philosophy too. Rockwell, in lectures at college campuses, said often, "I am a racist."

Remarks made by Rockwell in 1962 during a visit to Sherbrooke, Que., and Montreal brought strong protests from the Jewish community. The Canadian government barred him from further visits, although he managed to slip into Canada again in 1964 for a trip to Vancouver.

Rockwell, who idolized Adolf Hitler, advocated "transporting all Negroes to Africa, stripping Jews of property and sterilizing them."

He was in the U.S. Navy in the Second World War and during the Korean War and attained the rank of commander before he was released from active duty in 1954. The navy discharged him from the reserves in 1960 because of his conduct.

Rockwell refused to say how many members were in the party, but knowledgeable people said it has fewer than 100 members.

Rockwell was the son of George (Doc) Rockwell, an old-time vaudevillian who played on Fred Allen's radio show.

Early today, his body still lay unclaimed at the county hospital, although a police lieutenant said party members and some relatives had made inquiries.

JUVENILE SMIRKS IRK JUDGE

PROSSER, Wash. (AP) —A Benton county superior court judge has ruled here that any youth over 14 years of age charged with taking part in fights involving large groups will automatically be transferred from juvenile court to superior court.

Judge John T. Day made the ruling after three consecutive witnesses brought before him in a disturbance in Prosser refused to answer questions.

"The smirks on the faces of these six-foot-tall, 180-pound youths is enough to sicken any person required to uphold the law," judge Day said.

leads his party back to power he'll try to modify but not abolish the medical care insurance plan scheduled to come into effect July 1, 1968.

He maintained creative Canadians are restrained by policies of the Liberal government. Canadians who achieved security by their own efforts also had it guaranteed by the government.

"But the Canadian caught in the web of poverty remains ensnared, lacking the education, the income, the assistance or the incentives to escape.

"He too is secure — But it is the security of a slave."

Mr. Hamilton told a combined press conference and delegate reception that he opposes special status for Quebec, saying: "I cannot see how we can have a constitution giving any particular treatment to any particular section of Canada."

"The pseudo-nationalist's bugbear of foreign control of the Canadian economy is merely an emotional football," he said.

"We must accept that the economics of the 20th century is worldwide in scope and is a fabric woven of interdependent relationships."

STRESS UNITY

He said in an interview the role of party leader should not be interpreted in terms of one man. It should be in the terms of a national team which can command the confidence of Canadians.

George Hees and Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia were touring in Western Canada.

Mr. Hees said in Vancouver he'll be Canada's next prime minister. He predicts he'll carry Quebec and the West at the Sept. 9 vote in Toronto. The West's "favorite son" Candidates — Fulton, Roblin and Hamilton — would drop out as ballotting progresses.

in the Square, then we should be concerned."

The youth council's statement was distributed at a colorful "happening" in Bastion Square Friday night. While the Double Breasted Galvanized Jazz Whistle Jug Band performed, the message circulated among the several hundred in attendance.

The note requested youngsters to refrain from holding the love-in despite the city council's ruling. It also called Ald. Stewart's stand "courageous" and urged young people not to cross him by provoking more trouble.

"A love-in is a celebration of life. Let's affirm that life by leaving the people and the park alone this Sunday and show we shall do unto others . . . and by our example show a better way to live."

Bus Plunge Kills 35

LIMA, Peru (Reuters)—Thirty-five persons were killed and 28 seriously injured today when a bus in which they were travelling plunged over a 425-foot precipice in Yanahuanca province, 250 miles east of here.

Counter Attack

LAGOS (Reuters)—Nigerian federal troops today appeared poised to push secessionist Biafran troops from the strategic Western Nigerian town of Ore which they overran earlier this week.

U.S. SAILOR JAILED

SANDBANK, Scotland (Reuters)—An American sailor was sentenced today to six months hard labor after a U.S. court martial found him guilty of passing an official document to two British civilians.

The court martial also ordered the shipfitter Garry Lee Ledbetter, 25, a member of the Polaris submarine depot ship Simon Lake, stationed at Holy Loch, be given a bad-conduct discharge from the U.S. Navy.

Prosecutor Lieut. Jean E. Van Slater said the document was a training booklet containing confidential navy information.
